PAUL DAVID WASHER

"As expected, Paul Washer is a faithful guide through the key gospel doctrines in Discovering the Glorious Gospel. Here you will find faithful exegetical and theological explanation as well as helpful, guided questions and Scripture readings. This will be a very helpful tool for individual or group study, enabling people to delve more deeply into the glorious truths of who God is and how He has graciously acted to save us."

— Ray Van Neste, Professor at Union University, Contributor to the ESV Study Bible

"Paul Washer's book Discovering the Glorious Gospel is like a gust of fresh air from heaven. Firstly, it is a workbook that challenges us to get into the Bible and learn the soul-nourishing truths of the gospel for ourselves. Paul Washer uses the rich concepts of the Bible to bring out the contours of the person and work of Christ until the gospel stands out like the awe-inspiring Mt. Everest. Secondly, this book takes us back to the foundational reason why God saves the way He does through the gospel: in order to glorify Himself. The book starts with the divine dilemma, and after all is said and done it leaves us on our knees worshiping the exalted God of grace and justice. If you want to know why the gospel is the greatest truth of all time, buy this book and study it with an open Bible in your hands!"

— Conrad Mbewe, Pastor of Kabwata Baptist Church, Author of Foundations for the Flock

"The gospel of Jesus Christ is the remarkably good news that God sent His Son into the world so that 'the world might be saved through Him.' In Discovering the Glorious Gospel, Paul Washer carefully considers many beautiful gospel truths that are often overlooked. Paul serves as an excellent guide through the Scriptures as he unveils these wonderful realities."

— Anthony R. Mathenia, Pastor of Christ Church – Radford, Contributor to Behold Your God

Introduction

METHOD OF STUDY

The great goal of this study is for the student to have an encounter with God through His Word. Founded upon the conviction that the Scriptures are the inspired and infallible Word of God, this study has been designed in such a way that it is literally impossible for the student to advance without an open Bible before him or her. The goal is to help the reader obey the exhortation of the Apostle Paul in II Timothy 2:15:

“Be diligent to present yourself approved to God as a workman who does not need to be ashamed, accurately handling the word of truth.”

Each chapter deals with a specific aspect of the gospel of Jesus Christ. The student will complete each chapter by answering the questions and following the instructions according to the Scriptures given. The student is encouraged to meditate upon each text and write his or her thoughts. The benefit gained from this study will depend upon the student’s investment. If the student answers the questions thoughtlessly, merely copying the text without seeking to understand its meaning, this book will be of very little help.

Discovering the Glorious Gospel is primarily a biblical study and does not contain much in the way of colorful illustrations, quaint stories, or even theological commentaries. It was the desire of the author to provide a work that simply points the way to the Scriptures and allows the Word of God to speak for itself.

This workbook may be used by an individual, in a small group, for a Sunday school class, or in other contexts. It is highly recommended that the student complete each chapter on his or her own before meeting for discussion and questions with the group or discipleship leader.

EXHORTATION TO THE STUDENT

The student is encouraged to study biblical doctrine and discover its exalted place in the Christian life. The true Christian cannot bear or even survive a divorce between the emotions and the intellect or between devotion to God and the doctrine of God. According to the Scriptures, neither our emotions nor our experiences provide an adequate foundation for the Christian life. Only the truths of Scripture, understood with the mind and communicated through doctrine, can provide that sure foundation upon which we should establish our beliefs and our behavior and determine the validity of our emotions and experiences. The mind is not the enemy of the heart, and doctrine is not an obstacle to devotion. The two are indispensable and should be inseparable. The Scriptures command us to love the Lord our God with all our heart, with all our soul, and with all our mind (Matthew 22:37) and to worship God both in spirit and in truth (John 4:24).

The study of doctrine is both an intellectual and devotional discipline. It is a passionate search for God that should always lead the student to greater personal transformation, obedience, and heartfelt worship. Therefore, the student should be on guard against the great error of seeking only impersonal knowledge instead of the person of God. Neither mindless devotion nor mere intellectual pursuits are profitable, for in either case, God is lost.

THE ENGLISH STANDARD VERSION

The English Standard Version is required to complete this study. This is an accurate translation that has become the Bible of choice for millions of Christians around the globe. This workbook is also available for use with the New American Standard Bible (heartcrymissionary.com/books).

A WORD FROM THE AUTHOR

The death and resurrection of Jesus Christ is the center of human history, the greatest story ever told, and the subject of angelic contemplation (I Peter 1:12). When proclaimed with biblical fidelity, it is the power of God for salvation to everyone who believes (Romans 1:16) and the great source and motivation of all true piety (I Timothy 3:16). When its message is distorted, it brings death to the hearers and the gravest of curses to the one who proclaims it (Galatians 1:6-9). For these reasons and many others, the Christian should consider his or her study of the gospel to be a primary and lifelong task. This workbook was designed and written with these things in mind.

I would like to thank my wife Charo for her constant support and my four children (Ian, Evan, Rowan, and Bronwyn), who continue to be a great delight. I would also like to thank HeartCry staff member Forrest Hite for his diligent and meticulous editing of the several different manuscripts that he has received. His contributions to the arrangement and overall readability of this work are as significant as they are appreciated. My thanks also are extended to the entire staff at HeartCry, who have been a great encouragement throughout the process of this book's publication.

ADDITIONAL NOTE

You may have noticed that this book is being sold at a strange price. Here's why: one dollar ($) from every copy sold will go directly to fund mission work through HeartCry Missionary Society (heartcrymissionary.com). The rest of the sale price is just enough to cover the cost of printing, publication, and distribution. The author is not profiting from the sale of this book, nor has he profited from the sale of any other book. Over the years, we have utilized and explored many avenues in order to publish these workbooks. Ultimately, we have reached the conclusion that doing so in-house at a low cost, even with slightly lower quality, is the most effective way of getting these useful tools into the hands of as many people across the globe as possible. We hope and pray that the Lord continues to use these books to point His people to His Word unto the edification of His Church.

Chapter 1: The Divine Dilemma and the Gospel

In the Scriptures, we learn that God is holy; righteous; and deserving of all love, reverence, and obedience. We also learn that man, though created good, has corrupted himself, defied God's law, and exposed himself to divine judgment. In this study, we will discover the marvelous work of God to reconcile fallen man to Himself.

THE DIVINE DILEMMA

The word "dilemma" is defined by Webster's Dictionary as "a situation involving a choice between equally unsatisfactory alternatives" or "a problem seemingly incapable of a satisfactory solution." In the Scriptures, the greatest of all dilemmas is set before us: God is righteous; therefore, He must act according to the strictest rules of justice, acquitting the innocent and condemning the guilty. If He pardons the guilty and does not punish every infraction of His law and every act of disobedience, then He is unjust. However, if He does act with justice toward every man—if He gives to every man exactly what he deserves—then all men will be condemned. How can God be just and yet show mercy to those who ought to be condemned? To rephrase the words of the Apostle Paul in Romans 3:26 as a question:

How can God be just and the justifier of sinful men?

WHY CAN'T GOD JUST FORGIVE?

A person might ask, "Why can't God simply forgive man's sin and be done with it? The Scriptures command us to freely forgive, so why would it be wrong for God to do the same?" The answer to this question is three-fold.

First, God is not like us, but is of infinitely greater worth than all of His creation combined. Therefore, it is not only right but also necessary for Him to both seek His own glory and defend it. Because of who He is, even the slightest form of rebellion is a grotesque offense to His person, a crime of highest treason, and worthy of the strictest censure. For Him to allow any offense against His person to go unpunished would be a two-fold injustice: 1) He would do injustice to His own person by denying Himself the glory that rightfully belongs to Him as God; and 2) He would do injustice to His creation by allowing it to deny the very reason for its own existence (i.e. the glory of God) and to run headlong into futility. If this is too difficult for modern man to accept, it is only because he has such a low view of God.

Secondly, God cannot simply forgive man's sin and be done with it because there are no contradictions in His character. The Scriptures teach that God is perfect (without contradiction) in all His attributes and works. Therefore, He will always act in a way that is perfectly consistent with all that He is. He will not exalt one attribute at the expense of another, nor will He deny one aspect of His character in order to manifest another. He is loving, compassionate, and longsuffering; however, He is also holy, righteous, and just in all His works and judgments. He cannot deny His holiness in the name of love, and He cannot ignore His justice in order to exercise mercy. Many well-intentioned evangelists have wrongly taught that instead of being just with sinful man, God has determined to be loving. However, the logical conclusion to this untruth is that God's love is unjust or that He is able to turn His back on His own justice in the name of love. Such a statement betrays an ignorance of God's attributes. The marvel of the gospel is not that God chose love over justice, but that He was able to remain just while granting forgiveness in love.

Thirdly, God is the Judge of all the earth. It is His place to see that justice is done, that evil is punished, and that right is vindicated. It would not be appropriate for the heavenly Judge to pardon the wicked any more than it would be for an earthly judge to pardon the guilty criminal who stands before him in a court of law. Is it not the frequent complaint of many that our justice system is corrupt? Do we not cringe when convicted criminals are pardoned? Should we expect less justice from God than we do from our own judges? It is a well-founded truth that without the enforcement of justice, all nations, peoples, and cultures would run headlong into anarchy and self-destruction. If God ignored His own righteousness; if pardon were granted without the satisfaction of justice; and if there were no final judgment of evil, creation could not bear it.

THE DILEMMA SET FORTH IN THE SCRIPTURES

Possibly the greatest question in all the Scriptures is: "How can God be just and yet show mercy to those who ought to be condemned?" How can He be just and the justifier of sinful men? In the following Scriptures, this divine dilemma will appear with undeniable clarity.

1. In Exodus 23:7 and Romans 4:5, we find excellent examples of the divine dilemma—how can God be just and yet justify the wicked?

a. What does God declare about Himself in Exodus 23:7?

(1) I will not A_____ the W_____.

NOTES: The word "acquit" comes from the Hebrew word tsadeq, which means, "to justify, vindicate, or declare right."

b. How does the Apostle Paul describe God in Romans 4:5?

(1) He who J_____ the U_____.

NOTES: The word "justifies" comes from the Greek verb dikaióō, which means, "to declare right or acquit."

c. How do these two texts together illustrate the divine dilemma?

THE DIVINE DILEMMA AND THE GOSPEL

NOTES: Exodus 23:7 clearly affirms that God will not acquit or justify the guilty, but will act with perfect justice toward him. However, in Romans 4:5, the Scriptures boldly declare the great hope of every believer to be that God justifies the ungodly! How can both statements be true?

2. In Proverbs 17:15 is found one of the most powerful illustrations in all of the Scriptures regarding the divine dilemma.

a. What universal and immutable truth is set forth in Proverbs 17:15?

(1) He who J_____ the W_____ is an
A_____ to the Lord.

NOTES: The word "abomination" comes from the Hebrew word tow`ebah, which denotes something that is abominable, disgusting, or loathsome. It is one of the strongest words in the Hebrew Scriptures!

b. How do the truth revealed in Proverbs 17:15 and the truth that God justifies the ungodly (Romans 4:5) illustrate the divine dilemma?

NOTES: We have previously stated the divine dilemma in the rephrased words of the Apostle Paul: "How can God be just and the justifier of the wicked?" Here the dilemma is restated: "How can God justify the wicked in a way that is not abominable or detestable to His holy and righteous character?"

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

3. In Exodus 34:5-7 is found still another clear example of the divine dilemma. Read the text, and complete the exercises.

a. In verse 7, God makes two seemingly contradictory declarations which powerfully illustrate the divine dilemma. Identify these declarations.

(1) God forgives I _____, and T _____, and S _____.

(2) God will by no means clear the G _____.

b. Explain the dilemma that is illustrated in verse 7.

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: How can both statements be true? The same Scripture that promises pardon for all kinds of sin warns that God will not forgive the guilty or leave him unpunished.

4. To bring this chapter of our study to a close, we will consider one of the most beautiful passages in the entire Bible. In Romans 4:7-8, the Apostle Paul quotes from Psalm 32:1-2. Read over the passage in Romans until you are familiar with its contents, and then answer the following questions.

a. According to Romans 4:7-8, what are the three characteristics of the man who is blessed before God?

(1) His L _____ deeds are F _____ (v.7).

(2) His S _____ are C _____ (v.7).

(3) His S _____ the Lord will not C _____ against him (v.8).

b. What theological difficulties are presented in Romans 4:7-8?

---

NOTES: How can a just God forgive a man's lawless deeds, cover his sin, and not take it into account?

THE DIVINE ANSWER

One of the greatest affirmations of Scripture is that nothing is impossible for God! This truth is most clearly revealed in the manner which God contrived to maintain His righteous character while pardoning sinful men: God became a Man, bore the sins of His people upon the cross, and suffered the divine judgment that was decreed against them. By His suffering and death in the place of His people, God satisfied the demands of His own justice against them and appeased His own wrath toward them so that His mercy toward them might be perfectly consistent with His righteousness.

The grand dilemma—"How can God be just and yet justify the wicked?"—has now been answered in the gospel of Jesus Christ. The same God who in righteousness condemns the wicked became a Man and died in the place of the wicked. God does not ignore, forego, or pervert the demands of His justice in order to justify the wicked; rather, He paid the demands of justice through the suffering and death of the Son of God on Calvary.

Chapter 2: God's Motive for Saving Man

It is appropriate to ask what could have been God's motivation for sending His only begotten Son to die so that sinful men might be saved. In the Scriptures, we discover that God does not save man because of some divine need, or because of man's inherent worth, or because of some noble deed that he might have done. Rather, God was moved to save for the praise of His own glory and for the great love with which He loved us.

One of the most awe-inspiring truths about God is that He is absolutely free from any need. His existence, the fulfillment of His will, and His good pleasure do not depend upon anyone or anything outside of Himself. He is the only Being who is truly self-existent, self-sustaining, self-sufficient, independent, and free. All other beings derive their life and blessedness from God, but all that is necessary for God's existence and perfect happiness is found in Himself. To teach or even suggest that God made man or saves man because He was needy or incomplete is absurd and even blasphemous.

"The God who made the world and everything in it, being Lord of heaven and earth, does not live in temples made by man, nor is He served by human hands, as though He needed anything, since He Himself gives to all mankind life and breath and everything." (Acts 17:24-25; see also Psalm 50:9-12)

One of the most humbling biblical truths about man is that he is absolutely destitute of virtue or merit. Therefore, there is nothing in fallen man that could ever motivate a holy and just God to love him; rather, there is only that which would heap judgment and condemnation upon him. What, then, moved God to send His only begotten Son for the salvation of sinful men? According to the Scriptures, God did so for the praise of His own glory and for the great love with which He loved us.

FOR THE GLORY OF GOD

The Scriptures teach that the creation of the universe, the fall of man, the nation of Israel, the cross of Christ, the Church, and the judgment of the nations all have one great and final purpose—the glory of God. This means that God does all that He does in order that the fullness of all that He is might be revealed to His creation and that He might be esteemed, worshiped, and enjoyed as God.

It is often asked, even by sincere Christians, whether or not it is right for God to act for His own glory. To answer this question, we only need to consider who God is. According to the Scriptures, He is infinitely greater than all of His creation combined. Therefore, it is not only right but also necessary for Him to take the highest place and to make His glory the great reason or chief end of all that He does. It is right for Him to take center stage and to work all things so that His glory (i.e. the fullness of who He is) might be made known to all, with the end that He might be glorified (i.e. esteemed and worshiped) above all. For Him to shun such preeminence would be for Him to deny that He is God. For anyone other than God to seek such preeminence would be the grossest form of idolatry.

GOD'S MOTIVE FOR SAVING MAN

It is extremely important to understand that God does not seek His own glory apart from His creatures' greatest good. In fact, the greatest good that God could ever accomplish for His creatures and the greatest kindness He could ever show them would be to glorify Himself—to direct all things and work in all things so that the fullness of all that He is might be displayed before them. If God is of infinite value, splendor, and beauty, then it follows that the most valuable, most splendid, and most beautiful gift He could ever give to His creatures is the fullest revelation of Himself.

1. According to Romans 11:36, what is the great purpose or "chief end" of all things?

---

---

2. According to the following Scriptures, what is God's motivation for saving His people? Is it their merit or His glory? Match each motivation with its corresponding text.

- |                        |   |
|------------------------|---|
| _____ Psalm 79:9       | a. For His praise.                              |
| _____ Psalm 106:6-8    | b. For the glory of His name.                   |
| _____ Isaiah 48:9      | c. To vindicate the holiness of His great name. |
| _____ Isaiah 63:12     | d. To make an everlasting name for Himself.     |
| _____ Ezekiel 36:22-23 | e. To make His power known.                     |

3. In Jeremiah 33:8-9 is found a text of such beauty and significance that it stands out even among the Scriptures listed above. According to this text, why does God move to save men? Is it because of their merit or for His glory?

---

---

---

---

4. According to the following texts from both the Old and New Testaments, what was the great motive behind God's work of salvation in both Jews and Gentiles?

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

- a. God saved Israel to M_____ himself a N_____ (II Samuel 7:23).
- b. God saved the Gentiles for His N_____ (Acts 15:14).

NOTES: Both of these phrases indicate that God saved man for the sake of His own reputation, honor, and glory.

5. In Ephesians 1:3-14 is found one of the greatest declarations in the Scriptures with regard to the purpose behind God's work of salvation. According to this text, why was God moved to save us? What is the end or great purpose of our salvation?
  - a. God saved us according to the P_____ of His will (v.5). This phrase comes from the Greek word eudokía, which can also be translated, "good pleasure" or "good will."
  - b. God saved us to the P_____ of his G_____ grace (v.6). Our salvation is not the end but the means to the end—that God might be praised for the grace that He has shown His people.
  - c. God saved us to the P_____ of His G_____ (vv.12, 14). The repetition of this phrase serves to emphasize that the ultimate divine purpose in our salvation is the praise of God.

FOR THE LOVE OF HIS PEOPLE

One of the most important declarations in the Scriptures regarding the attributes of God is: "God is love" (I John 4:8). It is through His love for undeserving sinners that He gets the most glory for Himself. Throughout all eternity, God will be worshiped for His unconditional love toward His people. It is a great joy and consolation to know that the God who saves His people for the sake of His name is the same God who saves them for the sake of His love, a love that is beyond both our understanding and language.

It is important that we understand that the coming of the Son to save sinners was in perfect accord with the will of God the Father. We should never think of the Father as a wrathful God who desires the death of the wicked. Neither should we think of the saving work of the Son as something done independently of the Father in order to save us from Him. According to the Scriptures, it was the Father who so loved the world that He sent His Son, not to condemn the world, but that through Him the world might be saved (John 3:16-17). The saving work of the Son is the saving work of the Father. The Son's love for sinners is the perfect reflection of the Father's love for them.

1. According to I John 4:9-10, what is the greatest manifestation of the love of God toward sinful men? How does this text prove that it was not man's merit, but God's love that moved Him to send His Son?

Chapter 3: The Son's Motive for Coming to Save

In this chapter, we will consider those things that moved the Son to lay aside His glory, robe Himself in flesh, and give His life for the salvation of men. We will discover that He did so not because of any merit found in man, but for the glory of His Father, for the great love with which He loved us, and for the joy that was set before Him.

FOR HIS FATHER'S GLORY

After only a cursory study of the life of Christ, it is evident that His greatest passion was to glorify the Father by doing His will. One of the most incomprehensible aspects of the person of Christ is that, although He existed in the very form of God, He did not consider equality with God a thing to be grasped, but willingly and joyfully emptied Himself of divine privilege and became a Man. He was obedient to the Father even to the point of death on a cross (Philippians 2:5-8; Hebrews 10:9). Although there were other motives that moved Christ to offer His life for fallen man, the first and foremost was His all-consuming passion to glorify the Father. In this sense, it may correctly be said that Christ died for God.

1. In Hebrews 10:7 is found a messianic prophecy quoted from Psalm 40:7-8. According to both of these texts, what was the great purpose of the Son of God in coming into the world? What was His great passion and priority?

2. What do each of the following Scriptures teach us about (1) the Son's attitude toward the Father's will, (2) His passion for the Father's glory, and (3) His earnest desire to manifest His love toward the Father? Explain why it is appropriate to say that Christ accomplished all His works, even His death, first and foremost for God.

NOTES: Christ came to fulfill all the promises that God made to the Jews, that they might glorify Him for His faithfulness. Christ came also to the Gentiles, that they might glorify God for His mercy.

FOR HIS GREAT LOVE TOWARD US

The Scriptures teach that it was God the Father who sent His Son, that through Him the world might be saved (John 3:16-17). However, it is important to understand that the Son was not forced to take up this saving work, nor did He do it grudgingly. Rather, He gave Himself wholly and willingly, so that the objects of His love—a lost, depraved, rebellious humanity—might know forgiveness and everlasting life. It is a great encouragement and consolation to know that the Son who accomplished so great a work of salvation did so not only for the glory of God but also for the great love with which He loved His people. The Christ who died for God also died for us.

1. In John 15:9 is found one of the most amazing declarations in the Bible. What does it demonstrate to us about the motive for Christ's redeeming work?

2. According to the Scriptures, it was love that led Christ to lay down His life for His people. How do Galatians 2:20 and Ephesians 5:2 affirm this truth?

3. The measure of Christ's love is that He gave Himself for us. There can be no greater expression or illustration of love than this. What do the following Scriptures teach us about this truth? ## FOR THE JOY SET BEFORE HIM

The Son gave His life for His Father's glory, and thus He died for God. The Son gave His life because of the great love with which He loved us, and thus He died for His people. To conclude our study, we will consider one last motive that led the Son to the cross—He died for the joy that was set before Him.

To some, stating that the Son was moved by the hope of future joy may seem to present Christ as self-seeking. How could He simultaneously seek the glory of God, the salvation of His people, and His own joy? This objection is easily answered. First, we must understand that the Son of God found His greatest joy in the promotion of His Father's will and glory. Therefore, the Son's joy, the Father's glory, and His people's redemption were all equivalent for Christ. He had no competing loyalties or passions. Also, we must understand that the Son of God is right in seeking His own joy. All things were made by Him and for Him (Colossians 1:16). The Father has given all things into His Son's hands (John 3:35) and desires that all honor the Son as they honor Him (John 5:23). It is the Father's good pleasure that the Son's joy be complete. All creation, in all realms, has one great and final purpose—to glorify and bring pleasure to the Son of God!

1. According to Hebrews 12:2, why was the Son of God willing to leave the glory of heaven, take upon Himself human flesh, and endure the humiliation and pain of the cross?

2. Hebrews 12:2 clearly teaches that the motivation which led Christ to Calvary's cross was the joy that was set before Him. However, we must ask ourselves: of what did that joy consist? What do the following texts teach us?

a. THE JOY OF RETURNING TO HIS FATHER'S PRESENCE (PSALM 16:9-11)

NOTES: The Apostle Peter quotes this text in his sermon on the Day of Pentecost as a reference to Christ's resurrection and exaltation (Acts 2:25-28), and the Apostle Paul makes reference to it in his sermon in the synagogue in Antioch (Acts 13:35). It was an immense trial for the Son of God to leave His Father's dwelling place in heaven, but it was an infinitely greater trial to bear the sin of His people and to suffer in their place. He endured such indescribable agonies, even despised them, because He looked forward to the future hope of once again dwelling with His Father and rejoicing in His presence.

b. THE JOY OF SHARING IN HIS FATHER'S GLORY (JOHN 17:4-5, 24)

NOTES: Part of the joy that moved Christ to offer Himself for the sins of His people was His future glorification or exaltation to the place that was rightfully His even before the foundation of the world. He would return as Lord and Savior—the exalted Victor who overcame every obstacle to obtain the redemption of His people.

c. THE JOY OF GAINING FOR HIMSELF A REDEEMED PEOPLE – Before the foundation of the world, God ordained to save a people out of the multitude of sinful humanity, that they might live for the glory, honor, and praise of the Son. In accordance with the will of the Father and in view of this joy set before Him—the joy of redeeming a people of His very own—the Son willingly, even joyfully, endured all for the sake of His Bride and for the joy that she would ultimately bring Him. Through His incarnation and death, He has secured a great congregation for Himself from every tribe, tongue, people, and nation. He has made them to be a source of continuous joy, satisfaction, and glory throughout all of eternity. What do the following texts teach regarding this truth?

Chapter 4: The Son of God in Glory

To understand the magnitude and majesty of the coming of the Son of God, we must first consider both His divine nature and His eternal glory. In this chapter, we will learn that the Son of God did not begin to exist at His birth in Bethlehem; rather, He has existed throughout eternity, sharing equality with God the Father in both nature and glory. It was not a mere man or even an archangel that gave his life for our redemption; it was the eternal Son of God—the Creator, Sustainer, and Sovereign Lord of all. Only to the degree that we have a proper view of the Son will we have a high view of the gospel and an appreciation for it.

THE SON'S DEITY

The Scriptures testify that the one true God exists as a Trinity (from the Latin word trinitas, which means, “threefold” or “three in one”): the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit. They are three distinct Persons, who are distinguishable from one another; yet they share the same divine nature or essence and relate to one another in eternal and unbroken fellowship. The Son, who became a Man and died upon the cross of Calvary, is the eternal God: equal to the Father and the Spirit in every way and sharing in their incomprehensible glory.

It is absolutely essential that we comprehend the importance of the teaching before us. The deity of the Son of God is a fundamental doctrine of the Christian faith. Any view that sees Him as inferior to the Father or as a “god of lesser glory” is simply not Christian. The Son is not a created being, He is not an angel, and He is not a demigod to be ranked somewhere between God and creation. He is God in the highest sense of the term. The assurance of our salvation and the fidelity of our gospel depend upon our reverent and wholehearted acceptance of this truth.

1. In John 1:1-4 is found one of the clearest declarations of both the deity and eternity of the Son of God. Identify the truths that are revealed in this text.
  - a. In the B_____ was the W_____ (v.1). This is a clear reference to the Son of God (v.14). “Word” is translated from the Greek word lógos, which means, “word” or “reason.” The Jews often used this term in reference to God. To the Greeks, it denoted the divine reason or rational principle that governed the universe. When applied to the Son, it communicates that He is deity (fully and truly God) and the Mediator through whom God reveals Himself to His creation. The Son was “in the beginning” with God before creation and is uncreated, eternal, and divine.
  - b. And the Word was W_____ God (v.1). This is a reference to the relationship of unity yet distinction that existed between the Father and the Son throughout eternity. Firstly, it denotes unity and equality—the Father and the Son existed in perfect fellowship. The phrase could be translated, “And the Word was face to face with God,” denoting the intimate fellowship, communion, and delight that existed among the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit. Secondly, it denotes distinction—the Father and the Son are of the same divine essence, but They are two real and distinct Persons who exist in perfect fellowship together with the Holy Spirit.

- c. And the Word Was _____ God _____ (v.1). This is an undeniable declaration of the Word's deity. In the original Greek, the phrase is literally, "and God was the Word" (καὶ Θεός ἐν ᾧ Λόγος). The predicate nominative (God) precedes the subject (the Word) in order to emphasize the fact that the Word was really and truly God. The Son of God is God the Son. The fullness of deity dwells in Him (Colossians 2:9).
- d. All things were made Through _____ Him, and without Him was not any thing made that was made (v.3). Positively, all things were created through the Son (see also Colossians 1:16). He was the co-agent of creation along with the Father and the Spirit. Negatively, nothing exists that did not come into being through Him. The Son was not only in the beginning with God, but He was also doing the works of God as God.
- e. I _____ Him was Light _____, and the life was the Light of men (v.4). Psalm 36:9 declares, "For with You [i.e. God] is the fountain of life; in Your light do we see light." It is remarkable that what the Psalmist ascribes to God, the Apostle John ascribes to the Son. Everything that has ever lived and moved has done so by the grace of the Son of God. Any true knowledge of God that men have ever possessed came to them as a gracious endowment from the Son. It is an incomprehensible marvel that the Fountain of all life would lay down His life for the lifeless.
2. In Philippians 2:6, we find still another proof of Christ's deity and eternity. Identify the truths that are revealed in this text.
- a. Although He Was _____ in the Form _____ of God. The Son did not begin to exist at His incarnation; He is eternal, without beginning or end. The word "form" comes from the Greek word morphê, which refers not only to the outward or external appearance of a person but also to his or her essential character or underlying reality. The Son did not merely seem to be God in appearance; rather, He was God in essence or nature.
- b. He did not regard Equality _____ with God a thing to be grasped. The word "equality" comes from the Greek word ísos, which means, "to be equal in quantity or quality." In the Son, all the fullness (quantity) of deity (quality) dwelled (Colossians 2:9). He lacked nothing with respect to deity, but was equal in every way to the fullest meaning of the term.

THE SON'S GLORY

Having affirmed the eternal existence and deity of the Son of God, we will now concern ourselves with the glory that was His before the incarnation, before the foundation of the world, even from all eternity. Although the Scriptures give us only glimpses of eternity past, it is enough to prove that the Son was "God" in the highest and most exalted sense of the word and that He bore the glory of God as God. He was with the Father and shared His Father's glory (John 17:5). He was His Father's supreme and unending delight, and it was the Father's good pleasure that He be the instrument and epicenter of creation—the source of its joy, the object of its worship, and the great purpose or end of its existence. Since the dawn of creation, every sublime being that dwells in heaven has had only one great desire—to gaze upon the glory of God in the face of His exalted Son! It is only when we understand something of these truths that we can have a proper view of and appreciation for the gospel. It was not a mere man or even an angel that robed himself in flesh and died for us on that day. It was the God of Glory, the Lord of the universe, the Object of all worship, and the One through whom all things were made and for whom all things exist!

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

1. In Colossians 1:15-17 is found a powerful declaration of the Son's eternal nature and the glory that He shared with the Father from before His incarnation. Based upon the text, complete each of the following declarations.
  - a. The Son is the I_____ of the invisible God (v.15). This word comes from the Greek word eikôn, which refers to an "image" or "likeness." Only God can bear the exact likeness of God. Hebrews 1:3 declares, "He is the radiance of His glory and the exact representation of His nature."
  - b. The Son is the F_____ of all creation (v.15). This is neither a denial of Christ's deity nor evidence that He is a created being. In Psalm 89:27, God declares the following concerning David: "I will make him the firstborn, the highest of the kings of the earth." It is clear that David was the "firstborn" of God only in the sense that he was ranked above all other kings. The Son of God is "firstborn" in the sense that He is exalted above all creation and is distinct from it. To Him belong all the rights and privileges of a firstborn son.
  - c. The Son is B_____ all things (v.17). The Son's eternity, supremacy, and preeminence are communicated in this declaration.
  - d. The Son is the C_____ of all things (v.16). All creation owes its existence to the Son, is directly related to Him, and stands in relation to Him.
  - e. The Son is the Sustainer of all things—in Him all things H_____ together (v.17). All creation exists in utter and total dependence upon the Son. He "upholds the universe by the word of His power" (Hebrews 1:3). The Son is not like the mythological Atlas, who groans under the weight of a single world; on the contrary, He upholds countless worlds with the ease of a single word!
  - f. The Son is the Great End of all things—all things were created F_____ Him (v.16). The eternal glory of the Son is seen in the fact that all things were made through Him and for His glory and good pleasure.
2. In Isaiah 6:1-10 is recorded one of Scripture's most graphic and majestic portrayals of God and His glory; however, with further investigation we discover that Isaiah's vision of God was a vision of the Son! Read through Isaiah 6:1-5 until you are familiar with its contents, and then answer the following questions.
  - a. According to verses 1-3, Isaiah saw the L_____.

NOTES: In verse one, the title "Lord" is translated from the Hebrew word adonay; but in verse three, it is translated from the Hebrew word Yahweh or Jehovah. The One Isaiah sees is unquestionably God; however, John 12:39-41 identifies this Being as the second Person of the Trinity, the Son of God, thus affirming Christ as God.

qadosh, denoting separation. It refers to that which is set apart, separate, or unique. In the midst of creation, God stands alone. No one is like Him, and no one can be compared to Him (Isaiah 40:18). To compare the Son with even the most splendid created being would be infinitely more absurd than comparing a miniscule spark to the midday sun. The three-fold declaration of the Son's holiness is the strongest form of the superlative in the Hebrew language. This text helps us to understand what Jesus meant in John 17:5: "And now, Father, glorify Me in your own presence with the glory that I had with You before the world existed." Is it not amazing that One like Him would die for sinners like us?

Chapter 5: The Son Became a Man

Part One: The Old Testament Witness to the Incarnation

Having considered the eternal glory of the Son of God, we will now turn our attention toward His incarnation. The word “incarnate” comes from the Latin verb incarnare [in = in + caro = flesh], which means, “to make flesh” or “to become flesh.” In the Scriptures, the incarnation refers to the great truth that, approximately two thousand years ago, the eternal Son of God was conceived by the Holy Spirit in the womb of a virgin and was born Jesus of Nazareth—the God-Man. He was the fullness of deity in bodily form (Colossians 2:9), yet like us in every way, except without sin (Hebrews 4:15). He lived a perfectly righteous life under the Old Testament Law and then offered Himself up as a sacrifice for the sins of His people.

The coming of the Son of God into the world of men is, beyond all doubt, the most significant event in the history of mankind and stands at the very center of biblical Christianity. It is therefore necessary that we give serious consideration to the doctrine of the incarnation.

OLD TESTAMENT PROPHECY

Although the incarnation occurred barely two thousand years ago, it is important to understand that there were prior glimpses of this “greatest of all events” in the prophetic writings of the Old Testament. It will be both helpful and encouraging for us to consider some of these Old Testament prophecies. The fact that they were written hundreds of years prior to the birth of Jesus of Nazareth gives strong support to the New Testament claims regarding both His incarnation and His deity.

1. In Micah 5:2, we find a powerful prophecy regarding the Messiah. Consider the text until you are familiar with its contents, and then answer the following questions.

a. How does this prophecy prove that the Messiah would be a man?

(1) He would come from the C_____ of J_____.

NOTES: The Messiah would be of the tribe of Judah and the house of David. In Romans 1:3, the Apostle Paul affirms that Jesus “was descended from David according to the flesh.” He would be fully divine and fully human. His humanity would come from the line of David.

b. How does this prophecy communicate that the Messiah would be more than a man—that He would be the eternal God?

(1) His goings forth are from the days of E_____.

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

NOTES: This is a clear indication that the Christ would be more than a man. The statement does not simply mean that His coming was predicted long ago, but that He existed prior to His birth, even from eternity. This can only be said of God; therefore, this description is also a clear reference to the Messiah's deity. If He is eternal, He is also God, for only God is eternal.

2. In Isaiah 7:14 is found a prophecy that is quoted by Matthew as referring to both the incarnation of Jesus Christ and the virgin birth (Matthew 1:22-23). What does this text predict?

---

NOTES: This prophecy most likely had its initial fulfillment in the birth of Isaiah's son to the prophetess (8:3), for it is said of the boy that before he would know how to cry out "My father" or "My mother," Judah's enemies would have already begun to fall (8:4). However, it also looks forward to a greater fulfillment in the person of the Messiah. Although Isaiah used language that was appropriate for the immediate context, his prophecy is obviously impregnated with meaning that goes far beyond any supposed complete fulfillment in his time or in the time of his son. There are two Hebrew words that may be translated as "virgin." The first is almah, which refers to a virgin or a young woman of marriageable age; the second is bethulah, which has no other meaning than "virgin." It has often been speculated why Isaiah used almah instead of bethulah, but the reason seems clear. The wisdom of the Holy Spirit chose the Hebrew word that would be perfectly appropriate for both the partial fulfillment in Isaiah's time and the greater fulfillment in the Messiah. In Isaiah's time, it was a maiden who conceived by the natural means of intercourse and brought forth a son; but in the greater fulfillment, it was a virgin who conceived by the Holy Spirit and brought forth a Son who was both God and Man. It is important to note that when Jewish scribes translated Isaiah 7:14 into the Greek language (the Septuagint LXX), they chose the Greek phrase hē parthénos (i.e. the virgin) as a proper translation for the Hebrew word almah. Matthew quotes from the Greek Septuagint in Matthew 1:22-23, employing the phrase hē parthénos and giving testimony to the virgin birth of Jesus Christ. Those who would deny the supernatural conception of the Messiah in the womb of the Virgin Mary cannot use the New Testament for their support. The Gospel writers were unambiguous—Christ was born of a virgin! In Matthew 1:23, the apostle gives us the proper translation of the title "Immanuel"—"God with us." In the immediate context of Isaiah 7:14, the name denotes simply that the child's birth would be God's pledge and proof that He was with Judah and would deliver them from the hands of their enemies—Israel and Syria. In reference to the Messiah, and according to Matthew's understanding, the name meant nothing less than "the Word became flesh and dwelt among us" (John 1:14).

THE SON BECAME A MAN (PART ONE)

3. In Isaiah 9:6a, we are given one of the greatest Old Testament glimpses into the sheer wonder and mystery of the coming Messiah. Read the text until you are familiar with its contents, and then answer the following questions. How does this prophecy communicate the truth of the incarnation—that the Messiah would be more than a man and that He would bear the fullness of deity?

a. How does this prophecy reveal the Messiah's humanity?

(1) A to us a child is B_____.

NOTES: The prophecy speaks of a real and natural human birth. Though conceived supernaturally of the Holy Spirit in the womb of a virgin, the Messiah would be born as any other human life entering into the world. Apart from some divine revelation, no one would have recognized the infant in the manger to be the eternal and incomprehensible Son of God.

b. How does this prophecy reveal the Messiah's deity?

(1) To us a S_____ is G_____.

NOTES: Here we see behind the veil into the Holy of Holies of the Messiah's person, and we discover that He is both human and divine. The view from earth sees a child born; but from heaven's perspective, a Son is given! The baby born in time was the eternal Son of God, given by the Father and sent from heaven.

c. How does this prophecy reveal the Messiah's royalty and sovereignty?

(1) The G_____ shall be upon His S_____.

NOTES: The mystery continues to unfold. The Child would take upon Himself the totality of creation's government. By His own power and wisdom, He would rule the universe with absolute sovereignty. The responsibility of every realm would rest upon His shoulders, and yet it would be to Him as a feather upon a rock of granite. The requirements of such a government would be infinitely beyond the powers of men or angels, but they would be nothing for the One who created all things and upheld them by the word of His mouth (Hebrews 1:3). In all this, we have great proof that the Messiah would be God incarnate. A work of such magnitude can only be accomplished by the fullness of deity.

4. In Isaiah 9:6b, several names or titles are ascribed to the Messiah. What important truths do they communicate to us about Him?

a. W_____. From the Hebrew word pili, which means, "wonderful" or "incomprehensible." This attribute can only be attributed to deity. When God appeared to Samson's parents as the Angel of the Lord, He used the same name to describe Himself (Judges 13:18, 22). All men and even the most sublime angel in heaven are finite beings whose wonder can be comprehended. Only God is infinitely wonderful and beyond the comprehension of all others.

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

- b. C_____ . In Isaiah 28:29, Jehovah is said to be "wonderful in counsel" (KJV/NKJV/ESV). Therefore, to give the same title to the Messiah is to make an undeniable declaration of His deity. The Apostle Paul refers to Christ as the "wisdom of God" (I Corinthians 1:24) in whom are "hidden all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge" (Colossians 2:3). Such things cannot be said of the wisest of men or angels.
- c. M_____ G_____. This designation is translated from the Hebrew words El gibbor, a traditional name of God found in Deuteronomy 10:17, Jeremiah 32:18, Nehemiah 9:32, and Psalm 24:8. This Old Testament proof of the Messiah's deity agrees with the New Testament witness of the same. Christ is "God" (John 1:1), "our great God" (Titus 2:13), and the "God over all, blessed forever" (Romans 9:5 ESV).
- d. E_____ F_____. This Child who was born in time was before time began. When Christ was questioned regarding His relationship to Abraham, He openly declared, "Before Abraham was born, I am." The Jews rightly understood that a claim to eternity was a claim to deity and sought to stone Him for blasphemy (John 8:58-59). The designation "Father" is not intended to confuse the Persons of the Trinity but to emphasize two important aspects of the coming Messiah: (1) from all eternity, He has been the Origin, Source, and Sustainer of all things (John 1:3-4); and (2) from the beginning, He has been the Provider and Protector of His people.
- e. P_____ of P_____. The Messiah and His reign would bring peace; and it would not merely be political peace but, more importantly, peace between God and man. Here is another great proof of the Messiah's deity. He who would be peacemaker must lay his hand upon man and God to bring them together; but who would dare stretch forth his hand to touch the living God, except He who bears the very nature of God? This was Job's great dilemma: "For He [i.e. God] is not a man, as I am, that I might answer Him, that we should come to trial together. There is no arbiter between us, who might lay his hand on us both" (Job 9:32-33). Here Isaiah prophesies that Job's dilemma and ours would be forever resolved in the Messiah. He would bear all the necessary qualifications of a peacemaker or mediator. As God, He would extend His hand toward God; and as Man, He would extend His hand toward men. The Apostle Paul writes, "Therefore, since we have been justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ" (Romans 5:1).

5. In the space remaining, summarize some of the most important truths revealed to us about Christ through the Old Testament prophecies that we have just considered.

IN THE FULLNESS OF TIME

The coming of the Son of God into the world of men is, beyond all doubt, the most significant event in the history of mankind. It was clearly foretold in Old Testament Scriptures and occurred at the precise moment ordained by the will of God. He did not come at random, but according to God's sovereign plan. This truth is especially revealed in Galatians 4:4-5:

"But when the fullness of the time had come, God sent forth His Son, born of a woman, born under the Law, to redeem those who were under the Law, so that we might receive adoption as sons."

This is a remarkable passage, and the phrase "the fullness of time" is replete with meaning. Some may question the divine wisdom behind the great delay in sending the Savior. They may argue against the long wait that fell between the first promise of His coming (Genesis 3:15) and His actual advent. However, the Scriptures teach that Christ came at the precise moment ordained by God and at the very moment in human history when mankind was in greatest need.

It is important to note that the "fullness of time" indicates that Christ not only came at the time of humanity's greatest need, but that He also came at the time predicted by the Old Testament Scriptures and its prophecies concerning the Messiah. It can be clearly proven that the time of the Messiah's coming has passed. If Jesus of Nazareth was not the Messiah, then the Scriptures have not been and cannot be fulfilled. Consider the following pertinent Old Testament prophecies about the Messiah.

- According to Genesis 49:10, "The scepter shall not depart from Judah, nor the ruler's staff from between his feet, until tribute comes to him." This promises that a descendant of Judah would reign until the coming of the Messiah. In A.D. 70, the city of Jerusalem was destroyed, the political dominion and authority of the Jews was taken away, and the nation was scattered. For nearly two millennia, there has been no ruler from the tribe of Judah. If Jesus is not the Christ, then God's promise in Genesis 49:10 has failed, for the time is past, and the promise can no longer be fulfilled.
- According to Daniel 9:24-27, the city of Jerusalem was to be rebuilt seven weeks of years (i.e. forty-nine years) after the end of the captivity; and the Messiah would appear sixty-two weeks of years (i.e. four hundred and thirty-four years) after the rebuilding of Jerusalem. This prophecy coincides perfectly with the life of Jesus. If Jesus is not the Christ, then God's promise in Daniel 9:24-27 has failed, for the time is past, and the promise can no longer be fulfilled.

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

- Malachi 3:1-3 teaches that the Messiah was to come while the second temple was still standing. The second temple was destroyed in A.D. 70. If Jesus is not the Christ, then this prophecy has failed, for the time is past, and the promise can no longer be fulfilled.
- The Messiah was to be a son or descendant of David, and He was to come at a time when the house of David was in low estate and held in contempt like a tree that has been cut off to its very roots. In Isaiah 11:1, the Scriptures declare, "There shall come forth a shoot from the stump of Jesse, and a branch from his roots shall bear fruit." Jesus appeared as the Messiah in such a time. If He is not the Messiah, then the Scriptures cannot be fulfilled, for even the root of Jesse was "pulled up" at the destruction of Jerusalem in A.D. 70. At that time, all genealogical evidence was destroyed, and it would now be impossible to prove the genealogy of any proposed "messiah."
- According to Daniel 9:27, the Messiah would confirm the New Covenant and put an end to the sacrificial system under the Old Covenant. The sacrificial system ended with the destruction of Jerusalem and the temple in A.D. 70. If Jesus is not the Christ, then the Old Testament sacrificial system has ended without the coming of the Messiah.
- According to the prophets Amos and Isaiah (among others), the Messiah's coming was to be marked by the ingathering of the nations or Gentiles (Isaiah 2:2-3; 11:10; 42:1-6; 49:6; 60:3; Amos 9:11-12; see also Genesis 17:5; 49:10; Psalm 2:8; 22:27, 30; Zechariah 8:22; Acts 15:15-18). For nearly two thousand years (since the death and resurrection of Jesus), countless multitudes of Gentiles from every nation have identified themselves with the God of Israel and the Hebrew Scriptures. This has no parallel in prior history.

Chapter 6: The Son Became a Man

Part Two: The New Testament Witness to the Incarnation

The incarnation of the Son of God through the virgin birth is an essential doctrine of the Christian faith and the gospel. It is impossible to deny this doctrine without denying the clear testimony of the Scriptures and the longstanding witness of the Church. If Christ’s conception was not supernatural, then He was not God incarnate, the gospel is a lie, and the cross has no power to save! For this reason, it is necessary for us to give close attention to this foundational doctrine and to hold to it with absolute fidelity!

What does it mean to say that Jesus Christ is God incarnate or God in the flesh? It is extremely important that we understand that the Son of God did not cease to be God at the incarnation, nor did He take upon Himself an intermediate nature somewhere between God and man. Instead, the Son of God became something He had never been before. He added humanity to His deity and became the God-Man, one Person with two distinct, yet indivisible natures—divine and human. He did not give up any of His divine attributes, but willingly submitted the use of them to the Father’s will. He did not merely take the outward form of a man or simply appear as a man; He became a real Man, like us in all ways, except without sin.

1. In Matthew 1:18-25 is found the first account of the miraculous conception of Jesus Christ. What truth is declared in verse 20? What is its significance?

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The word “conceived” is translated from the Greek word gennáō, which means, “to beget or engender.” It is the common term used to describe the conception of life in the womb. It is the testimony of the Scriptures that Jesus had no earthly father, but was conceived supernaturally of the Holy Spirit.

2. In Luke 1:26-38 is found an even more detailed explanation of the supernatural conception of the Son of God. Read the text, and then answer the following questions.

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

- a. According to verse 34, what was Mary's reaction to the angelic announcement that she would be the mother of the Messiah? How does her reaction reinforce the truth that Christ's conception was supernatural?

---

NOTES: Mary's virginity is declared five times in the Gospels: Matthew 1:23, 25; Luke 1:27 (twice), 34. Although one may reject the apostles' testimony to the virgin birth, it cannot be denied that it was their testimony. Mary's question did not stem from unbelief, but from the fact that she was a virgin. She wondered how conception could even be possible.

- b. What was the angel's response in verse 35? What does it teach us about the miraculous conception of Jesus?

---

NOTES: The same word "overshadow" [Greek: episkiázō] is used of the bright cloud that overshadowed Peter, John, and James on the Mount of Transfiguration (Matthew 17:5; Mark 9:7; Luke 9:34). The language also reminds us of the creation account, when the Spirit of God hovered over the waters (Genesis 1:2). Since the Holy Spirit was a primary agent in the creation of the universe, it would not be beyond His power to create life in the womb of a virgin.

- c. In verse 37, the angel Gabriel makes an important declaration about God. How is this truth foundational to one's belief in the miraculous conception of Jesus?

THE SON BECAME A MAN (PART TWO)

NOTES: Once faith in an omnipotent God is established, it is not difficult to believe in the miraculous conception of Christ in the womb of a virgin. God can do anything, except that which contradicts His most holy, righteous, and loving nature.

3. In John 1:14 is found one of the most powerful and beautiful texts regarding the incarnation. Meditate upon the text until you are familiar with its meaning, and then write your thoughts on each of the following phrases.

a. And the Word became flesh and dwelt among us.

---

NOTES: The "Word" is a reference to the eternal Son of God (v.1). The verb "became" indicates change or transition. The eternal Son was not always flesh, but "became" flesh when conceived in Mary's womb. Upon becoming flesh, He did not stop being God; rather, He added humanity to His deity and became the God-Man. The word "dwelt" comes from the Greek word skēnōō, which refers to dwelling in a tabernacle or tent. In the incarnation, God "pitched His tent" or "tabernacled" among men.

b. And we have seen His glory, glory as of the only Son from the Father, full of grace and truth.

---

---

NOTES: The word "glory" [Greek: dóxa] refers to the Son's divine majesty. The word "only" [Greek: monogenês] could be better translated as "the one and only." To say that Christ was full of grace and truth is an undeniable declaration of His deity, because it ascribes to Him the fullness of two characteristics that are commonly ascribed only to God (see Colossians 2:9).

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

4. In Philippians 2:6-8, the Apostle Paul takes us from the eternal existence of the Son of God in glory, through the incarnation, to the cross of Calvary. Based upon this text, complete the following declarations about the incarnation.
- Although He was in the F_____ of God (v.6).* It is the testimony of Scripture that the Son was God before and after His incarnation. The word "form" [Greek: morphê] refers to the external appearance as well as the essential character or underlying reality. The Son did not just seem to be God in appearance; He was God in reality.
  - He did not count E_____ with God a thing to be grasped (v.6).* The word "equality" [Greek: ísos] is an undeniable reference to the Son's deity. The phrase "to be grasped" [Greek: harpagmós] refers to any unauthorized seizing of that which is prized. In the incarnation, the Son demonstrated His willingness to let go of the privileges of deity in order to do the will of the Father.
  - But E_____ Himself (v.7).* In His incarnation, the Son laid aside the glory and privileges of His deity and became a Man. It does not mean that He became something less than God, but that He laid aside the glory and privileges that were rightfully His as God (John 17:5).
  - Taking the F_____ of a S_____ (v.7).* The word "form" [Greek: morphê] refers to the external appearance as well as the essential character. Christ did not just seem to be a bond-servant in appearance, but He actually became a bond-servant in every way.
  - And being born in the L_____ of men. Being found in H_____ form (vv.7-8).* The word "likeness" [Greek: homoíōma] denotes "resemblance" or "similitude." Christ was a true Man and bore all the characteristics of true humanity. The word "appearance" [Greek: schêma] refers to one's habits or manner of life. Christ not only was a Man, but He also appeared to be so to those who knew Him and observed His behavior.
  - He H_____ Himself by becoming O_____ to the point of death, even death on a cross (v.8).* For the sinless Christ, death was a voluntary act of obedience to the will of the Father. It was not forced upon Him as a penalty, but given to Him as a task.
5. In II Corinthians 8:9, we find one of the most beautiful texts in all of Scripture regarding the incarnation of the Son of God. Write your thoughts on this verse.

NOTES: It is one thing for a rich man to take upon himself a vow of poverty and walk among the poor. It is quite another thing for the very God of the universe to take on flesh and live among the lowliest of men as one of them. We must remember that there was a definite and certain redemptive purpose in the Son's self-imposed poverty—He left the glories of heaven so that we might enter in.

6. In I Timothy 3:16 is found one of the most concise and beautiful statements in all the Scriptures regarding the incarnation. What does the Apostle Paul declare about the incarnation in the first phrase of this text?
- By common confession, G_____ is the M_____ of godliness. The phrase "by common confession" may also be translated, "by consent of all" or "without controversy or dispute." The word "mystery" [Greek: mustêrion] refers to that which is or has been hidden or unintelligible. The word "godliness" [Greek: eu-sébeia] refers to all true devotion toward God. This phrase is best understood as: "All Christians confess without dispute that great is the mystery which is the foundation and source of all true devotion to God."
  - He who was R_____ in the F_____. The mystery that is the foundation and source of all true godliness is the Son of God and the saving work that He accomplished "in the flesh." The incarnation is a fundamental doctrine of the Christian faith. If Jesus was not conceived both of the Holy Spirit and in the womb a virgin, then He was not God incarnate, and the rest of the gospel is a lie—the cross has no saving power; the resurrection was a hoax; and we remain in our sins, separated from God and without hope.

Chapter 7: The Son Lived a Perfect Life

It was not enough for the Son of God to become a Man; it was required that He live a life of perfect obedience under the law of God. If He had been found guilty of even one violation of the law in thought, disposition, word, or deed; He would have disqualified Himself as a sacrifice for sin. For this reason, it is correct to say that without Christ's perfect obedience throughout the full course of His life, all other aspects of His life and ministry would be of no effect. Only a perfectly obedient Second Adam could undo what the first Adam caused by his moral failure (Romans 5:12-19). Only a Lamb unblemished and spotless could give His life for the sins of the world (John 1:29; I Peter 1:19). Only the just could give Himself for the unjust that He might bring them to God (I Peter 3:18). Only a sinless Savior could give His life as a ransom for many (Mark 10:45).

1. Before we advance any further, we must consider Romans 8:3. What does it teach us about Christ's incarnation?

---

NOTES: In the incarnation, the Son of God did not take upon Himself the body of pre-fall mankind; rather, He took a body that, though untainted by sin, was subject to all the terrible consequences of our fallen race. As a Man, He was subject to the same limitations, frailties, afflictions, and anguish of fallen humanity. It would have been a great humiliation if He had taken the nature of humanity before the fall, when it was in its full glory and strength. However, He was sent in the "likeness of sinful flesh"!

2. According to Luke 1:35, how is it that Jesus was conceived without the depraved Adamic nature that has led to the moral ruin of the rest of the human race?

---

---

THE SON LIVED A PERFECT LIFE

NOTES: The word “holy” is the same word used of the Spirit. He was the “Holy Child” because He was conceived of the “Holy Spirit.”

3. In Scripture, a person’s name has great significance in that it often describes who he is and reveals something about his character. What is the name given to the Christ in Acts 3:14, and what does it teach us about His nature?

a. The H_____ and R_____ One.

NOTES: Peter is quoting from Psalm 16:10. The word “holy” [Greek: hágios] refers to one who is undefiled by sin, free from wickedness, and morally pure. The word “righteous” [Greek: díkaios] denotes conformity to the nature and will of God. It is significant that this title, which is ascribed uniquely to God in the Old Testament (Isaiah 24:16), is ascribed to Jesus three times in the book of Acts (Acts 3:14; 7:52; 22:14).

4. What does the Father testify concerning Jesus in Matthew 3:17? What does His testimony communicate to us about Christ’s nature and deeds?

---

NOTES: This declaration is first found in the Messianic prophecy recorded in Isaiah 42:1. It was declared at Christ’s baptism (Matthew 3:17; Mark 1:11; Luke 3:22) and transfiguration (Matthew 17:5; Mark 9:7). God’s testimony concerning Christ proves His sinlessness. The Most Holy can only delight in the Most Holy. The slightest sin would have turned God’s smile to a frown.

5. According to the following texts, what did Jesus testify concerning Himself and His obedience to the will of God?

a. John 8:29

---

---

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

NOTES: The most amazing aspect of Christ's claim is the adverb "always." Fallen man cannot even make a claim to periodic perfect obedience, but Christ claims an obedience that is not only perfect but also perpetual or unbroken. He was obedient, without even the slightest flaw, throughout the entire course of His life.

b. John 17:4

---

---

NOTES: To claim perfection before men is a bold thing, but to do the same before God is quite another. With full and unflinching confidence, Jesus stands before the Father and claims perfect obedience in heart and deed. The best of God's servants among men cannot make the claim that Jesus made, but must admit, "We are unworthy servants; we have only done that what was our duty" (Luke 17:10).

6. According to the Gospel accounts, even those who most opposed Christ were forced to recognize His righteousness. What do the following texts teach about this truth?

- |  |   |
|--|---|
| _____ Matthew 27:3-4              | a. The thief saw that Christ had done nothing wrong. |
| _____ Matthew 27:19               | b. Pilate's wife called Christ a righteous man.      |
| _____ Matthew 27:23-24; Luke 23:4 | c. Judas recognized Christ's innocence.              |
| _____ Luke 23:39-41               | d. The centurion testified that Christ was innocent. |
| _____ Luke 23:47                  | e. Pilate found no guilt in Christ.                  |

7. In the following, we will consider some of the most important texts in the Epistles regarding the sinlessness of Jesus. Summarize each text in your own words.

a. II Corinthians 5:21

THE SON LIVED A PERFECT LIFE

---

b. Hebrews 4:15

---

---

---

NOTES: Jesus was tempted in all things common to our frail human condition. In our weakness, we usually fall before lesser temptations, and we are therefore rarely confronted with greater ones. Christ prevailed over the lesser temptations common to all and over the greatest that no other man has ever faced.

c. Hebrews 7:26

---

---

NOTES: The word “holy” [Greek: hósios] indicates the state of one who is undefiled by sin, free from evil, and morally pure. The word “innocent” or “harmless” [Greek: ákakos] refers to one who is innocent of destructive evil or malice. The word “unstained” [Greek: amíantos] can also be translated, “unsoiled” or “undefiled.” The phrase “separated from sinners” refers to the great distinction between Christ and mankind—He was without sin.

d. 1 Peter 1:19

---

---

---

NOTES: Christ's blood was precious because He was the Lamb unblemished and spotless. The phrase "without unblemish" [Greek: ámōmos] denotes that which is faultless or without blame. The phrase "without spot" [Greek: áspilos] denotes that which is "unsullied or unstained, free from censure or reproach." According to the law, the sacrificial lamb had to be free from all defect (Leviticus 22:20-25; Numbers 6:14; 28:3, 9). Thus the Christ had to be free from all sin.

e. 1 Peter 2:22

---

---

NOTES: This entire verse is taken from the Messianic prophecy found in the Septuagint's version of Isaiah 53:9. It is a strong and clear declaration of the sinless perfection of the Lord Jesus Christ. In Scripture, the mouth or speech of an individual is an indicator of the condition of the heart (Isaiah 6:5; Matthew 15:18). Christ's speech was without deceit because His heart was without deceit. James writes, "If anyone does not stumble in what he says, he is a perfect man, able to also bridle his whole body" (James 3:2). The logic is simple: Jesus did not stumble in what He said because He was perfect.

f. 1 John 3:5

---

---

---

NOTES: Christ knew no sin (II Corinthians 5:21), and in Him there was no sin (I John 3:5).

Chapter 8: The Son Bore Our Sin

The cross of Christ brings to mind the insults and physical pain He suffered. To die on a cross was the worst of all humiliations and tortures. Nevertheless, the physical pain and shame heaped upon Christ by men were not the most important aspects of the cross. We are saved not merely because men beat him with whips and nailed Him to a cross. We are saved because He bore our sin and was crushed under God's judgment.

THE SON STOOD IN OUR PLACE

The purpose of the Son's incarnation and His perfect life is found in the biblical truth that He came to be the substitution for His people. He came to bear their guilt, to stand in their place of judgment, and to suffer their penalty of death. This is one of the greatest themes of the Scriptures and a foundation stone of the Christian faith. For this reason the work of Christ is often called vicarious. The word "vicarious" comes from the Latin word vicarius [vicis = change, alternation, or stead] and denotes the act of changing places or standing in the stead of another as a substitution.

CHRIST DIED "IN PLACE OF" HIS PEOPLE

The Greek preposition antí is employed with regard to the death of Christ on the cross for His people.<sup>1</sup> The preposition means, "instead of" or "in place of."

"But when he heard that Archelaus was reigning over Judea in place of his father Herod, he was afraid to go there, and being warned in a dream he withdrew and went to the district of Galilee." (Matthew 2:22)

"Even as the Son of Man came not to be served but to serve, and to give His life a ransom for many." (Matthew 20:28)

CHRIST DIED "FOR" HIS PEOPLE

The Greek preposition perí is employed with regard to the death of Christ on the cross for His people.<sup>2</sup> The preposition is often translated as "for."

"For this is My blood of the covenant, which is poured out for many for the forgiveness of sins." (Matthew 26:28)

"In this is love, not that we loved God but that He loved us and sent His Son to be the propitiation for our sins." (1 John 4:10)

<sup>2</sup> See also 1 John 2:2 for another example of the use of this preposition.

CHRIST DIED "ON BEHALF OF" HIS PEOPLE

The Greek preposition hupér (or hypér) is employed with regard to the death of Christ on the cross for His people.<sup>3</sup> The preposition means, "on behalf of."

"I am the good shepherd. The good shepherd lays down His life for the sheep." (John 10:11)

"And He died for all, that those who live might no longer live for themselves but for Him who for their sake died and was raised." (II Corinthians 5:15)

"For Christ also suffered once for sins, the righteous for the unrighteous..." (I Peter 3:18)

CHRIST DIED "FOR THE SAKE OF" HIS PEOPLE

The Greek preposition diá is employed with regard to the death of Christ on the cross for His people. The preposition means, "for the sake of" or "because of."

"And so by your knowledge this weak person is destroyed, the brother for whom Christ died." (I Corinthians 8:11)

"For you know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that though He was rich, yet for your sake He became poor, so that you by His poverty might become rich." (II Corinthians 8:9)

THE SON BORE OUR SIN

In the Scriptures, we learn about the imputation of Adam's sin to the entire human race. In God's perfect righteousness and inscrutable wisdom, He considered the sin of Adam to be the sin of all; therefore, all men sinned in Adam and are considered guilty of Adam's sin. In the following pages, we will consider another aspect of imputation—the imputation of our sin to Christ. As Adam's sin was imputed to all mankind, so the sins of God's people were imputed to Christ.

1. In the Old Testament, the sacrificing of animals in the place of God's people was only a shadow or type that pointed to and found its ultimate fulfillment in Christ. Nevertheless, these animal sacrifices provide an excellent illustration of how Christ bore the sins of God's people and offered His own life as a sacrifice in their place. Read Leviticus 16:21-22; explain how it relates to the sacrifice of Christ.

<sup>3</sup> See also Mark 14:24; Romans 5:6, 8; Galatians 3:13; Ephesians 5:2; I Timothy 2:6; Titus 2:14; and I John 3:16 for more examples of the use of this preposition.

---

---

NOTES: Since it was impossible for a single offering to fully typify or illustrate the twofold purpose of the Messiah's atoning death, an offering involving two sacrificial goats was put before the people (Leviticus 16:5-10). The first goat was slain as a sin offering before the Lord, and its blood was sprinkled on and in front of the Mercy Seat, behind the veil in the Holy of Holies (vv.9, 15, 20). It is a wonderful illustration of Christ's death as a propitiation—He shed His blood to satisfy the justice of God, appease His wrath, and bring peace. The second goat was presented before the Lord as the scapegoat (v.10). Upon the head of this animal, the High Priest laid "both of his hands...and confess[ed] over it all the iniquities of the people of Israel and all their transgressions, all their sins" (v.21). The scapegoat was then sent away into the wilderness, bearing on itself all the iniquities of the people into a solitary land (vv.21-22). It typified Christ, who "bore our sins in His body on the tree" (1 Peter 2:24) and suffered and died alone "outside the gate" (Hebrews 13:11-12). It is a wonderful illustration of Christ's death as an expiation—He carried away our sin. The psalmist wrote, "As far as the east is from the west, so far does He remove our transgressions from us" (Psalm 103:12).

2. The sacrifices in the Old Testament were only shadows or types that pointed to and found their ultimate fulfillment in Christ. He is the great Sin-Bearer who offered His life for our sins. What do the following Scriptures teach us about this truth?

a. Isaiah 53:6

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The Lord [Hebrew: Yahweh] imputed the sins of His people to His only begotten Son. The word "laid" indicates falling upon or striking. The sins of God's people fell upon the Christ with an overwhelming, rushing violence, as an attacking army or a sudden and relentless storm (see also Isaiah 53:11-12).

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

b. II Corinthians 5:21

---

---

---

NOTES: Christ was made sin in the same way that the believer is made “the righteousness of God.” The moment a person believes in Jesus, he is pardoned of his sin, and the righteousness of Christ is imputed to him or placed in his account. God legally declares the believer to be righteous and treats him as righteous. When Christ hung upon the cross, He did not actually become corrupt or unrighteous; but God imputed our sins to Him, legally declared Him to be guilty, and treated Him as guilty.

c. Hebrews 9:27-28

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The purpose of Christ’s incarnation and death was that He might bear the sins of His people. The word “bear” comes from the Greek word anaphérō, which means literally, “to lift up.”

d. I Peter 2:24

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The word “bore” comes from the Greek word anaphérō, which means literally, “to lift up.” The cross was the cruelest instrument of torture ever conceived by depraved humanity, yet this was the altar upon which the Son of God made His sacrifice. The purpose of Christ’s death on the cross was not only to restore us to a right relationship with God, but also to enable us by the power of God to die to sin and live to righteousness. Peter quotes Isaiah 53:5, not with reference to physical healing, but to healing from sin and its consequences.

3. To conclude this section, we will consider John 3:14-15, a very important passage. What does this text teach us about Christ bearing the sins of His people?

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: Jesus’ words must be understood in the context of Numbers 21:5-9. Because of Israel’s nearly constant rebellion against the Lord and their rejection of His gracious provisions, God sent “fiery serpents” among the people, and many died. However, as a result of the people’s repentance and Moses’ intercession, God once again made provision for their salvation. He commanded Moses to “make a fiery serpent, and set it on a standard.” He then promised that each person who was bitten, when he looked at this bronze serpent, would live. The narrative provides a powerful picture of the cross. The Israelites were dying from the venom of the fiery serpents; men die from the venom of their own sin. Moses was commanded to place the cause of death high upon a pole; God placed the cause of our death upon His own Son as He hung high upon a cross. He had come “in the likeness of sinful flesh” (Romans 8:3) and was made “for our sake... to be sin” (II Corinthians 5:21). The Israelite who believed God and looked upon the brazen serpent would live; the man who believes God’s testimony concerning His Son and looks upon Him with faith will be saved (I John 5:10-11).

Chapter 9: The Son Became a Curse

In the preceding lesson, we learned that Christ was “made to be sin” on our behalf. In this lesson, we will consider the equally incomprehensible doctrine that Christ became a curse for us. The Scriptures clearly teach that all who have sinned are under the curse of the law. To save us, the Son of God became a Man, bore our guilt, and became a curse in our place.

1. What does Galatians 3:10 teach us about sinful, fallen man’s position before God?

---

---

NOTES: The phrase, “For all who rely on works of the law are under a curse,” is a reference to those who are depending upon their own moral virtue, personal righteousness, or obedience to the law of God to make them acceptable before God. The Scriptures declare that all such individuals are under a curse because the law requires a perfect and unbroken obedience that no man has ever accomplished. The word “curse” comes from the Greek word katára, which may also be translated, “imprecation,” “malediction,” or “execration.” It denotes a violent denouncing of something or someone with intense disgust, loathing, or hatred. From heaven’s perspective, those who break God’s law are vile and worthy of all loathing; they are justly exposed to divine vengeance and devoted to eternal destruction. Although such language is offensive to the world and even to many who consider themselves to be Christians, it is biblical language, and it must be stated. If for etiquette’s sake we refuse to explain and illustrate these hard truths of Scripture, then God will not be held as holy, men will not understand their dreadful predicament, and the price paid by Christ will never be truly appreciated. Unless we comprehend what it means for man to be under the divine curse, we will never comprehend what it meant for Christ to “become a curse for us.” We will never fully understand the horror and beauty of what was done for us on Calvary!

2. According to Galatians 3:13, what has Christ done to redeem us from the curse?

NOTES: The word "redeemed" comes from the Greek word exagorázō, which means, "to buy or make payment in order to recover something or someone from the power of another." It was often used with regard to the buying of freedom for a debtor or slave. To accomplish this on behalf of His people, Christ took upon Himself our sin and became the object of divine malediction. He was violently denounced as guilty and felt the full displeasure of the holy God against sin. He came under the severest sort of divine judgment and condemnation for our sake.

3. The divine curse is the antonym (i.e. it carries the opposite meaning) of divine blessing. In the Beatitudes of Matthew 5:3-12, we discover several descriptions of what it means to be blessed before God. By identifying these blessings and then considering their antonyms (or opposites), we can learn something of what it meant for Christ to become a curse in our place.
- a. The blessed are granted the K_____ of heaven (v.3), but the cursed are refused entrance.
  - b. The blessed are C_____ by God (v.4), but the cursed are objects of divine wrath.
  - c. The blessed I_____ the earth (v.5), but the cursed are cut off from it.
  - d. The blessed are S_____ (v.6), but the cursed are miserable and wretched.
  - e. The blessed receive M_____ (v.7), but the cursed are condemned without pity.
  - f. The blessed shall see G_____ (v.8), but the cursed are cut off from His presence.
  - g. The blessed are S_____ of God (v.9), but the cursed are disowned in disgrace.

NOTES: On the cross of Calvary, Christ bore the sins of His people and suffered the full force of the divine curse. He was forsaken of God (Matthew 27:46) and drank the cup of divine wrath in the place of His people (Matthew 26:39, 42; Psalm 75:8; Jeremiah 25:15-16). He bore our sorrows and was stricken, smitten of God, and afflicted (Isaiah 53:4). For our sakes, the Lord was pleased to crush Him, putting him to grief (Isaiah 53:10).

4. In Numbers 6:24-26, we find one of the most beautiful promises of blessing that has ever been given by God to man. However, this blessing presents us with a great theological problem. How can a righteous God grant such blessing to a sinful people without compromising His righteousness? The answer again is found in the cross of Christ! The sinner can be blessed only because Christ was cursed in his place! Any and every blessing from God that has ever been granted or ever will be granted to His people is only because Christ became a curse for us on the cross. By identifying each blessing in Numbers 6:24-26 and then considering the antonyms, we can learn something of what it meant for Christ to become a curse in our place.
- The Lord Bless _____ you, and Keep _____ you (v.24).* This is only possible because the Father made Christ a curse and gave Him over to destruction.
  - The Lord make His face Shine _____ on you, and be Gracious _____ to you (v.25).* This is only possible because the Father took the light of His presence away from Christ and condemned Him with perfect justice and without pity.
  - The Lord lift up His countenance on you, and give you Peace _____ (v.26).* This is only possible because the Father turned His face from Christ and poured out His wrath upon Him. The Psalmist describes "the blessed" as those who are made joyful with gladness in God's presence (Psalm 21:6), who know the joyful sound of the festal shout, and who walk in the light of His countenance (Psalm 89:15). For our sakes, Christ was made sorrowful with the absence of His Father's presence, He came to know the terrifying sound of judgment's trumpet, and He hung in the darkness of God's unbearable frowning countenance. Because of Adam's fateful choice, the entire creation groaned under the curse and was enslaved to corruption and futility (Romans 8:20-22). To liberate creation, Christ (the Last Adam) took upon Himself the sins of His people and groaned under the dreadful yoke. We have peace with God (Romans 5:1) only because Christ suffered the full force of God's war against our sin on the cross of Calvary.
5. In Psalm 32:1-2 (see also Romans 4:7-8), how does David describe the man who is truly blessed by God? How is such blessing possible?
- His transgression is Forgiven _____, and his sin is Covered _____ (v.1).* How can a holy and righteous God cover up sin but remain just? It is only possible because Christ bore our sin and was exposed before God and the host of heaven. He was placarded before men and was made a spectacle before angels and devils alike. The transgressions He bore were not forgiven Him, and the sins He carried were not covered.
  - The Lord does not Count _____ Iniquity _____ against him (v.2).* This is only possible because on the cross our sins were imputed to Christ. If a man is counted blessed because iniquity is not imputed to Him, then Christ was cursed beyond measure, because the iniquity of us all fell upon Him (Isaiah 53:6).
6. In Deuteronomy 27 and 28, God divided the nation of Israel into two separate camps. He placed one camp on Mount Gerizim and the other on Mount Ebal. Those on Mount Gerizim were commanded to declare the blessings that would come upon all who diligently obeyed the Lord their God (Deuteronomy 28:1-14). Those on Mount Ebal were commanded to declare the horrific curses of divine judgment that would fall upon all who disobeyed (Deuteronomy 28:15-68).

NOTES: At Calvary, the Messiah was “singled out” for adversity, and “every curse” written in the book of the law fell upon Him. Though Christ had every right to the blessings of Gerizim, it was from Mount Ebal that His own Father thundered against Him as He hung from Calvary’s tree. He was cursed as a man who makes an idol and sets it up in secret. He was cursed as one who dishonors his father or mother, who moves his neighbor’s boundary mark, or who misleads a blind person on the road. He was cursed as one who distorts the justice due an alien, orphan, or widow. He was cursed as one who is guilty of every manner of immorality and perversion, as one who wounds his neighbor in secret or accepts a bribe to strike down the innocent. He was cursed as one who does not confirm the words of the law by doing them (Deuteronomy 27:15-26). Proverbs 26:2 declares, “A curse that is causeless does not alight.” However, the curse did alight upon sinless Christ, because He bore the sins of His people before the judgment bar of God.

Chapter 10: The Son Suffered the Wrath of God

In the previous two chapters, we have discovered that Christ bore our sin and our curse before God as He hung on the cross. In this chapter, we will learn that Christ bore our sin in order that He might suffer God's wrath against it. In doing so, He would satisfy the demands of God's justice and make it possible for God to be both just and the justifier of sinful men (Romans 3:25-26).

CHRIST WAS FORSAKEN OF GOD

One aspect of God's wrath that Christ suffered was forsakenness or estrangement from God the Father. God is morally perfect and separated from all evil. It is impossible for Him to take pleasure in sin or remain in fellowship with those who practice unrighteousness. Because of this, the sin of God's people stood as a great and impenetrable wall that rendered fellowship with God impossible. To mend this great separation between God and His people, Christ stood in our place, bore the guilt of our sins, and was forsaken of God until the penalty for our sins was paid in full.

1. What do the Scriptures declare about God in Habakkuk 1:13?
  - a. His eyes are too P_____ to see E_____.
  - b. He cannot L_____ at W_____.

2. According to Isaiah 59:2, how does sin affect God's relationship with man? Can God have fellowship with the wicked?

---

---

---

NOTES: Man's continued fallen state and misery is not due to some deficiency in God. It is man's sin that creates the great abyss between him and God; it is sin that builds the impenetrable wall. The true culprit of man's misery is man himself—because of his enmity toward God's person and his rebellion against God's law.

3. How is the sinner described in Ephesians 2:12?
- a. S_____ from Christ. From the Greek word chōrís, which denotes separation and independence. The sinner lives in separation or independence from the Giver of all life, joy, and peace.
  - b. A_____ from the commonwealth of Israel. From the Greek word apallotriōō, which means, "to alienate or estrange." The sinner is estranged from God's people.
  - c. S_____ to the covenants of promise. From the Greek word xénos, which denotes an alien or foreigner. The sinner is a stranger to all the promises of God.
  - d. Having no H_____ and without G_____ in the world. This is possibly the most terrifying result of man's sin.
4. The sin of God's people stood as an impenetrable wall that made fellowship with God impossible. To mend this great separation between God and His people, Christ stood in our place, bore our sin, and was forsaken of God. He suffered estrangement from God and was cut off from His favorable presence until the penalty was paid. How is this truth illustrated in Matthew 27:45-46?

NOTES: The cry of Jesus from the cross is recorded here in Hebrew and Aramaic. Eli is Hebrew, but the rest is Aramaic. Mark records the entire lament in Aramaic (Mark 15:34). The word "forsaken" is translated from the Greek word egkataléipō, which means, "to abandon, to desert, or to leave in the straits."

5. In Matthew 27:46, Jesus was quoting from the words of David in Psalm 22:1-18. Read this text in full, and then answer the following questions.

a. What was the cry or complaint of the Christ in verses 1-2? What does it mean?

THE SON SUFFERED THE WRATH OF GOD

NOTES: The word “forsaken” comes from the Hebrew word azab, which means, “to leave, desert, abandon, or forsake.” In his time of trial, David sensed something of the absence of God; but only Christ experienced the full measure of total abandonment. The word “groaning” comes from the Hebrew word shehagah, which literally denotes a “roaring” like that of a lion. Christ’s cries of anguish from the cross broke forth as terrible roars. His seeking was relentless; His cry was incessant; His anguish was beyond measure. But the heavens were like bronze. There was no response from God; there was only silence and the absence of His favorable presence. We were separated from God because of our sin. To end this separation and bring us back into the favorable presence of God, it was necessary that Christ suffer the terrible forsakenness of God that we deserved.

- b. According to the words of the Christ in verses 3 and 6, why did God forsake or turn away from Him?

(1) You are H_____ (v.3).

NOTES: In the midst of immeasurable suffering, Christ declares His unwavering confidence in the holiness of God. There was a just and holy reason behind God’s forsaking of Him—He had become the bearer of His people’s sin and the object of God’s holy wrath.

(2) I am a W_____ and not a M_____ (v.6).

NOTES: Though He was the perfect Man, He had been made sin (II Corinthians 5:21) and had become a curse (Galatians 3:13). Though He was the Lamb without spot (I Peter 1:19), He had become the serpent lifted up in the wilderness (John 3:14), a worm and not a man. Though all the blessings of Mount Gerazim should have been lavished upon Him, all the judgments of Mount Ebal were poured out on His head.

CHRIST SUFFERED DIVINE WRATH

That Christ suffered the wrath of God means more than abandonment (i.e. privation of God’s favorable presence); it also means that He was stricken by God’s rod of justice. The law of God had been violated. Divine punishment had to be measured out in accordance with the crimes committed. Justice had to be satisfied; the scales had to be balanced. On the cross, Christ bore the guilt of His people, was forsaken of God, and suffered the full measure of His retributive justice and wrath.

1. What does Psalm 7:11-13 teach us about the reality of the wrath of God against the sinner?

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The word "indignation" comes from the Hebrew verb zaám, which means, "to denounce, to express indignation, or to be angry toward what one abhors." Being holy and righteous, God must abhor and come with wrath against all that contradicts His nature and will. God's indignation is as much a part of His character as His love or His mercy. If a man continues in his opposition to the person and will of God, then God's righteous wrath is certain. The references to the bent bow and the sharpened sword denote the readiness of God to judge. Preparations have been made: His sword is sharpened, His bow is strung, and His arrows are set aflame. The Captain of the hosts of heaven has prepared for holy war. Only the forbearance of God keeps His wrath from breaking forth upon the world.

2. In Psalm 7:11-13, the psalmist assures us that the wrath of God is a biblical reality, and he employs metaphors such as the war bow and the sharpened sword to communicate its severity. Whenever the justice and holiness of God are confronted by the evil of man, the result is divine indignation and wrath. To save us from the sword of God's justice, it was necessary that God's own Son take the blow on our behalf. What does God command His sword to do in Zechariah 13:7? Against whom is the command given? What does this tell us about the suffering of Christ on Calvary?

---

---

---

---

THE SON SUFFERED THE WRATH OF GOD

NOTES: The sword is a reference to God's judgment as in Psalm 7:11-13. The phrase "My Shepherd" refers to the Messiah. He is the Good Shepherd (John 10:11, 14), as opposed to the foolish shepherd of Zechariah 11:15-17. The phrase "the man who stands next to me" is translated from the Hebrew word amith, which denotes a companion, friend, or neighbor or "Associate" (NASB). With reference to Christ, the term takes on special meaning. He is the Father's Son, Associate, and intimate Companion. He and the Father are One (John 10:30). The Son's death was an act of God's sovereign will. It was the Father who called His sword to awake against His Son. Matthew quotes this text in Matthew 26:31 with reference to the death of Christ and the scattering of His disciples.

3. In Isaiah 53, we find a graphic portrayal of Christ's sufferings under the wrath of God for the sins of God's people. According to the following Scriptures, Christ was:
  - a. S _____ by God (v.4). From the Hebrew word naga, which means, "to strike, bring down, smite, or beat." God awakened His sword of justice and struck down our Substitute.
  - b. S _____ by God (v.4). From the Hebrew word nakah, which can also mean, "to strike, wound, or kill." Those who watched Christ die were right to see Him as smitten of God, but they were wrong in assuming that it was for His own sin and not for theirs.
  - c. A _____ by God (v.4). From the Hebrew word anah, which means, "to afflict, trouble, or oppress." God afflicted Christ with the wrath that was due us until the penalty was paid in full.
  - d. P _____ for our transgressions (v.5). From the Hebrew word chalal, which denotes any sort of piercing. This was literally fulfilled with the nails and lance at Christ's crucifixion. It was fulfilled metaphorically as Christ was pierced with His Father's absence and the outpouring of His wrath.
  - e. C _____ for our iniquities (v.5). From the Hebrew word daka, which means, "to break, break in pieces, crush, bruise, destroy, shatter, or smite." The rocks that were split in two at Christ's death (Matthew 27:51) were only weak representations of the wrath of God that crushed Christ on Calvary.
  - f. C _____ for our own peace (v.5). From the Hebrew word muw-car, which can denote chastisement, discipline, correction, or rebuke. The punishment that Christ experienced on the cross was not the redemptive or corrective chastening of a father toward a son, but the punitive and vindictive chastisement of a judge toward a criminal.
  - g. W _____ for our healing (v.5). From the Hebrew word chabbu-wrah, which can also mean, "to stripe, wound, or bruise." Christ stood in our place and was scourged by the wrath of God that we deserved.
4. Christ's prayer in Gethsemane prior to His arrest and crucifixion is related to us in the Gospels. Possibly no other event in the life of Christ so clearly demonstrates the terrible suffering under the wrath of God that awaited Him on the cross of Calvary. What do the events recorded in Luke 22:41-44 communicate to us about the suffering that awaited Christ on Calvary?

---

NOTES: The unspeakable suffering that awaited Christ on Calvary can be clearly inferred from the following observations: (1) Christ's petition to have the cup of suffering removed from Him; (2) the presence of angels to strengthen Christ in preparation for the cross; (3) the fact that Christ wrestled in prayer with great fervency and agony (the word "agony" comes from the Greek word agōnía, which was often used with reference to gymnastic exercises or wrestling; it can also be translated, "anguish"); and (4) the fact that Christ was sweating drops of blood. The medical term for this last point is hermatidrosis. It occurs when blood actually mingles with perspiration during times of terrible mental anguish or physical suffering.

5. What horrible thing did the cup contain that moved Christ to pray three times in anguish that He might not have to drink from it? It was not merely the cruelties that would be heaped upon Him by the hands of evil men; it was the wrath of God! The following Scriptures represent God's wrath as poured out from a cup, indicating that this wrath is what Christ had to drink on the cross. Summarize each text in your own words.

a. Psalm 11:5-6

---

---

NOTES: As blessing is the cup or portion of the righteous (Psalms 23:5), so wrath is the cup or portion appointed for the wicked. It is a terrible cup and contains a deadly potion. Upon the cross, the Son of God took the cup that belonged to God's people and drank it down to the dregs.

THE SON SUFFERED THE WRATH OF GOD

b. Psalm 75:8

---

---

NOTES: It is God who ordains and prepares wrath for the wicked. The word "dregs" comes from the Hebrew word shemer, which may also be translated, "lees." It refers to the sediment or settlings at the bottom of a wine bottle. Every drop will be swallowed down by the wicked until they are filled with the bitter sediments at the very bottom of the cup. Upon the cross, the Son of God stood in place of God's people, took the cup of wrath from the hand of God, and drank down every drop. The cup containing the wrath of God against sin was drained out on Him.

6. Having considered the terrible wrath that Christ suffered upon the cross, we must once again emphasize that His suffering was the very will of God and the means by which salvation was provided for God's people. What does Isaiah 53:10 teach us about this truth?

---

---

NOTES: The title "Lord" is translated from the Hebrew word Yahweh (or Jehovah). It is a reference to God Himself. According to Acts 2:23, Christ was delivered up "by the pre-determined plan and foreknowledge of God." The phrase "will of the Lord" is translated, in part, from the Hebrew word chaphets, which means, "to delight in, be pleased with, or desire." The Father did not obtain some sadistic pleasure from crushing His own Son under the full weight of His wrath; but through Christ's suffering and death, the will of God was accomplished, the way of salvation was opened for His people, and thereby the Father was pleased. The word "crush" comes from the Hebrew word daka, which means, "to crush, smite, or break in pieces." Christ was crushed by the Father and put to grief so that His people might be saved through His suffering and death.

Chapter 11: The Son Died

The incredible suffering that Christ endured on Calvary was not enough to pay for our sins. The wages of sin is death; therefore, it was also necessary that Christ die.

OUR SUBJECTION TO DEATH

From its first mention in the Scriptures, death is treated as the result of God's judgment against the sin of man (Genesis 2:17). Every tombstone is a manifestation of God's judgment against our fallen race. This does not necessarily mean that some die sooner than others because they are greater sinners. There are children who die in the womb without committing a single act of sin, and there are those who live in rebellion against God for decades. It simply means that every one of us is part of a fallen race and that death is one manifestation of God's judgment against us.

1. According to Romans 5:12, how did death enter into the world that God had made?

---

---

---

NOTES: The "one man" is a reference to Adam. It is the clear witness of the Scriptures that death is not a natural phenomenon, but a result of the judgment of God against sin. It entered into the world through Adam's sin and has passed on to every one of Adam's descendants because of sin (see also verses 15 and 17).

2. We must understand that death is not just a natural consequence of sin from which God is far removed. According to the Scriptures, the death of each man is in accordance with the sovereign decree of God. He has not only appointed the day of every man's death, but He Himself will also bring it to fruition. What do Deuteronomy 32:39, I Samuel 2:6, and Hebrews 9:27 teach us about this truth?

---

---

3. Throughout the Scriptures, death is seen as the result of man's sin. Whether it is the imputed sin of Adam or the personal unrighteousness of every person, the principle is the same: all men die because all men sin. What do the following Scriptures teach us about this truth?

a. Ezekiel 18:4, 20

---

---

---

b. Romans 6:23

---

---

---

4. In Isaiah 64:6, the relationship between death and man's sin is illustrated in poetic fashion. Read the text until you are familiar with its contents. How is man's moral corruption described? What are the inevitable consequences of man's moral corruption and active pursuit of sin?

THE NECESSITY OF CHRIST'S DEATH

We have violated God's law and deserve death and hell. Our pardon is impossible unless the penalty for our sins is paid and the just demands of God's law are satisfied. This is the heart of the gospel of Jesus Christ. He carried our sin and died in our place, suffering the punishment demanded by a holy God and His righteous law.

1. On the cross, Christ bore our sin and suffered under the wrath of God as our Substitute. His death satisfied the demands of the law that we had violated, and it made our pardon possible. The following summary from the Scriptures will help us to understand this truth.
  - a. We all have S_____ (Romans 3:23), but God caused the I_____ of us all to fall upon Christ (Isaiah 53:6).
  - b. We were under a C_____ for our sin (Galatians 3:10), but Christ redeemed us from it, having become a C_____ for us (Galatians 3:13).
  - c. Our iniquities (sins) had made a S_____ between God and us (Isaiah 59:2), but on the cross, Christ was F_____ in our place (Matthew 27:46).
  - d. We deserved the punishment and wrath of a holy God, but on the cross, Christ was P_____ for our T_____ and C_____ for our I_____ (Isaiah 53:5).
  - e. The wages of sin is D_____ (Romans 6:23), but on the cross, Christ D_____ for our sins once for all, the R_____ for the U_____, so that He might bring us to God (1 Peter 3:18).
2. In 1 Corinthians 15:1-4, we find the most complete and concise definition of the gospel in the Scriptures. According to this text, what are the three main elements of the biblical gospel?
  - a. Christ D_____ for our sins in accordance with the Scriptures (v.3). Here we see that it was necessary not only that Christ suffer the wrath of God upon Calvary, but also that He actually die for our sins.
  - b. Christ was B_____ (v.4). It would be wrong to see this as nothing more than a transitional phrase connecting Christ's death and resurrection. Christ's burial is mentioned in order to add emphasis to the reality of His death. He really was buried because He really did die.

c. Christ was R_____ on the third day according to the Scriptures (v.4). The resurrection of Jesus Christ should never be tacked on to the end of our gospel presentation as though it were an afterthought or a nonessential. In the book of Acts, the proclamation of the resurrection is given priority!

3. All four Gospel writers are careful to narrate the death of Jesus. Even though their descriptions are concise, they are nonetheless certain. Read each of the following accounts: Matthew 27:50; Mark 15:37; Luke 23:46; John 19:30. What are some of the major thoughts communicated?

---

NOTES: In the Gospel accounts, there are two things that are being communicated: (1) the reality of Christ's death—the wages of sin is death, and Christ paid that penalty for His people by dying in their place—and (2) Christ's sovereignty over His death—He yielded or gave up His spirit (Matthew 27:50; John 19:30); He committed His spirit into the hands of His Father (Luke 23:46). Christ did not die as an unwilling martyr; rather, He willingly gave His life as an atoning sacrifice in His people's place.

4. The following verses are some of the most important in Scripture with regard to Christ's death and its significance for His people. Summarize the meaning of each text in your own words.

Chapter 12: Christ Our Propitiation

The word “propitiation” comes from the Latin verb propiciare, which means, “to propitiate, appease, or make favorable.” In the English New Testament, the word “propitiation” is translated from the Greek word hilasmós, which refers to a sacrifice that satisfies the demands of God’s justice and appeases His wrath. To fully understand the meaning and significance of propitiation, we will review some of the central truths we have already learned in previous chapters.

In the Scriptures, the greatest of all dilemmas is set before us: God is righteous; therefore, He must act according to the strictest rules of justice, acquitting the innocent and condemning the guilty. If He pardons the guilty and does not punish every infraction of the law and every act of disobedience, then He is unjust. However, if He does act with justice toward every man and gives to every man exactly what he deserves, then all men will be condemned. This brings us to one of the greatest questions in all the Scriptures: “How can God be just and yet show mercy to those who ought to be condemned?” Or, as we previously rephrased the words of the Apostle Paul in Romans 3:26, “How can God be just and the justifier of sinful men?”

The answer to these questions is found in the word “propitiation” as it relates to the gospel of Jesus Christ. The same God who in righteousness condemns the wicked became a Man and died in place of the wicked. God did not ignore, forego, or pervert the demands of His justice in order to justify the wicked; but He satisfied the demands of divine justice against them and appeased His own wrath through the suffering and death of His Son. Christ is our propitiation in that His sacrifice has made it possible for a holy and just God to be merciful toward us and pardon our offenses against Him.

FORENSIC OR PENAL SATISFACTION

Whenever reference is made to Christ’s satisfaction of the demands of divine justice, it is important to understand exactly what is meant. Basically, there are two types of satisfaction: commercial and forensic (also called penal).

Commercial Satisfaction: The debt is satisfied only when the exact amount is paid. A debt of $50 is not satisfied by a payment of $25, nor can a debt of ten ounces of gold be satisfied with a payment of the same weight in clay.

Forensic or Penal Satisfaction: The debt is satisfied when the criminal serves the sentence decreed by the judge. The sentence is not required to be of the same nature as the crime. All that is required is that it should be a just equivalent. For theft, it may be a fine; for murder, imprisonment; and for treason, banishment.

From the above illustrations, it is evident that Christ’s sufferings were not commercial, but forensic or penal in nature. Christ did not pay the exact penalty under which His people were condemned—He did not suffer eternal condemnation in hell. But His sufferings were exactly what a holy and just God determined should be paid in order to satisfy divine justice and release the guilty from the penalty of sin.

SATISFACTION AND CHRIST'S INFINITE VALUE

Whenever reference is made to Christ's satisfaction of the demands of divine justice, it is also necessary to consider the doctrine of the infinite worth of Jesus Christ. How can one Man suffering on a cross for a few hours make payment for the sins of a nearly countless multitude of sinners and save them from an eternity of suffering in hell? How can the life of that one Man satisfy the justice of an absolutely holy God? The answer is found in the nature of the One who suffered and died. Since the Son of God was the fullness of deity in bodily form (Colossians 2:9), His life was of infinite worth—of infinitely greater worth than all those for whom He died. This is one of the most beautiful truths in all of Scripture.

PROPITIATION IN THE SCRIPTURES

In the following, we will consider some of the most important texts in the Scriptures that refer to Christ's sacrifice as the propitiation for our sins.

1. What do the following texts teach us about Christ as the propitiation for our sins?

---

---

NOTES: The word "propitiation" comes from the Greek word hilasmós (see definition in the introduction to this chapter). The sacrifice of Christ was not limited to the Jews, but also includes a people from every tribe and tongue and people and nation (Revelation 5:9).

b. 1 John 4:10

---

---

---

CHRIST OUR PROPITIATION

NOTES: The word “propitiation” comes from the Greek word hilasmós. God’s motivation for sending His Son was His sovereign and unconditional love for His people, which is totally independent of their merit or worth. The ultimate seal or proof of God’s love is the propitiating death of His Son for us.

c. Hebrews 2:17

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The phrase “make propitiation” comes from the Greek word hiláskomai, the verb form of the noun hilasmós. To give help to men, the Son of God had to take upon Himself their nature. It was necessary for a man to die for men (Hebrews 10:4), and only the God-Man could both represent God before man and represent man before God.

2. Like no other text in the Scriptures, Romans 3:23-28 explains the meaning of Christ’s death as the propitiation for our sins. Write your comments on each of the following phrases.

a. Whom God put forward as a propitiation (v.25).

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The phrase “put forward” comes from the Greek word protíthēmai, which means, “to place before or expose to public view.” It was God’s decree that His Son be publically crucified in order to clearly reveal His righteousness to all. Here, the word “propitiation” comes from the Greek word hilastêrion, which refers to a sacri-rice made to expiate, appease, or placate wrath and to obtain favor from an offended party. On the cross, God displayed His Son before the whole world as the propitiation for sin.

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

b. By his blood, to be received by faith (v.25).

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The most natural interpretation of this phrase is that the benefits of Christ's propitiation are received by faith. We are reconciled to God through faith in Christ and His sacrificial (bloody) death on our behalf.

c. This was to show God's righteousness, because in his divine forbearance he had passed over former sins (v.25).

---

---

---

NOTES: The great purpose behind God's public display of His Son's death was to demonstrate or prove His righteousness. But why was such a demonstration necessary? The clause cited above reveals to us the answer: "because in his divine forbearance he had passed over former sins." The mercy and forbearance that God has demonstrated toward sinful humanity since the fall of Adam would seem to cast doubt upon His claim to be righteous. Adam and Eve deserved death, but they were granted life; the entire world should have been destroyed during the time of the flood, but sinful Noah and his family were spared; Israel's constant rebellion against the law of God should have resulted in the nation's destruction; David should not have been forgiven his crimes of adultery and murder. How then can God be righteous and yet demonstrate mercy to those who should be condemned? The answer to this question is found in the suffering and death of Christ. God's long forbearance of His people's sin since the fall of Adam was not the result of His apathy or unrighteousness, but was founded upon the future coming of Christ to die for their sin. The mercy, forbearance, and pardon that God lavished upon Old Testament saints who believed in Him were possible only because Christ would come and die for them all! God's past, present, and future mercies are all possible because of the death of Christ. "Although the work of redemption was not actually wrought by Christ until after His incarnation, yet the virtue, efficacy, and benefits thereof were communicated unto the elect in all ages successively from the beginning of the world."<sup>4</sup>

- d. It was to show his righteousness at the present time, so that he might be just and the justifier of the one who has faith in Jesus (v.26).

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: In the suffering and death of Jesus Christ on Calvary, every obstacle that would prohibit a righteous God from forgiving His sinful people has been swept away. God demonstrated His righteousness by punishing the sins of His people, satisfying the demands of His justice and appeasing His wrath. He made a way of salvation for His people by standing in their place, bearing their sin, and extinguishing the wrath that was due them in His own body. For this reason, God can justify His people with no contradiction to His own holiness and righteousness.

Chapter 13: Christ Our Redemption

Three of the most important and beautiful words used in the Scriptures to describe God's work of salvation through Jesus Christ are redeem, ransom, and redemption. In the previous chapter, we considered at length the biblical truth of propitiation. Our present consideration of redemption is no less important to our understanding of the cross. Both truths are foundational to biblical Christianity and are to be proclaimed and defended.

REDEMPTION IN THE SCRIPTURES

The word "redeem" is derived from the Latin verb redimere [re = again + emere = to buy]. To redeem someone is to buy him back after he has been sold into slavery or taken captive. A redeemer is someone who redeems another. A ransom refers to the payment that is made. Redemption refers to the liberation that has been purchased. In the Scriptures, Christ is the Redeemer who has purchased redemption for His people through the offering of His own life as a ransom.

CHRIST – REDEEMER AND RANSOM

The Scriptures declare Jesus Christ to be both the Redeemer of His people and the ransom for His people. It is no wonder that these two words have been so highly esteemed among the people of God for centuries.

1. Christ is the Redeemer of His people, and His very life was the ransom that He paid. What do the following Scriptures teach us about this truth?
  - a. Christ came to give His life as a R_____ for many (Matthew 20:28). From the Greek word lútron, which is derived from the verb lúō ("to loose"). It was used with regard to the loosening of clothing, armor, bonds, and so forth. In the context of Matthew 20:28, it refers to the price paid for redeeming a slave or captive. The ransom that Christ paid for His people's redemption was His own life.
  - b. Christ gave Himself as a R_____ for all (1 Timothy 2:5-6). The word comes from the Greek word antílutron, which refers to the price that is paid in exchange for the freedom of another. The phrase, "the testimony given at the proper time," refers to the fact that Christ came and gave Himself as a ransom according to the perfect will of God and at the divinely appointed time in history.
2. The following texts are two of the most beautiful Scriptures that deal with the price that was paid to redeem God's people. Summarize their truths in your own words.
  - a. Acts 20:28

---

CHRIST OUR REDEMPTION

---

NOTES: Christ did not just redeem the Church; He redeemed her for Himself. The Church is here called the “church of God which He [God] obtained with His own blood.” This is a strong reference to the deity of Christ. The Man who shed His blood on Calvary was the fullness of deity in bodily form (Colossians 2:9). The blood He gave for our redemption was of infinite value.

b. 1 Peter 1:18-19

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The word “precious” comes from the Greek word tímios, which refers to something of great price, something worthy of honor and esteem, or something especially dear. The precious blood of Christ stands in stark contrast to all the perishable things that men might attempt to offer for their redemption. The phrase “without blemish” comes from the Greek word ámōmos, which denotes that which is faultless and without blame. The phrase “without spot” comes from the Greek word áspilos, which denotes that which is unsullied, irreproachable, and without censure.

3. What do the following Scriptures teach us about our redemption? Is it an accomplished fact? Has our sin debt been paid in full?

---

---

---

---

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

NOTES: The words "It is finished!" make up the most powerful declaration of liberation that the world has ever known. The phrase comes from the single Greek word teléō, which means, "to finish, accomplish, or fulfill; to bring to an end or to closure; to perform the final act or deed which completes a process." The same word was used just two verses earlier in John 19:28, "After this, Jesus, knowing that all was now finished, said (to fulfill the Scripture), 'I thirst.'"

b. Hebrews 9:12

---

---

---

NOTES: By virtue of His death, Christ ascended into heaven to be the Mediator for God's people. From the phrase "securing eternal redemption," we glean two great truths. First, our redemption is not temporary, but eternal and immutable. Secondly, our redemption has already been obtained; it is secure.

REDEMPTION FROM THE PENALTY OF THE LAW

Every man has broken the law of God and is exposed to its penalty or curse. Jesus Christ redeemed His people from the curse of the law by paying its penalty with His own life.

1. How is the penalty of the law described in Galatians 3:10? Who is under this penalty? What does it mean?

---

---

---

NOTES: The law requires perfect obedience. Paul uses the words "abide" and "do" to emphasize that the law requires continuous, perfect, and practical obedience. The slightest deviation brings man under the curse of the law. The word "curse" comes from the Greek word katára, which may also be translated, "imprecation," "cursing," or "malediction." It denotes divine judgment and condemnation of the severest sort or the act of devoting someone to punishment or destruction.

CHRIST OUR REDEMPTION

2. According to Galatians 3:13, from what have God's people been redeemed, and how did Christ achieve this redemption?

---

---

---

NOTES: The word "redeemed" comes from the Greek word exagorázō, which means, "to buy, to make payment of a price, or to recover something or someone from the power of another." It was often used with regard to the buying of a slave's freedom. Christ bore our sin, became a curse, and suffered the wrath of God to accomplish our redemption. The word "tree" comes from the Greek word xúlon, which is literally translated, "wood." It was used in classical Greek with reference to poles and stakes upon which the bodies of victims were impaled. Under the Old Testament Law, criminals were hung upon trees and stakes as a sign that they were accursed of God (Deuteronomy 21:23).

3. In Colossians 2:14, Christ's work of redemption is described in a very picturesque manner. According to this text, from what has Christ redeemed His people? How was this redemption accomplished? Write your thoughts under each phrase.

- a. By canceling the record of debt that stood against us with its legal demands.

---

---

---

---

---

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

NOTES: The word “record” comes from the Greek word cheirógraphon. It was often used with reference to a written note acknowledging a money debt or a written indictment against a criminal. The phrase “legal demands” comes from the Greek word dóγμα, which refers to a public decree or ordinance. In this context, it probably refers to the legal demands of the law that were against us as a result of our disobedience. The word “canceling” comes from the Greek word exaleíphō, which means, “to wipe away, erase, or blot out.” Christ wiped out or erased all our debt to God and His law.

b. This he set aside, nailing it to the cross.

---

---

---

NOTES: By His death on Calvary, Christ paid our debt and satisfied every demand against us. The phrase, “nailing it to the cross,” is open to various interpretations. Some believe it refers to the custom of posting one’s certificate of debt in a public place for all to see, once the debt was paid. The purpose was to vindicate the debtor and to ensure that no other demands might be made against him. Our debt was paid by Christ’s death; the law can no longer make a demand against us. Others believe it refers to the custom of nailing the indictments against a criminal above his body (e.g. on a cross) to publicize his crimes and make known to all the reason for his execution (Matthew 27:37). Christ bore our sin on Calvary and bore the penalty of the law in our place.

Chapter 14: Christ Our Liberation

The Scriptures teach not only that fallen man lives under the penalty of the law, but also that he is in bondage to the rule of Satan. Christ redeemed His people from this terrifying reality by dying in their place, thereby both paying the penalty they deserved and disarming Satan of his power.

Before we proceed with our study, it is very important to understand that, although Christ redeemed His people from the power of Satan, the ransom was paid not to Satan but to God. Down through the ages of Christian history, some have wrongly believed that Christ paid a ransom to Satan and thus freed His people from slavery. This clearly contradicts Scripture, diminishes the glory of Christ's redemptive work, and gives to Satan a grossly unbiblical status. The Scriptures teach us that Christ offered Himself as a sacrifice to God in payment for the sins of His people. His death satisfied God's justice and canceled our sin debt, thereby disarming Satan of his power to accuse.

SATAN'S AUTHORITY AND MAN'S BONDAGE

Although God rules over all creation with absolute authority, limited dominion has in a real sense been given to Satan, and through it he rules over this fallen world and its inhabitants.

1. In Luke 4:5-6, Satan makes a declaration about himself and his relationship to this fallen world. What does he declare, and what does it mean?

---

---

NOTES: At the fall, the world and its inhabitants came under the dominion of Satan. However, we must keep in mind that this dominion is subject to the will of God.

2. Satan's declaration in Luke 4:6 was no idle boast. There is a real sense in which this fallen world lies under his dominion. What does I John 5:19 teach us about this truth?
  - a. The W_____ world lies in the P_____ of the evil one.

NOTES: The word "whole" refers not only to mankind collectively but also to every individual outside of Christ. The word "lies" comes from the Greek word keímai, which means, "to lie or recline." Mankind in general is not fighting to break free from Satan's rule, but he lives instead in conformity to it.

3. In the Scriptures, a name often communicates something about the person who bears it. What are the names or titles given to Satan in the following Scriptures?
  - a. The R_____ of this W_____ (John 12:31; 14:30; 16:11). The word "ruler" comes from the Greek word árchōn, which may also be translated, "commander" or "chief." This "world" refers to the great mass of humanity that lives in alienation from God and in rebellion against His will.
  - b. The G_____ of this W_____ (II Corinthians 4:4). There is only one true God (I Corinthians 8:4-6), yet this fallen world follows Satan as though he were its god. Though Satan does not possess the attributes of God, he parades himself as God and desires to be worshiped as God.
  - c. The P_____ of the P_____ of the A_____ (Ephesians 2:2). Satan is a spirit and is unhindered by the material restraints of man. His power and authority go far beyond any "earthbound" prince. He possesses real power and influence over the spiritually dead (see verse 1).
4. How is fallen man described in the following Scriptures? What is the relationship between fallen man and Satan?
  - a. Fallen man is a child of the D_____ (I John 3:8, 10; John 8:44). Fallen man is a child of the devil in that he reflects the character and will of the devil. In John 8:44, Jesus declared that the Pharisees were of their father the devil and that they wanted "to do [their] father's desires."
  - b. Fallen man lives under the P_____ of Satan (Acts 26:18). The word comes from the Greek word exousía, which may also be translated, "dominion" or "authority." Fallen man exists under the authority and power of Satan. In Colossians 1:13, Satan's domain is described as one of spiritual and moral darkness.
  - c. Fallen man walks A_____ to the will of Satan (Ephesians 2:2). Fallen man is marked by disobedience to God and by walking according to the will of the devil. Fallen men are rightly called "sons of disobedience" in whom the devil is working. The phrase "at work" comes from the Greek word energéō, which means, "to be operative; to work effectually or energetically with power."
  - d. Fallen man is B_____ by the devil (II Corinthians 4:4). Those men who refuse to believe the testimony of God come under a terrifying judgment—they are given over to Satan to be spiritually and morally blinded by his lies and deceptions.
  - e. Fallen man is caught in the S_____ of the devil (II Timothy 2:26). The word comes from the Greek word pagís, which refers to a snare, trap, or noose in which prey would be entangled and captured. It was usually hidden from view and would spring upon its victims and catch them unawares. Fallen men are unknowingly caught in the devil's snare until by the grace of God they come to their senses and escape through the light of the gospel.

- f. Fallen man is B _____ C _____ by the devil (II Timothy 2:26). The phrase comes from the Greek word zōgréō, which means, "to capture or take alive." By rejecting the benevolent authority of God, fallen man comes under the enslaving authority of Satan. Satan offers fallen man freedom from God's moral law, but this "freedom" always leads to the bondage of sin.
- g. Fallen man F _____ Satan (I Timothy 5:15). The word "strayed" comes from the Greek word ektrépō, which means literally, "to turn or twist out." It was used to describe the act of turning aside to avoid meeting or associating with someone. In a medical context it was used to describe dislocated limbs. Those who turn aside from the will of God demonstrate that they want no part or association with Him. By default, they become "followers" of Satan. Although fallen man may follow Satan ignorantly, he does not follow unwillingly. There is a natural affinity between Satan and fallen man. They are of the same corrupt nature and manifest the same disposition of enmity toward God.

CHRIST'S VICTORY AND OUR REDEMPTION

The Scriptures teach that the penalty of sin is death (Romans 6:23) and that Satan has been granted the power to inflict this penalty upon men (Hebrews 2:14-15). Christ triumphed over Satan through His life, death, and resurrection. By dying in the place of His people, He paid their debt and stripped Satan of his power.

1. In Genesis 3:15, we find an extremely important prophecy regarding the work of the Messiah who would come. According to this prophecy, what would the Christ do to the person and work of the devil? How would He bring about the devil's defeat?

---

---

---

NOTES: This passage is often referred to as the protoevangelium [Latin: proto = first + evangelium = gospel] or "first gospel." The "offspring" of woman refers to the Son of God, who, becoming incarnate, would wage war against Satan and conquer him. The Messiah would bruise Satan on the head—He would inflict him with a mortal wound. Satan would bruise the Messiah on the heel—Christ would suffer in His battle with the serpent (Isaiah 53:4-5), but the wound would not ultimately be fatal: the Messiah would rise again! According to Romans 16:20, God's people will share in the Messiah's victory: "The God of peace will soon crush Satan under your feet."

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

2. What does I John 3:8 teach us about the purpose of Christ's coming?

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The word "destroy" comes from the Greek word lúō, which refers to loosening, undoing, breaking up, or destroying. Christ's coming destroyed the works of the devil, especially with regard to the bondage of His people.

3. What does Colossians 2:15 teach with regard to Christ's triumph over the devil and His work of redemption on behalf of His people?

---

---

---

NOTES: The phrase "rulers and authorities" is a reference to Satan and the fallen angels. The basis for Satan's power over God's people was their sin, which separated them from God, brought them under the curse, and exposed them to the penalty of death. When Christ interposed and paid the penalty or debt for His people's sin, Satan's power over them was undone. The word "disarmed" comes from the Greek word apekdúomai, which means, "to strip off, despoil, or disarm." The phrase "open shame" comes from the Greek word deigmatízō, which means, "to make an example of or to show as an example." Christ was publically displayed as our propitiation (Romans 3:25), and His death on Calvary brought about Satan's public defeat. Christ's triumph over the devil and his angels was through the cross, where He bore our sin, suffered in our place, and canceled the certificate of debt against us. The removal of sin brought an end to death and the devil's power to inflict it!

4. What does Hebrews 2:14-15 teach us regarding Christ's triumph over the devil and His work of redemption on behalf of His people?

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The word "share" comes from the Greek word koinōnéō, which means, "to fellowship, take part, or commune together." All men share a common fellowship in flesh and blood and a common communion in its fallen sorrows. The eternal Son of God joined our fellowship of flesh and blood and drank from our communion cup of misery. The devil had power over death in that he could rightly accuse mankind of sin and demand the just penalty of death. Christ paid that penalty and silenced all accusations.

Chapter 15: Christ Our Reconciliation

Part One: The Doctrine of Reconciliation

The one question that most world religions have in common is: “How can a sinful man be reconciled to a just God?” While all other religions point to man’s works as a means of reconciliation, the Scriptures point away from man to the person and work of Jesus Christ. Sinful man may be reconciled to God only through Christ’s work on Calvary.

WHAT IS RECONCILIATION?

The word “reconcile” comes from the Latin word reconciliare [re = again, anew + conciliare = to assemble, unite, win over]. It means, “to bring together again, to unite anew, to bring into agreement, to make favorable or receptive, to restore friendship or harmony.” In the New Testament, “reconcile” and “reconciliation” are translated from the following Greek words.

diallássō: To change or to change the mind; to reconcile; to renew a relationship with another. This word is only used in Matthew 5:24, with regard to being reconciled to an offended brother.

katallássō: To change or exchange, as one might exchange coins for others of equivalent value; to reconcile; to return to favor. In I Corinthians 7:11, it refers to reconciliation between a woman and her husband. In Romans 5:10 (twice) and II Corinthians 5:18-20 (three times), it is used with reference to reconciliation with God.

apokatallássō: A stronger or more intense form of katallássō; it refers to reconciling completely. It is used in Ephesians 2:16 and Colossians 1:20 and 22 with reference to God.

katallagê: A noun related to the verb katallássō. In secular literature, the word refers to an exchange made in the business of moneychangers, the exchanging of equivalent values, or the adjustment of differences. Figuratively, it refers to reconciliation or restoration to the favor of another. In the New Testament, it refers to the restoration of God’s favor to sinners who repent and put their faith in the person and work of Christ (Romans 5:11; 11:15; II Corinthians 5:18-19).

WHO WAS RECONCILED TO WHOM?

Having considered the biblical definitions of the terms “reconcile” and “reconciliation,” we are brought to a very important question: “Who was reconciled to whom?” That is, did the cross reconcile man to God (i.e. make man favorably disposed to God) or God to man (i.e. make God favorably disposed to man)?

This question is important because some erroneously believe that although sinful man is at enmity with God (i.e. against God), God is never at enmity with man (i.e. against man). However, the Bible teaches that God is also at enmity with the sinner. He is just and holy; therefore, He is angry with the sinner (Psalm 5:5; 7:11; John 3:36), estranged from the sinner (Psalm 5:4; Isaiah 59:2), and disposed to judge the sinner (Psalm 7:11-13; 11:5-6).

CHRIST OUR RECONCILIATION (PART ONE)

Therefore, our answer to the question, "Who was reconciled to whom?" is two-fold. (1) The cross reconciled God to us in that Christ paid our sin debt, satisfying the justice of God and appeasing His wrath. This removed God's enmity against us and made it possible for Him to justify us through faith in His Son. (2) We are reconciled to God through the cross when, through the regenerating and quickening work of the Holy Spirit, we repent of our sin (i.e. cease our hostility in thought and deed) and place our faith in Christ.

1. In Romans 5:10-11 is found one of the most important texts in the Scriptures with regard to the doctrine of reconciliation. Read the text until you are familiar with its contents, and then write your thoughts on the following phrases. What do they teach us about biblical reconciliation?

a. For if while we were enemies (v.10).

---

---

NOTES: The word "enemy" comes from the Greek adjective echthros, which refers to someone who is hostile, hateful, or in bitter opposition to another. In the Gospels, it is used to describe the devil (Matthew 13:39; Luke 10:19); in Romans 8:7 and Colossians 1:21, it is used to describe the "hostile" mind or thoughts of fallen man. It is often held that man is the enemy of God, but God is never the enemy of man. However, this statement is very misleading. Although the enmity or hostility described in verse 10 is mutual, many theologians place the emphasis on God's holy hostility or righteous indignation toward sinful man. Charles Hodge writes, "There is not only a wicked opposition of the sinner to God, but a holy opposition of God to the sinner."<sup>5</sup> Robert L. Reymond writes, "The word 'enemies' does not highlight our unholy hatred of God but rather God's holy hatred of us."<sup>6</sup> Matthew Henry writes, "This enmity is a mutual enmity, God loathing the sinner, and the sinner loathing God."<sup>7</sup>

b. We were reconciled to God by the death of His Son (v.10).

---

---

NOTES: The word “reconciled” comes from the Greek word katallássō (see definition above, under “What Is Reconciliation?”). The death of Christ is the grounds or foundation for the believer’s reconciliation to God. With regard to God: Christ’s death satisfied the just demands of God’s law, appeased the wrath of God, and made it possible for God both to maintain His justice and to justify the sinner. With regard to man: Christ’s death removed the obstacle of sin and its penalties and opened the door for God’s transforming work of salvation in the sinner’s heart. Through the regenerating work of the Holy Spirit, the sinner’s hatred or enmity toward God is changed to love, and his disdain for God’s law is changed to reverence and a desire to obey.

- c. Much more, now that we are reconciled, shall we be saved by his life (v.10).

---

---

---

NOTES: The believer has been reconciled. The believer’s reconciliation is a completed reality founded upon the once-and-for-all death of Christ. We are not waiting to be reconciled, but are fully and completely reconciled the moment we believe. Question: If we are reconciled by His death, how are we saved by His life? Answer: Christ’s death is the sole foundation of our reconciliation to God. But it is the risen and exalted Christ who calls us, enlivens us, keeps us, perfects us, and lives forever to make intercession for us before the throne of God (Hebrews 7:25).

- d. More than that, we also rejoice in God through our Lord Jesus Christ, through whom we have now received reconciliation (v.11).

---

---

NOTES: Those who recognize that their reconciliation is through Christ alone are moved to exult or boast in God alone. The word "exult" comes from the Greek word kauchaomai, which indicates a glorying or even boasting on account of something or someone. In Philippians 3:3, the Apostle Paul describes the true Christian as one who glories "in Christ Jesus and put[s] no confidence in the flesh." In I Corinthians 1:31, Paul writes, "Let him who boasts, boast in the Lord."

2. In Colossians 1:19-22 is found an important text regarding the doctrine of reconciliation. Read the text until you are familiar with its contents, and then write your thoughts on the following phrases.

a. For in him all the fullness of God was pleased to dwell (v.19).

---

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: Christ is God in the flesh. Therefore, there is nothing deficient in His person or work; there is nothing that can fail; there is no weak link in the chain of our salvation. Our reconciliation is accomplished and inalterable.

b. And through Him to reconcile to himself all things (v.20).

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

NOTES: Christ alone is God's appointed Reconciler, and there is no other. Here and in verse 22, the word "reconcile" comes from the Greek word apokatállassō (see definition above, under "What Is Reconciliation?"). The phrase "all things" is further described in verse 20 as all things on earth and in heaven.

c. Whether on earth or in heaven (v.20).

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: Several truths can be gleaned from this text. First, sin has affected all creation (Romans 8:19-21). Only through the cross of Christ can sin be removed and its devastating effects be put right. Secondly, Christ's work brings reconciliation not only between God and man, but also between man and man. Finally, Christ will eventually bring peace to the entire universe. He will banish the fallen angels and the unredeemed so that they will no longer bring disunity and hostility to God's creation.

NOTES: Reconciliation and peace with God are possible only through the vicarious suffering and death of Christ. Any “gospel” that denies or diminishes the importance of this truth is a false gospel. Through the death of Christ alone, our debt of sin has been paid, God’s justice has been satisfied, and His wrath has been appeased.

- e. And you, who once were alienated and hostile in mind, doing evil deeds (v.21).

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The words used to describe the Christian’s former state are the very opposite of reconciliation. The word “alienated” comes from the Greek word apallotrióō, which denotes one’s being shut out from fellowship and intimacy with another. The word “hostile” comes from the Greek word echthros, which refers to one who is hostile, hateful, opposing, and at enmity.

- f. He has now reconciled in his body of flesh by his death (v.22).

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

NOTES: Two truths come to the forefront. First, reconciliation is possible only through the vicarious suffering and death of Christ. Secondly, the believer's reconciliation is an accomplished fact or reality.

g. In order to present you holy and blameless and above reproach before him (v.22).

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: Here is described one of the great goals or ends of our reconciliation—to be holy, blameless, and beyond reproach before God. This not only refers to the believer's positional standing before God in Christ, but also to the real and personal transformation of the believer. The process through which God transforms those whom He justifies and reconciles is called sanctification [Latin: sanctus = holy + facere = to make]. The process begins at the moment of conversion, continues through the believer's entire life, and is perfected when the believer is glorified in heaven.

Part Two: The Ministry of Reconciliation

In the previous chapter, we considered the meaning of the word “reconciliation,” looked at the biblical interpretation of the doctrine of reconciliation, and studied two biblical passages that deal with the subject. In this chapter, we will take a close look at one more text that sheds light on both the doctrinal and the practical importance of our reconciliation in Christ and details the ministry of reconciliation that has been entrusted to us. How should our being reconciled to God affect the way we live our lives? What should our response to God’s gift of reconciliation be?

1. In II Corinthians 5:17-20 is found an important text about both the doctrine of reconciliation and the ministry of reconciliation that is given to the believer. Read the text until you are familiar with its contents, and then write your thoughts on the following phrases.

a. ...God, who through Christ reconciled us to himself (v.18).

---

---

---

NOTES: The word “reconciled” comes from the Greek word katallássō (see definition in the previous chapter, under “What Is Reconciliation?”). There are three principal truths in this phrase. First, the believer’s reconciliation is an accomplished reality. Secondly, reconciliation is a work of God that He initiated and accomplished—man has no power to bring about reconciliation. Finally, reconciliation is brought about only through the person and work of Christ.

b. And gave us the ministry of reconciliation (v.18).

---

---

---

NOTES: Those who have been reconciled to God have been given a great stewardship or responsibility to share the gospel with others, so that they also might be reconciled. God has chosen to reconcile men to Himself through the preaching of the gospel.

- c. That is, in Christ God was reconciling the world to himself, not counting their trespasses against them (v.19).

---

---

NOTES: Here is another evidence of the deity of Christ. In Christ, God came to earth to effect our reconciliation. Reconciliation is only possible because Christ removed the one great obstacle to peace—our trespasses. He accomplished this by dying for the sins of His people, satisfying the demands of God’s justice and appeasing His wrath.

- d. And entrusting to us the message of reconciliation (v.19).

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The gospel of Jesus Christ is the work of reconciliation. The word “entrusted” comes from the Greek word tithēmi, which means, “to appoint, commit, or ordain.”

CHRIST OUR RECONCILIATION (PART TWO)

Believers have been entrusted with a great charge or stewardship: preaching the gospel to their generation.

- e. Therefore, we are ambassadors for Christ, God making his appeal through us (v.20).

---

---

---

---

NOTES: God uses men to make His work of reconciliation known to others. It is a royal calling. Those who preach the gospel are dignitaries communicating God's appeal to men.

- f. We implore you on behalf of Christ, be reconciled to God (v.20).

---

---

---

NOTES: The word "implore" comes from the Greek word déomai, which means, "to entreat, implore, beg, ask, or pray." In imploring men to be reconciled to God, we are calling them not merely to put away their hostility toward God, but to take advantage of God's offering of reconciliation through the person and work of Christ. God will extend an olive branch of peace for only a certain number of days. The offer will be withdrawn at the death of every man and at the second coming of Christ. There should be great urgency in our pleading with men to come to Christ. For this reason, the Apostle Paul declares, "Behold, now is the favorable time; behold, now is the day of salvation" (II Corinthians 6:2). Again, the writer of Hebrews declares, "Today if you hear His voice, do not harden your hearts" (3:15; 4:7).

Chapter 17: Christ the Sacrifice

The word “sacrifice” comes from the Latin verb sacerfacere [sacer = sacred or holy + facere = to make]. In Hebrew and Greek respectively, the primary words employed are zebah and thusía. Both words refer to something that is slaughtered or killed as an offering in the place of another. God’s justice demands the sinner’s death; the sacrifice is killed and offered in the sinner’s place to satisfy God’s justice and appease His wrath.

In the Old Testament, every violation of the Law required a substitutionary sacrifice. An unblemished animal was slaughtered and offered to God in the place of the one who had violated His commandment. It is important to note that the “blood of bulls and goats” was powerless to take away the sin (Hebrews 10:4). Such sacrifices served only as illustrations of the following things: (1) the seriousness of sin and its punishment—“the wages of sin is death” (Romans 6:23); (2) the need for a substitutionary sacrifice to satisfy the demands of God’s justice; and (3) the need for a great and final sacrifice made by One of infinite value—the Son of God.

1. Read Hebrews 10:1-4; what does this passage teach us about the inability of animal sacrifice to remove sin?
  - a. According to verse 1a, why was animal sacrifice, which was required by the Old Testament Law, unable to take away the sins of God’s people?

(1) The Law and its sacrifices were only a S_____ of the good things to come and not the true F_____ of things.

NOTES: The word “shadow” comes from the Greek word skía, which may refer to a shadow or an outline. The word “form” comes from the Greek word eikôn, which denotes a form or image. The Old Testament sacrifices were only a faint shadow or rough outline of the true image: the sacrifice of Christ.

- b. According to verses 1b-2, how do we know that the Old Testament animal sacrifices were unable to take away sin and cleanse God’s people?
  - (1) They had to be C_____ offered every year (v.1b).
  - (2) If they had taken away sin, they would have C_____ to be offered (v.2).

NOTES: The logic is easy to follow. If the animal sacrifice had been able to purify God’s people, there would have been no need to offer them “continually year by year.” Once would have been enough. As these sacrifices continued to be offered every year, they reminded the people of their outstanding sin or guilt.

CHRIST THE SACRIFICE

- c. According to verse 4, animal sacrifices are entirely incapable of taking away the sins of God's people and cleansing them from defilement. From what we have observed in the previous verses, explain in your own words why this is so.

---

---

NOTES: Man has sinned against God; therefore, man must die. Sacrificial animals could never satisfy the demands of divine justice against man. The only sufficient sacrifice must be a Man of infinite perfection and worth—the God-Man Jesus Christ!

2. Hebrews 10:5-10 is one of the most important Scriptures regarding the superiority of Christ's sacrifice. Read the text, and answer the following questions.

- a. According to verses 5-6, what did Christ declare regarding animal sacrifices?

---

---

NOTES: Christ is not denying that God ordained animal sacrifices under the Law of Moses; He is simply declaring that they were powerless to take away sin. Their purpose was to point to Christ.

- b. According to verses 5-7, what did Christ declare to be the replacement for the ineffective animal sacrifices?

(1) But a B_____ You have P_____ for Me (v.5). The writer of Hebrews is quoting from Psalm 40:6 in the Septuagint (the Greek translation of the Hebrew Old Testament). Applied to Christ, it refers to His incarnation and entire devotion to doing the will of God.

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

(2) I have come to D_____ your W_____, O God (v.7). This is a reference not only to Christ's disposition to do the will of God, but also to His perfect completion of it.

c. According to verse 10, what was the will of God, and what did it accomplish?

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The will of God was for Christ to offer His body once and for all as the Sin-Bearer of His people. His perfect offering is what sanctifies His people or makes them holy before God (1 Thessalonians 3:13).

d. According to verse 9, when Christ died for the sins of His people, what change occurred in God's dealings with His people?

(1) He took away the F_____ in order to establish the S_____.

NOTES: Christ's incarnation and work of redemption brought an end to the sacrificial system of the Old Covenant with its priests and ceremonies. He is the Fulfillment of all of the Old Testament promises and types and the Foundation of the New Covenant; through Him, the believer draws near to God.

3. Hebrews 9:11-14 is another wonderful text that shows the superiority of Christ's offering. How is the superiority of Christ's priesthood and sacrifice demonstrated in these verses?

a. Verse 11

CHRIST THE SACRIFICE

NOTES: The Old Testament priests entered into the earthly sanctuary with the blood of animals. Christ offered the sacrifice of Himself on the cross of Calvary and entered into the very presence of God.

b. Verse 12

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: Having shed His blood at Calvary, Christ appeared before God in heaven as His people's Representative. This verse does not teach that Christ presented His blood to God in heaven.

c. Verses 13-14

---

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: If the blood of animals offered by sinful priests in an earthly sanctuary provided ceremonial or external cleansing for the unclean, then the blood of Christ is able to do much more! Our good works cannot quiet our nagging conscience, which declares us to be sinners in spite of all our futile attempts to be righteous. The once-and-for-all sacrifice of Christ is able to take away every sin, cleanse the conscience of all guilt, and free us to serve God with peace and joy.

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

4. One of the most important truths regarding Christ's sacrifice is that it was offered once and for all for every sin of the people of God. In the book of Hebrews, this truth is a recurring theme. Write your thoughts on each of the following texts.

a. Hebrews 9:25-26

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The great superiority of Christ's sacrifice as compared to those of the Old Covenant is that His one sacrifice put an end to His people's sin once and for all.

b. Hebrews 9:27-28

---

---

---

---

NOTES: Christ's sacrifice for sin is so complete that His return for His people will be to bring salvation, without any reference to their sins.

c. Hebrews 10:12

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The contrast is made between the priest, who is “standing daily,” (v.11) and Christ, who has “sat down.” That Christ has sat down at the right hand of the Father is evidence that His work is complete.

d. Hebrews 10:14

---

---

---

NOTES: To be in a right relationship with God, a man must be perfect, entirely separated from sin and separated to God. What is impossible for sinful man has been made possible in Christ. All those who trust in Christ and His sacrifice are given a perfect standing before God, one that is unchanging and eternal. Their sins and lawless deeds He will remember no more (v.17).

Chapter 18: Christ the Lamb

Closely associated with the theme of sacrifice is the Scripture’s reference to Christ as the “Lamb of God.” The lamb played an important role in the history and worship of Israel. Under the Old Testament sacrificial system, a lamb without spot was offered in the daily morning and evening sacrifices (Exodus 29:38-39). On the Sabbath, the number of offerings was doubled (Numbers 28:9-10). Also, it was a lamb that was slain in the Passover, the religious festival that commemorated God’s deliverance of Israel from the land of Egypt and the terrible bonds of slavery.

Although the metaphor of a lamb certainly suggests the gentleness and meekness of Christ’s demeanor, this is not its primary significance. In light of the historical background, the picture of Christ as the “Lamb” points primarily to Him as the atoning sacrifice for the sins of His people.

CHRIST THE SACRIFICIAL LAMB

The lamb played an important role in the Old Testament sacrificial system. However, such sacrifices were mere shadows and types that pointed to the one Lamb who would come to take away the sins of the world! That Lamb is Jesus Christ of Nazareth.

1. How does John the Baptist refer to Jesus Christ in John 1:29 and 1:36? What are the truths communicated? Write your thoughts.

---

---

NOTES: Being a member of the priestly family, John the Baptist was more than familiar with the themes of the sacrificial lamb and the lamb of the Passover. The fact that John’s designation appears twice is very significant (1:29, 36). John the Baptist saw Jesus not as a political deliverer or merely a role model, but as the sacrificial Lamb appointed by God to take away the sins of the world. The phrase “takes away” comes from the Greek word airō, which carries the idea of lifting or taking up. With reference to Christ, it means that He took up our sins and bore them away. The verb is in the present tense, indicating a continuous action. The power or efficacy of Christ’s death continues to the end of the world. The word “sin” is in the singular, indicating sin as a whole—the totality of every kind and type of sin.

2. In Isaiah 53:6-7 is a description of God's people and the work of the Messiah on their behalf. How does Isaiah's description parallel that of John the Baptist in John 1:29?

---

---

NOTES: The word "astray" comes from the Hebrew word ta`ah, which means, "to err, go astray, wander about, or stagger." It is sometimes used with reference to intoxication. All men have strayed from God and are as intoxicated men who stagger in their drunkenness. The phrase, "each of us has turned to his own way," proves that all men have followed a way that seems right to them, but its end is the way of death (Proverbs 14:12). To save us, it was necessary that Christ bear our iniquity and be led to the slaughter as our Substitute. Here we see that John the Baptist was not the first prophet to refer to the Messiah as the Lamb who would bear the sin of His people.

3. In I Peter 1:18-20, we find one of the most beautiful texts in all of Scripture regarding the person and work of Christ. In this text, how does Peter refer to Jesus Christ and His work of salvation on behalf of His people? Read the text several times until you are familiar with its contents, and then write your thoughts on the following verses.
- a. Knowing that you were not ransomed from the futile ways inherited from your forefathers, not with perishable things such as silver or gold (v.18).

---

NOTES: The word "ransomed" comes from the Greek word lutrōō, which means, "to buy back someone or something from slavery or captivity." In this context, the believer is ransomed, or redeemed, from the futile or vain way of life that he has inherited from his forefathers. This can apply to the pagan or Jew. The traditions, religious rituals, and moral codes of Jew and Gentile alike have no power to save.

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

b. but with the precious blood of Christ, like that of a lamb without blemish or spot (v.19).

---

---

NOTES: According to Leviticus 22:20-24, an unblemished lamb was required as an offering. According to Peter, Christ is that Lamb. The Scriptures declare, "for the ransom of [a man's] life is costly and can never suffice" (Psalm 49:8). No payment that a man could make would be enough to redeem his soul. Only the blood shed by Christ on Calvary was sufficient, because it was of infinite value.

CHRIST THE PASSOVER LAMB

It was a lamb that was slain in the Passover, the religious festival that commemorated God's deliverance of Israel out of the land of Egypt and the terrible bonds of slavery. On the night that God judged the Egyptians, each family in Israel was commanded to take the life of a lamb and to spread its blood upon the doorposts and lintel of their house. When the death angel passed through Egypt in judgment, it would "pass over" the people of God when it saw the blood of the lamb that was slain. It is not difficult to see how the Passover lamb is a type of Christ. Man has broken God's law and is under the sentence of death. Christ stood in the place of His condemned people and died on their behalf. Like the Passover lamb of the Old Testament, His blood was shed to deliver His people from death.

1. In Exodus 12:1-24, we are given the biblical account of Israel's deliverance from Egypt through the death of the Passover lamb. Read the text until you are familiar with its contents, and then answer the following questions.
  - a. How is the Passover lamb described in Exodus 12:5? How does this description apply to Christ as the Lamb of God?

(1) The lamb shall be W_____ blemish.

NOTES: This word comes from the Hebrew word tamiym, which denotes that which is whole, healthy, unimpaired, or innocent. As a result of sin, man is undone, impaired, and guilty. The physically unblemished lamb was a type or symbol of the sinless Christ, who would offer Himself as a sacrifice for the sin of His people.

- b. According to Exodus 12:21, what was to be done to the Passover lamb? How does this same truth apply to Christ as the Lamb of God?

---

---

NOTES: The word “kill” comes from the Hebrew word shachat, which may also be translated, “to slaughter.” The slaughtering of the Passover lamb prefigured the death of Christ for the redemption of His people. In Revelation 5:9, the heavenly hosts worship Christ, saying, “Worthy are you to take the scroll and to open its seals, for you were slain, and by your blood you ransomed people for God from every tribe and language and people and nation.”

- c. According to verse 22, what was to be done with the blood of the Passover lamb? What was each Israelite commanded to do after the blood was applied? How does this same truth apply to Christ as the Lamb of God and the Christian’s response and relationship to Him?

---

NOTES: First, it was necessary that the Israelites believe God and trust in the means of salvation that He had prescribed. It was through the blood of the Passover lamb that they would be saved from the coming judgment. In the same way, we must believe God’s testimony concerning His Son (I John 5:9-12)—that His sacrifice for our sin is the only means of redemption and reconciliation with God. Secondly, it was necessary that the Israelites remain inside their homes under the protection of the blood; to be caught outside would be certain death. In the same way, the believer has no salvation outside of Christ and His atoning work on Calvary. It is only “in Christ” that all the blessings of a renewed relationship with God come to man. Notice how many times the phrase “in Christ” (or “in Him” or “in the Beloved”) is used in Ephesians 1:3-13, where Paul describes the blessings of salvation (vv.3, 4, 6, 7, 9, 10, 12, 13 [twice]).

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

- d. According to verse 23, what was the significance of the blood of the Passover lamb? How does this truth apply to Christ's sacrifice and the judgment of God?

---

NOTES: The blood was the only difference between the Egyptians, who were destroyed by the wrath of God, and the Israelites, who were delivered from His judgment. In the same way, it is not the believer's character or deeds that save him from the judgment of God, but Christ and the blood that He shed on the believer's behalf on Calvary.

2. In I Corinthians 5:7, we find an extremely important reference to Christ. What does it teach us about Him?

- a. Christ O_____ Passover Lamb has been S_____.

NOTES: Here, the Scriptures make a direct reference to the Passover lamb as a type or shadow of Jesus Christ and His atoning work on Calvary. The word "sacrificed" comes from the Greek word thúō, which may be translated, "to sacrifice, slay, or slaughter." For the individual Christian and the Church at large, Christ is "our" Passover, by whose blood we are justified and saved from the wrath to come (Romans 5:9). It is important to note that Christ's sacrificial death as our Passover is also our motivation for living a holy life uncluttered by sin. The Israelites were commanded to eat only unleavened bread and to remove all leaven (a symbol for sin) from their homes during the Passover (Exodus 12:15). In a similar fashion, the Christian is to seek to remove sin from his or her life as a correct response to Christ, our Passover sacrifice.

Chapter 19: Christ the Scapegoat

THE DAY OF ATONEMENT

The Day of Atonement was the holiest day on the Hebrew calendar, for on that day was made the annual atoning sacrifice for the sins of the people. It was the only day of the year in which the High Priest actually passed through the veil of the temple and entered into the Holy of Holies, where the very presence of God dwelled. On that day, various sacrifices were offered, but one act in particular stands out as a powerful illustration of the atoning work of Christ: the selection of two goats—one to die on the altar as a sacrifice or payment for sin, and the other to be sent out into the wilderness carrying away the sins of God’s people.

It is not difficult to see how both the goat that was sacrificed and the one that was sent away are shadows or types of Christ. One offering could not fully illustrate or typify the twofold purpose of Christ’s atoning work. Therefore, the first goat was slaughtered on the altar, modeling Christ as the Sacrifice who died to pay the sin debt of His people; and the second goat was sent into the wilderness to bear away the sin of the people, also modeling Christ as the Sin-Bearer who carried His people’s iniquities far away.

1. In Leviticus 16:8, Aaron was required to cast lots for the two goats. Read the text until you are familiar with its contents, and then answer the following questions.

a. What is the significance of Aaron casting lots?

---

---

NOTES: Proverbs 16:33 declares, “The lot is cast into the lap, but its every decision is from the Lord.” The casting of lots denoted the Lord’s choice or sovereignty in a matter to be decided. In an infinitely more profound way, Jesus Christ was God’s choice even before the foundation of the world (1 Peter 1:20). He is God’s one chosen instrument of redemption. Everything regarding Christ’s death on Calvary was according to God’s decree. The Apostle Peter declared to the Jews in Jerusalem, “This Jesus, delivered up according to the definite plan and foreknowledge of God, you crucified and killed by the hands of lawless men” (Acts 2:23).

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

b. How are the two goats described?

(1) One goat is for the L_____.

(2) One goat is the S_____.

NOTES: No single offering could fully illustrate the two aspects of the atoning work of Christ. The goat that was “for the Lord” was slain as a sacrifice in order to typify Christ in His dying to pay the sin debt of His people. The other goat, which is called the “scapegoat,” was sent into the wilderness in order to typify Christ in His bearing of the sin of His people and carrying it away. The phrase “for the scapegoat” is literally translated, “the goat for azazel.” The word azazel has been interpreted in various ways throughout history. Some scholars believe it to be derived from two Hebrew words [ez = goat + azal = turn off] and understand it as “the goat that departs.” Other scholars believe it to be derived from the Arabic word ‘azala, meaning, “to banish or remove.” Still others believe it to be a personal name referring to the devil. In this last view, one goat is supposedly offered to God and the other to the devil—a gross violation of all that Scripture teaches about the atonement. It was not the devil who needed to be appeased, but a righteous and holy God! Although there may always be uncertainty regarding the exact meaning of the term, the most probable understanding is that it refers to a scapegoat—the goat that was destined to be cast out of the camp in order to symbolically carry the sins of the people into the wilderness.

THE GOAT FOR THE LORD

God is just; therefore, He cannot simply ignore or put away our sin without first satisfying the demands of His justice. The wages of sin is death. The first goat, the goat “for the Lord,” was slain on the altar, thus modeling Christ as the Sacrifice who died to pay the sin debt of His people.

1. According to Leviticus 16:9, what was the purpose of the goat that was for the Lord?

a. It was to be offered as a S_____ O_____.

NOTES: The phrase comes from the singular Hebrew word chattah, which may refer to sin itself or an offering for sin. In this context, it refers to an offering made to God to remove the guilt and penalty of sin. It is a clear type or shadow of the one true sacrifice of Christ for the sins of the world.

2. According to Leviticus 16:15-16, what did God command the high priest regarding the goat for the Lord? How does this typify Christ and His atoning work?

a. He shall K_____ the goat (v.15).

CHRIST THE SCAPEGOAT

NOTES: From the Hebrew word shachat, meaning, "to slaughter or beat." It was commonly used with reference to sacrificial animals. In Isaiah 53:7, the Messiah would be like a lamb that is led to the slaughter [Hebrew: tevach]. In the New Testament, Jesus is the Lamb that was slain (Revelation 5:6, 9, 12; 13:8).

b. He shall bring its blood I_____ the veil (v.15).

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The high priest was to enter the Holy of Holies, where the presence of God dwelled, to offer the blood sacrifice for the sins of the people. The writer of Hebrews tells us that, having shed His blood as a sacrifice for sin, Christ entered into the very presence of God in heaven (Hebrews 9:11-12). When Christ died, the veil of the temple was torn in two, demonstrating that the way had been opened for His people's full pardon and unhindered communion with God (Matthew 27:51).

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

NOTES: The phrase "mercy seat" is translated from the Hebrew word kapporet, which may also be translated, "place of atonement." It was a golden cover, approximately forty-five inches by twenty-seven inches, that rested on top of the Ark of the Covenant. On the mercy seat were the sculptures of two angelic creatures, known as cherubim; they faced each other, their outstretched wings touching each other and covering the entire seat. It was located inside the temple in the Holy of Holies, which was an earthly representation of the very throne room of God (see Isaiah 6:1-3). It was from above the mercy seat that God had promised to meet with His people (Numbers 7:89); and it was there that the blood of the sacrifice was sprinkled, atonement for sin was made, and mercy was obtained. In the Septuagint (the Greek translation of the Old Testament), the word kapporet is translated by the Greek word hilastêrion, which refers to a place or object of propitiation. The word hilastêrion is applied to Christ in Romans 3:25: "whom God displayed publicly as a propitiation in His blood through faith." Christ's death was a propitiation in that it satisfied the demands of divine justice and made it possible for a just God to show mercy toward sinners without compromising His justice. The blood of the goat sprinkled upon the mercy seat in the earthly temple was a type or shadow of the blood of Christ that was shed to reconcile His people and give them access into the very presence of God in heaven.

d. He shall make A _____ (v.16).

---

---

---

NOTES: The word "atonement" comes from the Hebrew word kipper or kippur. The verb form kafar denotes purging or making atonement or reconciliation. Since "it is impossible for the blood of bulls and goats to take away sins" (Hebrews 10:4), it is obvious that this sacrifice, which was repeated year after year, was only a type or shadow of the once-and-for-all sacrifice that would be made by Christ.

THE SCAPEGOAT

We have just considered the "goat for the Lord," which typified Christ as the sacrificial payment of the people's sin debt. One goat, however, was not sufficient to illustrate the double nature of Christ's future work. We will now consider the "scapegoat," which was sent into the wilderness in order to typify Christ as the Sin-Bearer of His people.

CHRIST THE SCAPEGOAT

1. According to Leviticus 16:21-22, what did God command the high priest regarding the scapegoat, and how does this typify Christ and His atoning work?
  - a. And Aaron shall lay both his hands on the head of the live goat, and confess over it all the iniquities of the people of Israel, and all their transgressions, all their sins. And he shall put them on the head of the goat... (v.21).

---

NOTES: This is a powerful and beautiful illustration of the doctrine of imputation [Latin: in = in or toward + putare = to reckon], in which God reckons the sin of His people to be placed upon an innocent victim, who suffers the penalty in their place. The fact that the high priest was to lay both his hands upon the goat and to confess over it all the iniquities of Israel represents the full transfer of guilt from the people to the sacrifice. Isaiah prophesied that the Lord would cause the iniquity of us all to fall upon the Messiah (Isaiah 53:6). The New Testament makes it clear that our sin was imputed to Christ and that His righteousness was imputed to us (II Corinthians 5:21).

- b. The goat shall bear all their iniquities on itself to a remote area, and he shall let the goat go free in the wilderness (v.22).

---

---

NOTES: The goat bearing the sin of God's people was banished from God's presence and made to dwell alone in the wilderness. On Calvary, Christ bore the sins of His people and was forsaken of God in their place. It was for this reason that He cried out from the cross, "My God, My God, why have You forsaken Me?" (Matthew 27:46). Like the scapegoat that wandered in the wilderness and the bodies of sacrificial animals that were burned outside the gate, so Christ suffered outside the gate of the city and was left to die, cut off from God and God's people (Hebrews 13:11-12).

Chapter 20: Christ Was Buried

In this chapter, we will consider one very important but often overlooked aspect of the gospel that sets the stage for Christ's resurrection—His burial.

CHRIST'S BURIAL

In I Corinthians 15:3-4, the Scriptures declare, "Christ died for our sins in accordance with the Scriptures, and...He was buried, and...He was raised on the third day in accordance with the Scriptures." Lying almost hidden between the two great columns of the Christian faith—"Christ died" and "He was raised"—is the reference to His burial. This reference was not included for the simple purpose of tying the two great events together, but stands between them as a great validation of both. Christ's burial is proof that He truly died, which in turn proves the validity of His resurrection! For this reason, it was important for the early Church to affirm Christ's burial.

1. In Isaiah 53:9 is found a prophecy that is dramatic proof that the Man Jesus was the Christ and that even the minutest detail of His life and death was in alignment with the Scriptures. What does this prophecy declare to us about the coming Messiah? According to Matthew 27:57-60, how was this prophecy fulfilled in Jesus?

---

NOTES: The word "made" may also be translated, "appointed" or "designated." It was a common practice for the bodies of crucified criminals to be thrown into a ditch to be eaten by dogs and vultures. But God had determined that His Son would be buried with honor. In John 19:39, we learn that about one hundred pounds of myrrh and aloes were used in Christ's burial. This was an extraordinary amount and extremely costly.

2. All four Gospel writers are careful to narrate the burial of Jesus (Matthew 27:57-66; Mark 15:42-47; Luke 23:50-56; John 19:38-42). Read the accounts, and identify the evidence supporting the reality of Christ's death and burial.
  - a. He was buried by a man named J_____ of A_____ (Mark 15:42-43). The very man in charge of the burial of Christ and in whose tomb Christ was buried was a prominent member of the Sanhedrin Council which had sentenced Christ to death. Luke points out that he was "a good and righteous man" and that he had not consented to the death of Christ (Luke 23:50-51). His testimony carries great weight. He had nothing in the world to gain and everything to lose by giving Christ a proper burial. Joseph's great risk was born out of love for Christ.

CHRIST WAS BURIED

- b. N_____ accompanied Joseph and assisted him in the preparation of Jesus' dead body for burial (John 19:39). This man was a Pharisee and a ruler of the Jews (John 3:1). The Pharisees conspired with the Sanhedrin to crucify Jesus. Like Joseph, Nicodemus would have been ostracized by his fellow Pharisees for honoring Jesus. His testimony to the death of Christ and participation in His burial are formidable proofs supporting the reality of these events.
- c. P_____ granted permission for Joseph to take the body of Jesus for burial (John 19:38). The death of Jesus is confirmed by the fact that Pilate granted permission only after a careful investigation to ensure that Jesus was actually dead (Mark 15:44-45).
- d. The manner in which Jesus' body was prepared for burial is also great proof that He had died. Summarize the account from John 19:38-40. How does it demonstrate that Christ was truly dead and not simply in an unconscious state?

---

---

NOTES: If Christ had been alive, would not Joseph and Nicodemus have discovered it? Everyone who came into contact with the body of Christ was convinced of His death—Roman soldiers (Mark 15:44-45; John 19:32-34), Joseph (Luke 23:50-53), Nicodemus (John 19:39), and the women who witnessed the crucifixion and burial (Luke 23:55-56).

WHERE DID CHRIST GO WHEN HE DIED?

The subject of Christ's whereabouts during the three days between His death and resurrection is often misunderstood. However, a close and careful examination of the Scriptures reveals a unity of thought among all the biblical writers. In the interval between His death and resurrection, Christ's spirit did not remain in the tomb, nor did He descend into hell. In Christ's own words to the repentant thief on the cross, He went to "Paradise," the glorious dwelling place of His Father (Luke 23:43). In the following pages, we will examine the most important texts regarding the matter.

PSALM 16:10

"For You will not abandon my soul to Sheol; or let Your Holy One see corruption."

The word "Sheol" is a transliteration of the Hebrew word and can be translated, "underworld," "grave," "pit," or "hell." In the context, the psalmist is simply declaring that God would not allow the Messiah's physical body to undergo physical corruption, but would raise Him from the dead. This is the interpretation of Peter (Acts 2:27-31) and of Paul (Acts 13:34-35).

In Acts 2:27, Peter quotes this text in defense of Christ's resurrection: "You will not abandon my soul to Hades." The word hádēs is the Greek translation of sheol and refers to the same. The simple meaning of the texts is that the Father would not allow the body of Jesus to decompose in the bonds of death, but would raise Him from the dead. Charles Hodge writes, "In Scriptural language, therefore, to descend into Hades means nothing more than to descend to the grave, to pass from the visible into the invisible world, as happens to all men when they die and are buried."<sup>8</sup>

ROMANS 10:7

"Who will descend into the abyss?" (that is, to bring Christ up from the dead)."

Based on Paul's own interpretation ("up from the dead"), it seems best to interpret the word "abyss" as a reference to the realm of the dead and not as an assertion that Christ went to hell. Matthew Henry writes, "This plainly shows that Christ's descent into the deep, or into ábussos, was no more than his going into the state of the dead."<sup>9</sup>

EPHESIANS 4:9

"In saying, 'He ascended,' what does it mean but that He had also descended into the lower regions of the earth?"

The context suggests that Paul is writing about the incarnation of Christ and not some descent into hell. The Christ who went up to heaven (ascension) is the same who came down to earth from heaven (incarnation). In Isaiah 44:23, we read, "Sing, O heavens, for the LORD has done it; shout, O depths of the earth; break forth into singing, O Mountains, O forest, and every tree in it! For the LORD has redeemed Jacob, and will be glorified in Israel." Here again, the phrase "lower parts of the earth" simply refers to the earth in contrast to the heavens.

I PETER 3:18-20

"For Christ also suffered once for sins, the righteous for the unrighteous, that he might bring us to God, being put to death in the flesh but made alive in the spirit, in which he went and proclaimed to the spirits in prison, because they formerly did not obey, when God's patience waited in the days of Noah, while the ark was being prepared, in which a few, that is, eight persons, were brought safely through water."

Some interpret this text as teaching that Christ descended into hell when He died, so that He might proclaim His victory to those who dwelled there. The more consistent interpretation is that the Holy Spirit, who raised Christ from the dead, was the very instrument through whom Christ spoke to Noah's generation. Christ spoke to them through the Holy Spirit, by means of the preaching of Noah. They did not believe the words of Christ preached by Noah; therefore, they died in their sins and have remained in prison (i.e. hell) until now.

I PETER 4:6

“For this is why the gospel was preached even to those who are dead, that though judged in the flesh the way people are, they might live in the spirit the way God does.”

There is no reason to interpret this text as pointing to a descent by Christ into hell in order to preach the gospel to those who dwell there. The Scriptures clearly teach that “...it is appointed for man to die once, and after that comes judgment” (Hebrews 9:27). The text should be interpreted as a simple reference to the gospel that had been preached to certain individuals who, at the time of Peter’s writing, had already died.

LUKE 23:43

“And He [Jesus] said to him [the thief], ‘Truly, I say to you, today you will be with me in Paradise.’”

If Christ did not go to hell, where did He go? To answer this question, it is best to take Christ at His own words. Jesus told the dying thief, “Truly I say to you, today you shall be with Me in Paradise.” At Christ’s death, His spirit passed immediately into the presence of God. At the resurrection, His body and spirit were once again united. It is significant that the word “Paradise” is used only two other times in the New Testament, and both times it refers clearly to heaven (II Corinthians 12:4; Revelation 2:7).

LUKE 23:46

“And Jesus, calling out with a loud voice, said, ‘Father, into your hands I commit my spirit.’ And having said this He breathed His last.”

In this brief but powerful declaration, we find further evidence that Christ went to be with the Father at the moment of His death. It is a declaration of strong confidence, not unlike “Today, you shall be with me in paradise.” Matthew Henry writes, “[Christ] commends His spirit into His Father’s hand, to be received into paradise, and returned the third day.”<sup>10</sup>

JOHN 20:17

“Jesus said to her [Mary], ‘Do not cling to me, for I have not yet ascended to the Father, but go to my brothers and say to them, ‘I am ascending to my Father and your Father, to my God and your God.’”

It is sometimes argued that Christ could not have ascended to heaven during His three days in the tomb based upon His own words to Mary Magdalene in this passage. However, upon closer consideration, it is clear that there is no contradiction between Christ’s statement to the thief (Luke 23:43) and His words to Mary Magdalene (John 20:17). After three days, Christ reunited with His physical body and was raised from the dead. Mary misunderstood the plan of God and was unaware that Christ would ascend again (this time, bodily) to the right hand of the Father as His people’s Intercessor. She expected Him to remain on earth and reign as an earthly Messiah. In His interaction with Mary, Christ is not denying that His spirit had ascended to the Father following His death on the cross, but is saying that He had yet to ascend bodily. Though Mary did not yet realize it, this bodily ascension was absolutely necessary in the work of redemption.

Chapter 21: Christ Has Risen

The following statement is often used to summarize the fullness of the gospel message: "Christ died for our sins." This is a grave error! According to I Corinthians 15:1-4, the gospel of Jesus Christ is not only that He died for the sins of God's people, but also that He rose from the dead on the third day. The resurrection of Christ stands beside His death as one of the two great columns of Christianity. Without the resurrection, the death of Christ would not be good news!

The greatest declaration of hope that has ever been spoken by mortal or angelic tongue is, "Christ has risen!" His resurrection was the great proof of His deity, the vindication of His person, and the guarantee that God had accepted His death as payment for the sins of His people. There are few doctrines more important, and none more attacked by the unbelieving world, than the resurrection of Jesus Christ. The credibility of Christianity and the salvation of those who believe hang upon this one doctrine.

A HISTORICAL EVENT

Webster's Dictionary defines "historicity" as "the quality of being historic, especially as distinct from the mythological or legendary." The account of the advent of the Son of God recorded in the four Gospels (Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John) differs greatly from mythology in that it was an event that actually occurred in the context of human history. The Son of God really came into our world at a specific time and in a specific place. He was a real, historical person, and the account of His life was recorded in writing by those who both knew Him and witnessed His life and teaching. To them, the resurrection of Jesus Christ was neither a myth nor a spiritualized event; it was a historical reality. To treat the resurrection as something other than real history is to deny the testimony of Scripture.

1. In Luke 1:1-4, we find powerful evidence that the writers of the Gospels were fully convinced that they were relating historical fact based upon either their own personal witness or the carefully investigated testimony of others. How does this introduction to Luke's Gospel demonstrate that he believed that he was recording real history?

NOTES: The word "compile" (v.1) comes from the Greek word anatássomai, which means, "to put together in order or to arrange." Luke had taken it upon himself to write an orderly and historically correct account of the incarnation of the Son of God and His works. The phrase “delivered” (v.2) comes from the Greek word paradídōmi, which means, “to deliver something to another to keep or use; to commit or commend something to someone.” The apostles who were with Christ “from the beginning” had been faithful to “deliver” the truth about His person and works. The word “eyewitnesses” (v.2) comes from the Greek word autóptēs, which refers to one who sees with his own eyes. The medical term “autopsy,” which refers to a detailed examination, is derived from this word. The “eyewitnesses” and “ministers of the word” are probable references to the apostles. The word “followed” (v.3) comes from the Greek word parakolouthéō, which means, “to follow after” or “to attend one wherever he goes.” Metaphorically, it means to track down a matter or to examine it thoroughly. Luke had carefully followed after the truth and recorded it in his Gospel. The phrase “all things closely” (v.3) denotes that Luke’s investigation was both exhaustive and diligent. He had examined all the available data. His goal was to report historical truth without embellishments. The phrase “an orderly account” (v.3) comes from the Greek word kathexēs, which denotes succession and order. It does not necessarily refer to chronological order, but to a logical and systematic coordination of the facts. The phrase “certainty” (v.4) comes from the Greek word aspháleia, which denotes firmness, stability, or certainty. Luke wrote so that Theophilus might have full certainty about the things he had been taught.

2. In Luke’s writing of the book of Acts, he gives an introduction similar to that found in his Gospel. How does Acts 1:3 demonstrate that Luke saw himself as recording historical fact when he wrote about the resurrection?

---

---

NOTES: The word “proofs” comes from the Greek work tekmêrion, which may be translated, “solid evidence” or “plain indications.” There are thirteen post-resurrection appearances of Christ recorded in the New Testament. If Christ had made a single brief appearance to one individual, there would be room for reasonable doubt; but several appearances to many people over a period of forty days strengthens the testimony of the early disciples. The phrase, “speaking about the kingdom of God,” is extremely important. Christ did not simply appear and disappear; rather, He tarried with His disciples and taught them as He had before His death. The apostles and early disciples did not base their testimony upon phantom-like appearances, but upon real, personal fellowship with the risen Christ (see also Luke 24:27).

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

3. In Acts 10:38-42 is recorded the Apostle Peter's sermon to those who would become the first Gentile converts. Read the account, and follow the apostle's reasoning in verses 40-42 for the historicity of Christ's resurrection.

- a. God R_____ Him on the T_____ day (v.40). This was God's validation of the person and work of Jesus of Nazareth (Romans 1:4). All of Christianity stands and falls on this truth. It is for this reason that the resurrection is so frequently proclaimed in the New Testament.
- b. And made him to A_____ (v.40). Christ's appearances were demonstrations of God's graciousness to His people. This phrase could also be translated "and granted that He become visible" (NASB).
- c. Not to all the people but to us who had been C_____ by God as a W_____ (v.41). Like all the miracles of His earthly ministry, Christ's post-resurrection appearances were under God's sovereign direction and had a specific purpose—the building up of His Church. Christ did not appear to the unbelieving masses in order to vindicate Himself. This will, however, happen at His second coming.
- d. Who A_____ and D_____ with Him after He rose from the dead (v.41). Christ did not merely appear as an ethereal phantom or fleeting vision; He fellow-shipped with His people and gave them certain proofs of His bodily resurrection (John 20:26-27; 21:9-14).
- e. And He commanded us...to T_____ (v.42). This phrase comes from the Greek word diamartúromai, which denotes testifying with great earnestness, seriousness, and even gravity.
- f. That he is the One A_____ by God to be J_____ of the living and the dead (v.42). The resurrection is proof that Christ is Savior (Acts 4:12), Lord (Acts 2:36), and Judge (Acts 17:31).
- g. How does this passage demonstrate that Peter viewed Christ's resurrection as a real event in history?

4. In I Corinthians 15:3-9 is found still another account of the amount of evidence supporting the validity of the resurrection. Fill in the blanks with those whom the Apostle Paul lists as having seen the risen Christ.

- a. To C_____ (v.5). This is a reference to Peter (John 1:42). This appearance, recorded in Luke 24:34, occurred the day of Christ’s resurrection.
- b. To the T_____ (v.5). Although Judas is no longer among the apostles and their number has been reduced to eleven, they are still referred to as “the twelve.” This post-resurrection appearance is one of several by Jesus to His disciples (see verse 7); it occurred on the evening of the resurrection and is recorded in Luke 24:36-43 and John 20:19-23.
- c. To more than F_____ H_____ brothers at one time (v.6). This is possibly a reference to Acts 1:6-11. The fact that Christ appeared to five hundred witnesses collectively (i.e. at the same time and place) makes it highly unlikely that it was a case of mistaken identity or hallucination. According to the Old Testament Law, “on the evidence of two witnesses or of three shall a charge be established” (Deuteronomy 19:15). The fact that most of the five hundred were still alive at the time of Paul’s writing and could be called upon to testify gives further support to Paul’s argument.
- d. To J_____ (v.7). This is a reference to the half brother of Jesus (Matthew 13:55). He did not believe the messianic claims of Jesus (John 7:5) until after the resurrection, when he joined the apostles (Acts 1:14) and became one of the most prominent leaders among the early Christians (Acts 15:13ff).
- e. To one U_____ born (v.8). This phrase comes from the Greek word éktrōma, which refers to a miscarriage or an abortive birth. Paul was not one of the original twelve apostles who walked with Christ during His earthly ministry, but was converted later, when he was confronted by Christ while on his way to Damascus (Acts 9:3-6, 17).
- f. In your own words, explain how this text demonstrates that Paul regarded the resurrection as a real, historical event.

---

---

---

NOTES: By listing in chronological order the post-resurrection appearances of Christ, the Apostle Paul demonstrated that he viewed Christ’s resurrection as a real event in history—one that was validated by eyewitness testimony.

THE BIBLICAL ACCOUNT

Before we consider Christ’s resurrection any further, it will be helpful to consider a thorough summary of the historical events as they are described to us in the Scriptures.

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

It is early morning on the third day after Jesus' death. The women make their way timidly to the garden where the body of Christ has been entombed. Theirs is an errand not of hope but of pity. Their only desire is to honor the body of their beloved Jesus with a proper burial. Their conversation is limited to what would become a minor technicality: "Who will roll away the stone?" (Mark 16:2-4). Resurrection is the farthest thing from their minds. However, pity turns to fear, fear to hope unquenchable, and hope to joy unspeakable and full of glory! They are greeted with a displaced stone, an opened door, an empty tomb, and an angelic proclamation of good news: "Why do you seek the living among the dead? He is not here, but has risen" (Luke 24:5-6).

The women quickly depart from the tomb "with fear and great joy" (Matthew 28:8). They run to bring His disciples the word, but their testimony appears as idle talk and nonsense to the very ones who should have believed them (Luke 24:11). Then, hoping against hope, Peter and John run to the empty tomb. After a brief and perplexing investigation, they return to the others without a sure word: "For as yet they did not understand the Scripture, that He must rise from the dead" (John 20:9).

In their quick departure, they leave behind the weeping Mary Magdalene, who becomes the first to see the risen Lord. She is then commissioned by Him to return once more to the unbelieving disciples with still another confirmation of His resurrection (John 20:11-18). This is followed by a second appearance, to the women returning from the tomb (Matthew 28:9-10), and then a third, to Cleopas and another disciple on the road to Emmaus (Luke 24:13-32). At last, He appears to Peter alone (Luke 24:34); then twice to the eleven apostles—first without Thomas (John 20:19-25) and then with him (John 20:26-29)—and again to seven of His disciples by the Sea of Galilee (John 21:1-14). He even appears to His unbelieving half brother James (I Corinthians 15:7), whose life is so altered by the encounter that he becomes part of the apostolic band (Acts 1:14) and a pillar in the church of Jerusalem (Acts 15:13ff). Finally, He appears "to one untimely born" (I Corinthians 15:8), to Saul (later Paul) of Tarsus on the road to Damascus (Acts 9:3-19). It is almost superfluous to write about this encounter or its effect. The very man who had pledged himself to the destruction of Christianity becomes its most ardent propagator and defender (Acts 9:1-2; I Corinthians 15:10).

In the end, we have the sure word of Scripture that before His ascension our Lord appeared to a great number of witnesses, both to individuals and "to more than five hundred brothers at one time" (I Corinthians 15:6).

Chapter 22: The Foundation of Our Faith in the Resurrection

THE REALITY OF THE RESURRECTION

This chapter is the briefest in this study, but it is one of the most important with regard to the believer's faith in Christ and His resurrection.

The enemies of Christianity are right in focusing their attacks on the historical resurrection of Christ, because, as Paul points out in I Corinthians 15, the entirety of our faith depends upon it! If Christ has not been raised, then our faith is utterly worthless (vv.14, 17): those of us who believe are still in our sins, and those who have died have perished forever (vv.17-18). Furthermore, it would logically follow that we who preach the resurrection are false witnesses of God, because we testify that He has raised Christ when He has not (v.15). Finally, if Christ has not been raised, then our lives are a pathetic waste: we suffer hardship for no reason and are hated for the sake of a false prophet who has no power to save. As the Apostle Paul writes: "If we have hoped in Christ in this life only, we are of all men most to be pitied" (v.19).

By our own admission, the resurrection is everything to the Christian faith. If Christ has not been raised, our religion is false. Therefore, we would do well to ask ourselves a very important question: "How do we know that Christ truly has been raised?" In these next two chapters, we will break away from the workbook format so that we might consider two very important but fundamentally different mediums through which the reality of the resurrection is made known to us—it is revealed to us through the illuminating and regenerating work of the Holy Spirit, and it is confirmed to us by the historical evidence that surrounds the event itself. The former is absolutely essential. The latter is a strong confirmation of the Christian faith and an effective tool for dialogue with the unbelieving world.

THE WORK OF THE HOLY SPIRIT

The Protestant Church often attempts to validate its faith in the resurrection by pointing to the empty tomb, the inability of Christ's enemies to present a cadaver, the transformation of the disciples, and many other historical and legal proofs. However, although these do demonstrate that the Christian faith is not illogical or counterhistorical, they should not be seen as the basis or foundation of the Christian's faith. This will be demonstrated by the following facts.

First, the apostles did not use this form of argumentation in their preaching. They did not strive to prove the resurrection, but to proclaim it (Acts 4:2, 33; 17:18; 24:21). Their confidence did not rest in their powerful arguments, but in the power of the gospel to save! Consider what the Apostle Paul penned in his first epistle to the church in Corinth:

"For the word of the cross is folly to those who are perishing, but to us who are being saved it is the power of God...For Jews demand signs and Greeks seek wisdom, but we preach Christ crucified, a stumbling

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

block to the Jews and folly to Gentiles, but to those who are called, both Jews and Greeks, Christ the power of God and the wisdom of God" (I Corinthians 1:18, 22-24)

"And I, when I came to you, brothers, did not come proclaiming to you the testimony of God with lofty speech or wisdom. For I decided to know nothing among you except Jesus Christ and him crucified. And I was with you in weakness and in fear and much trembling, and my speech and my message were not in plausible words of wisdom, but in demonstration of the Spirit and of power, so that your faith might not rest in the wisdom of men but in the power of God." (1 Corinthians 2:1-5)

Secondly, the overwhelming majority of those who have converted to Christianity throughout Church history, including its greatest intellectuals, were not brought to faith by studying the historical and legal evidence regarding the resurrection, but by sitting under the proclamation of the gospel.

Thirdly, if our faith in the resurrection is founded upon its historical and legal evidence, how can we explain the faith of countless believers who lived and died for their faith without the slightest knowledge of such evidence? How do we explain the tribal Christian who can barely read and is unable to offer one historical argument for the resurrection, yet will endure the most despicable persecutions and even martyrdom rather than deny the faith that he is unable to logically defend? In light of these truths, we must conclude that although the historical and legal evidence for the resurrection is helpful in many ways, it is not the foundation of our faith in the resurrection.

What then is the foundation of the believer's faith in the resurrection? How does he know that Christ has been raised? The answer from the Scriptures is clear. We owe our knowledge and unwavering faith in the resurrection to the regenerating and illuminating work of the Holy Spirit! Our conviction regarding the reality of the resurrection of Jesus Christ and the validity of the Christian faith is supernaturally imparted to us at the moment of the new birth (John 3:3). We know that Christ has risen from the dead because the Holy Spirit has illumined our minds to the truth of the Scriptures as they bear witness to Christ (John 5:39; I John 5:6-10). In short, we believe because the Spirit regenerates our hearts, imparting faith and new affections for the Christ who has been revealed to us. The Apostle Paul describes this miraculous work of the Spirit in II Corinthians 4:6:

"For God, who said, 'Let light shine out of darkness,' has shone in our hearts to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ."

Those who have been born again can no more deny the resurrection of Jesus Christ than they can deny their own existence. By God's sovereign decree and the witness of the Holy Spirit, it has become an incontestable reality to them (Matthew 11:25). As the persecutors of the Christian faith have learned, "For those infected with the religion of Jesus, there is no cure."<sup>11</sup>

---

THE FOUNDATION OF OUR FAITH

The truths we have learned serve as both a warning and a directive. Although apologetics<sup>12</sup> has its place, the Kingdom of Heaven advances primarily through the proclamation of the gospel. Men will come to faith not through our eloquence or logical arguments, but through our faithful proclamation of the life, death, and resurrection of Jesus Christ. We must never forget that our mission is a fool's errand and that our labor is a waste of time and effort unless the Spirit of God is working to illuminate the minds and regenerate the hearts of our hearers. For this reason, we must refuse to lean upon the broken staff of human wisdom (Isaiah 36:6); we must cling instead to the truth that the gospel alone is the power of God unto salvation for all who believe (Romans 1:16).

Chapter 23: Evidence for the Resurrection of Christ

An individual's faith in Christ is not dependent upon his or her ability to recite the historical or legal evidence regarding Christ's resurrection. Nor does it stand or fall according to the believer's ability to defend its validity through the use of apologetics or classical logic. Nevertheless, it is important to recognize and proclaim that the Christian faith is not contrary to history or to the highest and most pristine use of reason. True Christianity finds no virtue in seeking to transform myth into a useful narrative in order to promote some moral good in the world. Rather, the Christian faith and belief in the resurrection of Jesus Christ are grounded in actual events of history that can be abundantly substantiated through the same types and kinds of proofs that are used by the "secular historian."

Those who reject the claims of Christianity as unhistorical or mythological do so because of biased presuppositions that will not allow the evidence to speak for itself; and they do so, says Robert Reymond, on "highly questionable critical and philosophical grounds with which they are simply more comfortable psychologically and religiously."<sup>13</sup> Their logic is perilous: they have decided beforehand that the resurrection is an impossibility; therefore, every piece of evidence in favor of the legitimacy of this event must be fallacious, and every claim to its credibility must be the deduction of a fool or the invention of a charlatan.

The adverseness of sinful men toward the gospel is one more reason to assert that apart from the grace of God and the regenerating work of the Holy Spirit, no man will accept the claims of Christ. Man will ignore the claims he can, distort the claims he cannot ignore, and resist the claims he cannot distort. In other words, he will expend more energy denying the truth than he would have expended by simply submitting to it.

Although it is beyond the scope of this workbook to consider all of the evidence that substantiates Christ's resurrection, we will explore in this chapter some of the legal and logical proofs that are most beneficial to both the believer's faith and the seeker's inquiries.

A PREDICTED EVENT

The death and the resurrection of Jesus Christ were not unpredicted events that caught Him unawares; each was clearly prophesied as a necessary fulfillment of the will of God. This is evident in Jesus' words in Luke 24:25-26, which He spoke to His doubting disciples after His resurrection:

"O foolish ones, and slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken! Was it not necessary that the Christ should suffer these things and to enter into His glory?"

The resurrection of the Messiah was clearly revealed in Old Testament prophecies written hundreds of years before His coming. David predicted that God would not abandon the Messiah to the grave, nor allow His body to undergo decay (Psalm 16:8-11). The prophet Isaiah looked ahead

EVIDENCE FOR THE RESURRECTION OF CHRIST

and saw that God would greatly reward the Messiah after He had suffered the sins of His people unto death (Isaiah 53:12). Christ Himself predicted His death and resurrection long before His crucifixion. When the unbelieving Jews asked Him for a sign or proof of His authority to cleanse the temple, He declared: "Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up" (John 2:19). When the scribes and Pharisees asked Him for further proof of His messianic claims, His rebuke was accompanied by the promise of His future resurrection:

*"An evil and adulterous generation seeks for a sign, but no sign will be given to it except the sign of the prophet Jonah. For just as Jonah was three days and three nights in the belly of the great fish, so will the Son of Man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth."
(Matthew 12:39-40)*

These prophecies show that Christ's disciples did not invent the resurrection as a desperate attempt to keep the messianic dream alive. Christ declared it so clearly and so often (Matthew 16:21) that even His enemies knew of His predictions that He would rise again:

*"The next day, that is, after the day of Preparation, the chief priests and the Pharisees gathered before Pilate, 'Sir, we remember how that impostor said, while he was still alive, "After three days I will rise"'"

THE EMPTY TOMB

With all the attention given to the body of Jesus after His death, not only by His disciples but also by His enemies, an empty tomb and an undiscovered cadaver is strong evidence of a resurrection. From the very first day, all that was needed to destroy Christianity was the presentation of the dead body of the Man Jesus. The Jewish leaders who called for His death and the Roman authorities who crucified Him knew the exact location of the tomb and had ample opportunity to exhume the body. If the tomb was not empty, then with one bold move they could have proven to the world that the Easter message was a hoax and that the apostles were devious perpetrators of a myth. Christianity would have died in its very infancy. Why was the body never produced?

Skeptics have invented three theories in response to this question. All are equally absurd. The first, often called the "Swoon Theory," is that Jesus did not die upon the Roman cross; rather, He only lost consciousness and was improperly diagnosed. Later, when placed in the cool tomb, He regained consciousness and escaped. The arguments against such a theory are founded upon the nature of the crucifixion itself—He was pierced through His side with a Roman spear and declared dead after a thorough examination by experts (John 19:31-34). Even if He had somehow survived the ordeal, He would have hardly been in any condition to move the heavy stone that blocked the tomb's entrance. Furthermore, it seems highly unlikely at best that such a personality would have been able to escape into some unknown region of Palestine and live out the rest of His life in anonymity.

The second theory is that the disciples stole the body and reburied it in some unknown location. The arguments against such a theory come from two sources. The first is the fierce reputation of the Roman guard, whose character and efficiency is legendary. The second is the New Testament's account of the disciples' fear during and after Christ's death. The Scriptures tell us that immediately after the death of Christ, the chief priests and Pharisees asked Pilate to secure the tomb with a trained Roman guard in order to prevent the disciples from stealing His body and perpetuating the myth that Christ had resurrected (Matthew 27:64). It is highly improbable that a handful of frightened disciples could overpower an entire Roman guard in order to steal the body of Jesus. The disciples had already shown their lack of courage by deserting Christ during the crucifixion (Mark 14:27; Matthew 26:56), and the leader among them, Simon Peter, could not even stand up to a servant girl when she identified him as one of Christ's followers (Luke 22:55-62). It is also equally improbable that an entire Roman guard would fall asleep on duty, as the chief priests suggested (Matthew 28:11-15). In fact, it takes more faith to believe this theory than it does to accept the resurrection!

The third theory is that the disciples simply went to the wrong tomb. This also is highly unlikely in light of the fact that the tomb belonged to Joseph of Arimathea, a member of the Sanhedrin council (Matthew 27:57-61; Mark 15:42-47; Luke 23:50-56). He and Nicodemus, a man of the Pharisees and a ruler of the Jews (John 3:1), were the very men who prepared the body of Jesus for burial and placed Him in the tomb (John 19:38-42). Furthermore, the Scriptures tell us that the women who had followed Jesus from Galilee also knew the exact location of the tomb (Matthew 27:61, Mark 15:47; Luke 23:55). If the disciples had gone to the wrong tomb, it is certain that friend and foe alike would have corrected their mistake by bringing them to the correct tomb, unwrapping the body, and showing them the physical remains of Jesus.<sup>14</sup> Again, this theory joins the others in its absurdity.

CREDIBLE WITNESSES

For an event to be confirmed as historical or real, three things are required: (1) there must be eyewitnesses; (2) these eyewitnesses must be sufficient in number; and (3) they must demonstrate integrity or trustworthiness.<sup>15</sup> It is significant that all of these requirements are met in the Scriptures' testimony regarding the resurrection of Jesus Christ.

First, the Scriptures' testimony is founded upon eyewitness accounts of Christ's ministry, resurrection, and ascension. Every author of the New Testament stands with the Apostle Peter when he declared in II Peter 1:16:

"For we did not follow cleverly devised myths when we made known to you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, but we were eyewitnesses of His majesty."

The importance of first-hand or eyewitness testimony is clearly recognized by the writers of the New Testament. To be joined to the Eleven, Matthias had to be an eyewitness of Christ's life and ministry—beginning with the baptism of John, continuing through the resurrection, and lasting even to the day that Christ ascended into heaven (Acts 1:21-26). In writing his Gospel, Luke took great pains to emphasize that he was compiling "an narrative of the things" that "were delivered" by "those who from the beginning were eyewitnesses" (Luke 1:1-4). The Apostle John begins his first epistle (vv.1-4) by powerfully and eloquently affirming the personal relationship with Christ the Son with which all the apostles were privileged—a relationship that also formed the basis for both their doctrine and proclamation to others:

EVIDENCE FOR THE RESURRECTION OF CHRIST

“That which was from the beginning, which we have heard, which we have seen with our eyes, which we looked upon and have touched with our hands, concerning the word of life—the life made manifest, and we have seen it, and testify to it and proclaim to you the eternal life, which was with the Father and was made manifest to us—that which we have seen and heard we proclaim also to you, so that you too may have fellowship with us; and indeed our fellowship is with the Father and with his Son Jesus Christ. And we are writing these things so that our joy may be complete.”

It should be clear to any unbiased examiner that the apostles both possessed a personal, first-hand knowledge of Christ’s life, death, and resurrection and recognized the importance of affirming the nature of their knowledge as such. They wanted the world to know that they had not been misled by hearsay, but had touched the hands, feet, and side of the resurrected Christ (Luke 24:39; John 20:27). They had fellowshiped with Him (Luke 24:13-32, 36-43; John 21:12-14), and they had been instructed by Him (Luke 24:44-49). Finally, they had worshiped Him as He passed from their view into heaven (Luke 24:50-53).

Secondly, for an event to be confirmed as historical or real, there must be a sufficient number of eyewitnesses. To put it plainly, the more eyewitnesses there are, the more credible the event is. This same principle is found both in the Law of the Old Testament and in the New Testament commands to the Church—an event is to be confirmed only on the testimony of at least two or three witnesses (Deuteronomy 17:6; 19:15; Matthew 18:16).

In the case of Christ’s resurrection, this requirement has also been satisfied. The Scriptures report that there were hundreds of credible witnesses who encountered the risen Christ in a variety of situations and circumstances. On Resurrection Sunday, He appeared to Mary Magdalene in the garden (John 20:11-18), then again to the small group of women who were returning from the tomb (Matthew 28:9-10). On the same day, He joined Cleopas and another disciple as they walked together on the road to Emmaus (Mark 16:12-13; Luke 24:13-32). Before the day had passed, He revealed Himself also to Peter (Luke 24:34) and then to ten disciples in the upper room (Luke 24:36-43; John 20:19-25). On the following Sunday, He appeared to all eleven apostles and had His famous discourse with doubting Thomas (Mark 16:14; John 20:26-29; I Corinthians 15:5). After that, He appeared to more than five hundred witnesses at one time (I Corinthians 15:6) and to His half brother James (I Corinthians 15:7). At some undisclosed time, He came again to Peter, John, and five other disciples as they were fishing on the Sea of Tiberias (John 21:1-14). Finally, He ascended into heaven in the presence of His disciples on the Mount of Olives (Luke 24:50-53; Acts 1:9-11).

In light of the testimony of Scripture, it is impossible to discredit the account of Christ’s resurrection based upon some false notion that it lacked a sufficient number of eyewitnesses. To this truth, the great English preacher Charles Spurgeon eloquently testifies:

“Does it not strike you that very many events of the greatest importance recorded in history, and commonly believed, could not in the nature of things have been witnessed by one-tenth as many as the resurrection of Christ? The signing of famous treaties affecting nations, the births of princes, the remarks of cabinet ministers, the projects of conspirators, and the deeds of assassins—any and all of these have been made turning points in history and are never questioned as facts, and yet but few could have been present to witness them... If this fact [i.e. the resurrection] is to be denied, there is an end to all witness, and we have said deliberately what David said in haste: 'All men are liars'; and from this day forth every man must become so skeptical of his neighbor, that he will never believe anything which he has not himself seen; the next step will be to doubt the evidence of his own senses; to what further follies men may then rush, I will not venture to predict."<sup>16</sup>

Finally, for an event to be confirmed as historical or real, the eyewitnesses must demonstrate their integrity. In other words, they must prove themselves trustworthy. It is no secret that throughout the history of Christianity, countless skeptics have done their best to discredit the New Testament witnesses; however, they have never been able to disprove their sincerity or disqualify them on ethical or moral grounds. For this reason, the skeptics have been forced to focus their attacks on the possibility of self-delusion and mass hysteria.

It has been argued that the disciples and many of the first-century Jews were predisposed to believe in the resurrection; therefore, they simply saw what they wanted to see. Proponents of this view use the following line of reasoning. First, the Jewish nation struggled under the unbearable oppression of the Roman Empire. Because of this, the Jews of Jesus' day were longing for the coming of the Messiah and would have been easily deceived. Many among the Jews had already followed several false messiahs who had arisen among the people (Acts 5:36-37), proving they were willing to believe almost anything. Secondly, Jesus made many predictions regarding His future resurrection. When combined with the disciples' great love for their beloved teacher, such prophecies would have been perfect soil for the sprouting of self-delusion and mass hysteria.

Standing against these popular theories are several facts. First, the vast majority of the Jewish nation rejected Jesus of Nazareth as the Messiah. His earthly ministry and death were a stumbling block to them (I Corinthians 1:23). Adding the resurrection to the already scandalous message of the cross would not have made Jesus' claims to be the Messiah any more compelling to the Jew. Furthermore, this theory does not take into account the fact that within a few decades the vast majority of believers were Gentiles who had no predisposition to believe anything about the gospel. As Lewis and Demarest write:

"The event occurred in sharp antithesis to what they [i.e. the Jews] had expected theologically, and it was in genuine conflict with the framework of the secular world view at the time. To the Jew it was a stumbling block and to the Greek nonsense because the evidence required a Copernican revolution in their theology and cosmology."<sup>17</sup>

Secondly, the Jews and Gentiles were not the only ones who were not predisposed to believe in the resurrection; the same may also be said without reservation about the disciples. Mary Magdalene was the first to see Christ after the resurrection; however, when she first encountered the empty tomb, she believed that someone had stolen the Lord's body and moved it to an unknown location (John 20:2, 13, 15). Even after reports of Christ's resurrection began to emerge, the disciples still did not believe. Luke records that the news of Christ's resurrection "seemed to them an idle tale" (Luke 24:10-11), and Mark writes that they "would not believe it" (Mark 16:11). In their first encounters with the resurrected Christ, they believed Him to be a gardener (John 20:15), a ghost (Luke 24:37), and a mere traveler on the road to Emmaus (Luke 24:13-16). These gross and rather comical misinterpretations were only resolved by further appearances of Christ and through His careful exposition of the Law and the Prophets (Luke 24:25-27, 44-46). Before the doubt of Thomas could be removed, he considered it necessary to see in Christ's hands the imprint of the nails, put his finger into the wounds, and put his hand in His side (John 20:24-29)! Christ even "reproached them for their unbelief and hardness of heart" (Mark 16:14), and He scolded them as "foolish men who were slow of heart to believe in all that the prophets [had] spoken" (Luke 24:25). These facts hardly substantiate the claim that the disciples were predisposed to believe the resurrection!

<sup>17</sup> Integrative Theology, Vol.2, p.466. Nicolaus Copernicus (1473-1543) was the first to suggest a heliocentric cosmology—a model of the solar system in which the sun replaced the earth as the center of the solar system. His theory was a radical departure from the status quo and became a landmark in the history of modern science that is now known as the Copernican Revolution. Thus, any theory that is considered similarly radical is often referred to as "Copernican" or as a "Copernican revolution."

EVIDENCE FOR THE RESURRECTION OF CHRIST

Lastly, a specific delusion or hallucination is usually confined to a single individual. To think that the hundreds of people who claimed to be eyewitnesses of the risen Christ all shared the same hallucination is extremely improbable. Furthermore, mass hysteria usually requires the aid of powerful political or religious institutions that hold sway over the masses. However, in the case of Christ's resurrection and the gospel, the powerful institutions of the day were combined in their opposition to the message and did everything in their power to discredit it. The propagators were, for the most part, uneducated and untrained men (Acts 4:13) with no political, religious, or economic power to promote their cause.

A LIE WITHOUT A MOTIVE

An often overlooked, yet extremely convincing argument for the historical reality of the resurrection is the apostles' lifelong dedication to the gospel, regardless of the suffering and loss it imposed upon them. If Christ had not risen and the disciples had simply invented the story, then we should be able to discover a motive for the deception. What did they hope to achieve by propagating the lie? It is a historical fact that the apostles and the great majority of the early disciples died poor, defamed, persecuted, and hated. As the Apostle Paul declared, "We have become, are are still, like the scum of the world, the refuse of all things" (I Corinthians 4:13), and "If in Christ we have hope in this life only, we are of all people most to be pitied" (I Corinthians 15:19).

If these men had invented the resurrection story for the typical reasons for which men create such lies and propagate them—wealth, fame, and power—then they would have recanted or denounced the story once they saw that it was not achieving their desired goal. Nevertheless, history proves that most of them chose terrible persecution and even martyrdom over the renouncement of their belief in the gospel or the resurrection of Christ upon which it is founded. The only explanation for such tenacity and persistence in the face of such suffering and death is that the resurrection story is true—a historical reality—and that the apostles and other Christians were simply communicating what they had truly witnessed. As the Apostle John wrote, "What we have seen and heard we proclaim also to you" (I John 1:3).

Another important factor to calculate into the equation is the use of women as witnesses. In the time and culture of the New Testament, women were not considered legitimate witnesses in legal proceedings. Nevertheless, in all four Gospels, women take a prominent role as the "first witnesses" to the resurrection of Jesus Christ (Matthew 28:1-10; Mark 16:1-8; Luke 24:1-12; John 20:1-18). Mary Magdalene was the first person to see the Lord after the resurrection, and she was also the first to bear witness of His resurrection to others. In fact, she is portrayed as something of a heroine in that she believed and obeyed in the face of the apostles' unbelief (Mark 16:9-11; John 20:11-18). The women who had accompanied Mary Magdalene to the tomb on Sunday morning were the next to see the Lord, and they were the first to actually be commissioned by Him to take the news to others (Matthew 28:8-10). If the writers of the New Testament had been attempting to deceive the masses, they would not have used women as their primary witnesses; rather, they would have selected men, who would have been much more credible in the eyes of others.

THE TRANSFORMATION OF THE DISCIPLES

One of the greatest hurdles that the skeptic must overcome in his denial of the resurrection of Jesus Christ is the obvious transformation of the disciples. If the resurrection is not a historical reality—or worse, if it is a hoax—then the seemingly miraculous transformation that occurred in the character and deeds of the apostles and the other eyewitnesses is inexplicable.

Prior to the resurrection, the disciples were timid, fearful, and driven by self-preservation. During the arrest of Jesus, they abandoned Him (Matthew 26:56); during the trial, they denied Him (Matthew 26:69-75); and for three days after His death, they hid themselves in unbelief (Mark 16:14; John 20:19) and were engulfed in despair (Luke 24:17). The women among them showed far greater moral fortitude and hope than the very men who had been personally commissioned by Christ to be His apostles! It was the women who went to the tomb on Sunday morning while the men cowered in the upper room. It was the women who first believed and proclaimed the resurrection while the men were muted by doubt.

However, after the resurrection, these same men were transformed into valiant and indomitable defenders of the faith. From the book of Acts, we learn that they stood against the world and “turned the world upside down” with the message of the gospel and the resurrection of Jesus Christ (Acts 17:6 KJV/NKJV/ESV). When the most powerful religious and political institutions among Jews or Gentiles “charged them not to speak or teach at all in the name of Jesus” (Acts 4:18), they defied their authority with unflinching commitment to Christ’s person and message. This is evident in Peter and John’s declaration to the Sanhedrin in Acts 4:19-20:

“Whether it is right in the sight of God to listen to you rather than to God, you must judge; for we cannot but speak of what we have seen and heard.”

Although they were threatened, beaten, imprisoned, and martyred, the disciples of Christ refused to deny or cease from proclaiming what they had “seen and heard” (1 John 1:1, 3). These men and women, emboldened by the truth of the resurrection of Jesus, spread the gospel throughout the entire known world in a single generation (Colossians 1:5-6). They had no political, religious, or economic power; and they had no academic credentials; yet still they changed the world to a degree that no political or military machine has ever equaled. If Christ had not risen, how could this be explained? How could the success of their mission be understood? R.A. Torrey writes:

“Something tremendous must have happened to account for such a radical and astounding moral transformation as this. Nothing short of the fact of the resurrection, of their having seen the risen Lord, will explain it.”<sup>18</sup>

THE CONVERSION OF ENEMIES

The radical transformation of the followers of Jesus Christ after His resurrection is not the skeptic's only problem. He must also explain the subsequent conversion of those who opposed Jesus and persecuted the movement that followed Him. Apart from the resurrection, how could Christianity have impacted some of its earliest and greatest opponents—especially the half brothers of Jesus and the infamous Saul of Tarsus?

The Scriptures clearly state that during Jesus' life and ministry, neither James nor Jude (Jesus' half brothers) believed in Him but were openly antagonistic toward His person and ministry (John 7:3-5). In fact, Jesus' family once traveled from Nazareth to Capernaum in order to take custody of Him because they thought "He is out of his mind" (Mark 3:21). However, after the resurrection, both brothers were radically converted and became leaders in the early Church.<sup>19</sup> Their devotion to Christ and submission to His lordship is seen in the introduction to their epistles, where they refer to themselves as bondservants of the Lord Jesus Christ (James 1:1; Jude 1). They had been transformed from unbelieving antagonists into faithful bondservants who were willing to submit their lives to His lordship. How was such a transformation possible apart from accepting the testimony of Scripture? They had seen the risen Christ (I Corinthians 15:7)!

Another enemy of the early Church whose conversion adds weight to the apostolic proclamation of the resurrection is Saul of Tarsus (later known as the Apostle Paul). In the book of Acts and by his own accounts, Saul stands out as the greatest and fiercest enemy of primitive Christianity. In his ignorance and unbelief, he saw Jesus of Nazareth as nothing more than an impostor and a blasphemer, and he thought that all who followed Him were worthy of imprisonment and death (I Timothy 1:13). We first see him in the book of Acts as he gives his hearty approval to the martyrdom of Stephen (Acts 7:58; 8:1). Afterwards, he goes to the high priest, "breathing threats and murder against the disciples of the Lord" (9:1), and asks for letters so that "if he found any belonging to the Way, men or women, he might bring them bound to Jerusalem" (9:2). However, on the road to Damascus, Saul is radically transformed—he becomes convinced that Jesus is the Messiah of Israel! He receives baptism in His name and immediately begins to proclaim Jesus in the synagogues, saying, "He is the Son of God" (9:18-20). His fellow Jews respond in amazement, saying:

"Is this not the man who made havoc in Jerusalem of those who called upon this name? And has he not come here for this purpose, to bring them bound before the chief priests?" (Acts 9:21)

After these events, the news quickly spread to all the churches of Judea that he who once had persecuted and tried to destroy the faith was now preaching and proclaiming that same faith (Galatians 1:22-23)! However, Saul had been such a violent adversary to the Church that no believer dared associate with him. All were afraid of him until Barnabas brought him to the apostles and confirmed his testimony (Acts 9:26-27). In this way, Saul of Tarsus, the greatest enemy of the Christian faith, became its greatest defender and propagator. William Neil writes:

"What is beyond question historically is that the fanatical oppressor of the Nazarenes, who left Jerusalem 'breathing threats and murder,' entered Damascus mentally shattered and physically blinded and became on his recovery the foremost protagonist of the beliefs he set out to extirpate [i.e. destroy]."<sup>20</sup>

<sup>19</sup> James (James 1:1; Acts 1:14; 12:17; 15:13ff; I Corinthians 9:5; 15:7; Galatians 1:19; 2:9) and Jude (Jude 1; Acts 1:14; I Corinthians 9:5).

Because the skeptic cannot deny the historical realities of Saul's conversion and radically transformed life, he is obliged to offer a reasonable explanation for it. After two thousand years, the Church is still waiting!

THE MULTITUDES THROUGHOUT HISTORY

In the first year of Christianity, the respected Pharisee Gamaliel addressed the Sanhedrin with great wisdom regarding the followers of Jesus. It is worth quoting:

"Men of Israel, take care what you are about to do with these men. For before these days Theudas rose up, claiming to be somebody, and a number of men, about four hundred, joined him. He was killed, and all who followed him were dispersed and came to nothing. After him Judas the Galilean rose up in the days of the census and drew away some of the people after him. He too perished, and all who followed him were scattered. So in the present case I tell you, keep away from these men and let them alone, for if this plan or this undertaking is of man, it will fall; but if it is of God, you will not be able to overthrow them. You might even be found opposing God!" (Acts 5:35-39)

Prior to the coming of Jesus Christ, two false messiahs had appeared to the nation of Israel, and each had drawn a following. Yet after their deaths, their followers were quickly dispersed, and nothing was ever heard of their movements again. Therefore, Gamaliel reasoned that if Jesus of Nazareth were just a man and His resurrection a hoax, then the same fate would befall His followers. However, Gamaliel also wisely concluded that if the resurrection story were true, then Jesus was the Messiah, the movement would continue, and those who opposed it would be fighting against God. The last two thousand years of history seem to have confirmed Gamaliel's argument.

One of the greatest proofs of the resurrection of Jesus Christ is the continuation of the Christian faith throughout history and throughout the nations, tribes, and peoples of the world. Since the resurrection, hundreds of millions of people have testified to having a personal relationship with Jesus Christ and have claimed that He has dramatically changed the course of their lives. It is important to note that this group of people is not confined to any specific ethnic, political, economic, or academic sub-group; rather, it includes individuals from every ethnicity, economic class, and academic level. The early Church was made up of individuals who would have never come together in any other circumstance. There were Greeks and Jews, circumcised and uncircumcised, barbarians, Scythians, slaves, and freemen; but Christ was all and in all (Colossians 3:11). The same may be said of Christianity today.

It is also important to note that a countless multitude of men, women, and children who have followed Christ have done so at great personal sacrifice. Some statisticians estimate that the number of martyrs has reached more than fifty million believers. Others claim that this number is much higher.

All of this evidence unrelentingly leads us to several thought-provoking questions. What is the rationale behind such devotion and sacrifice? What is the explanation for the endurance of the Church despite the countless enemies who have vowed to exterminate it? It does cause one to think that something truly did happen on that Sunday morning when the stone was found rolled away!

Chapter 24: The Nature of Christ's Resurrection

Having considered the historicity of Christ's resurrection, it is now important to examine its meaning in light of the Scriptures. What was the nature of the resurrection? The English word "resurrection" comes from the Latin verb resurgere [re = again + surgere = to rise]. In the New Testament, it is derived from the Greek noun anástasis [aná = up, again + stásis = stand].

CHRIST'S RESURRECTION WAS NOT MERELY A REVIVIFICATION

In the Old Testament, the son of the widow of Zarephath (I Kings 17:17-24) and the Shunammite's son (II Kings 4:18-37) were supernaturally resurrected. The New Testament teaches that Lazarus was resurrected (John 11:23-25, 43-44), along with Jairus's daughter (Mark 5:41-42; Luke 8:54-55), a young man from Nain (Luke 7:14-15), Tabitha (Acts 9:36-43), and Eutychus (Acts 20:7-12). It is important to note that all of these were revived from the dead, but they all were still subject to death—they would die again. Christ's resurrection was different in that He died once for sin but lives forevermore, never to die again. As He declared in Revelation 1:18: "[I am] the living one. I died, and behold I am alive forevermore..."

CHRIST'S RESURRECTION WAS A BODILY RESURRECTION

It is the plain teaching of Scripture and of all orthodox Christianity that Christ's resurrection was a bodily resurrection. The very same body that was crucified, wrapped in burial cloth, and placed in the tomb was raised on the third day according to the Scriptures. Although this raised body was the very same that had died, it also had many differences. It was sown in weakness, but raised in power.

1. It is important to establish what is meant by the term "resurrection." The Scriptures teach that the resurrection of Jesus was not merely spiritual, but material, physical, and corporeal. The actual flesh-and-bone body of Jesus was resurrected. What do we learn about this truth from Luke 24:36-43? Read the text, and then answer the following questions.
  - a. How should verses 36-37 be interpreted? Was there a supernatural element to Christ's entrance? What does this tell us about His resurrection body?

---

---

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

---

NOTES: According to John 20:19, the disciples were gathered behind “locked” doors for fear of the Jews. This fact, coupled with the frightened reaction of the disciples, indicates that Jesus came into the room by supernatural means and that His resurrected body was of a different order. This truth is also seen in Jesus’ encounter with the two disciples on the road to Emmaus, where He “vanished from their sight” (Luke 24:31). The terms “startled” and “frightened” come from the Greek words ptoéō and émphobos. Both terms denote a very strong fear. They thought that they were seeing a disembodied spirit.

- b. According to verses 39-40, what proof did Jesus give to convince His disciples that He was not a spirit? What does this teach us about His resurrected body?

---

---

---

NOTES: Jesus makes two important declarations regarding His resurrected body: (1) that He had flesh and bones; and (2) that He was not a disembodied spirit, as they had first supposed. To give further evidence, Jesus invited His disciples to observe and even touch His hands and feet. The fact that Christ’s resurrected body still bore the scars of the crucifixion proved that it was indeed the same body that was crucified. The fact that Christ went to such lengths to prove that He was not a mere spirit indicates the extreme importance of the doctrine of His bodily resurrection.

- c. What further evidence did Jesus give in verses 41-43 to prove to the disciples that He was not a spirit? What does this teach us about His resurrected body?

---

THE NATURE OF CHRIST'S RESURRECTION

NOTES: The sudden appearance of Jesus in their midst caused great amazement. They were uncertain about what they were seeing and what was happening among them. When the patriarch Jacob was told that his son Joseph was alive, the Scriptures declare that he responded in a similar manner: "his heart became numb, for he did not believe them" (Genesis 45:26). Because of their unbelief, Christ went to even greater lengths to prove that His body, though transformed in marvelous ways, was still the same real body that had hung on the cross—He asked them for a piece of fish and ate it before their very eyes.

2. In John 20:19-23, we are given John's account of Christ's appearance to the disciples at a time when Thomas was not present. In the verses that follow (vv.24-29), we are given the account of Christ's appearance to all of the disciples, including Thomas. Read the text, and then answer the following questions.

a. According to verses 24-25, what was Thomas's reaction when the other disciples declared to him that they had seen the Lord? Why is Thomas's reaction significant?

---

---

---

NOTES: Thomas's reaction was one of doubt or disbelief. This proves that the disciples were not men who expected Christ to rise again; therefore, they could not have simply imagined the resurrection story as something they hoped to be true, for they clearly did not initially believe it themselves! It also shows that they were not gullible men who could be led to believe without sufficient proof. Even after reports of Christ's resurrection began to surface, the disciples still did not believe. Luke records that the news of Christ's resurrection "seemed to them an idle tale" (Luke 24:9-11), and Mark writes that "they would not believe it" (Mark 16:11).

b. In verse 26, we learn that Jesus appeared a second time to the disciples, this time while Thomas was present. According to verses 27-28, what did Jesus command Thomas to do, and what was Thomas's reaction? What does this teach us about both the certainty and the nature of Christ's resurrection?

---

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

---

NOTES: The fact that Thomas was commanded to examine the physical body of Jesus indicates at least two things: (1) Thomas was not seeing a hallucination, but a real person standing before him; and (2) Jesus was resurrected with the same body that had been crucified—it bore the scars of the crucifixion and of the impalement by the lance. Christ’s appearance in the same body which had been crucified resulted in the transformation of Thomas’s faith. He went from believing that Jesus was a martyred prophet to proclaiming Him as the Lord and God of creation!

3. In I Corinthians 15:42-44, the Apostle Paul sets forth the differences between a mortal human body and the same body after the resurrection. In this text, we can learn several truths about the differences between Christ’s earthly body prior to His death and His resurrected body. Fill in the blanks below according to the texts given.
- It was sown a P_____ body and raised an I_____ body (v.42).* The word “perishable” comes from the Greek phrase en phthorá, which is literally translated, “in corruption.” Christ’s earthly body was subject to aging, deterioration, and death. The word “imperishable” comes from the Greek word aphtharsía, which refers to that which is not subject to corruption. Christ’s resurrected body was not subject to deterioration or death; rather, it was fit for eternity.
  - It was sown in D_____ and raised in G_____ (v.43).* The word “dishonor” is translated from the Greek word atimía, which denotes dishonor or shame. In His earthly ministry, Christ had “no form or majesty” (Isaiah 53:2); and on the cross, He suffered the greatest of all humiliations (Philippians 2:8). However, His body was raised in glory. The word comes from the Greek word dóxa, which denotes glory, honor, and majesty.
  - It was sown in W_____ and raised in P_____ (v.43).* The word “weakness” comes from the Greek word asthéneia, which may also be translated, “frailty.” In the incarnation, Christ took upon Himself a body that was subject to all the infirmities of fallen man—hunger, thirst, pain, sickness, agony, and death (Romans 8:3). However, His body was raised in power. The word “power” comes from the Greek word dúnamis, which denotes power, might, and strength. The writer of Hebrews declares that Christ now possesses “the power of an indestructible life” (Hebrews 7:16).
  - It was sown a N_____ body and raised a S_____ body (v.44).* The word “natural” comes from the Greek word psuchikós, which refers to that which pertains to the natural realm and is characterized by weakness, decay, and death. The word “spiritual” comes from the Greek word pneumatikós, which denotes that which pertains to the heavenly realm and is marked by power and eternity. Christ’s resurrected body is set in contrast to the “natural body.” It is important to note that "spiritual body" is not synonymous with "non-material body"; rather, it refers to a physical body that has been transformed and endowed with power, a body that is fit for eternity and the heavenly realm.

4. In Philippians 3:21, we find a very important reference to the resurrected body of Christ. How is it described?
  - a. A G_____ B _____.

NOTES: The phrase may also be translated, "body of His glory" (NASB). It is the same body that was crucified in weakness but now exists in an exalted and glorified state. During Christ's earthly pilgrimage, the glory of His deity was veiled behind His human body, which, though He was sinless, was subject to the weakness and death of mortal man (Romans 8:3). After the resurrection, however, Christ's body no longer veiled His glory; it manifested and displayed it! Christ's resurrected body is set in contrast with our present "lowly body" (ESV/NKJV), "the body of our humble state" (NASB), or "the body of our humiliation" (ASV).

Chapter 25: The Significance of Christ's Resurrection

Jesus has risen from the dead, but what is the significance of the resurrection? What does it mean to the world, the Church, the believer, and the unbeliever? We will learn in this chapter that, together with the cross, the resurrection of Jesus Christ is indisputably the greatest event in human history and has the greatest significance for all men.

THE RESURRECTION VINDICATED JESUS

One of the first truths that we must understand concerning the resurrection of Jesus is that it vindicated His claim of being the Messiah, the Son of God. Jesus did not become the Son of God at the resurrection; rather, the resurrection was a powerful demonstration that He was eternally the Son and Christ of God.

1. What does Romans 1:3-4 teach us about the resurrection of Jesus as a vindication of His claim to be the Christ and the Son of God?

---

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The word "declared" comes from the Greek word horízō, which means, "to define, mark out boundaries, or determine." Through Jesus' resurrection from the dead, God personally and publicly marked out or defined who Jesus truly was—the Son of God. The resurrection was God's powerful and public certification of Christ's Sonship and deity. This is also seen in the early apostolic preaching, which emphasized the Jews' rejection of Jesus and God's vindication of Him through the resurrection: "this Jesus...you crucified and killed by the hands of lawless men. God raised him up" (Acts 2:23-24). "But you denied the Holy and Righteous One, and asked for a murdered to be granted to you, and you killed the Author of life, whom God raised from the dead. To this we are witness" (Acts 3:14-15). The phrase, "according to the Spirit of holiness," demonstrates that God raised Jesus through the powerful agency of the Holy Spirit.

THE SIGNIFICANCE OF CHRIST'S RESURRECTION

2. In I Timothy 3:16, we find an extremely important statement about the resurrection of Jesus Christ. According to this text, how did the resurrection confirm the claims of Christ?
  - a. Throughout His life and through His resurrection, Jesus was V_____ in the Spirit.

NOTES: The word "vindicated" comes from the Greek word dikaiōō, which means, "to declare, evince, or show one to be right or righteous." The phrase, "by the Spirit," may also be translated, "in the Spirit" (NASB). The Holy Spirit vindicated the person and claims of Jesus Christ throughout His earthly ministry by performing signs and wonders through Him (Luke 5:17) and, ultimately, by raising Him from the dead.

CHRIST'S RESURRECTION CONFIRMS OUR JUSTIFICATION

The resurrection demonstrated that the Father had accepted the sacrifice of Jesus as full payment for the sins of His people. We know atonement has been made for our sins because Christ was raised. The resurrection is proof of our justification.

1. What does Romans 4:25 teach us about Christ's resurrection as being proof of the believer's justification?

---

---

---

NOTES: In both of its occurrences in Romans 4:25, the phrase "for" is translated from the Greek word diá, which denotes the grounds or reason for which something is done or not done. It may also be translated, "for this reason" or "on account of." The meaning is this: Christ was delivered over to death on account of our transgressions, and God raised Him from the dead because He accepted His sacrifice as full payment for our transgressions. The resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead is the great sign that our sins have been paid in full. If God had not accepted Christ's sacrifice as payment, He would not have raised Him from the dead.

CHRIST'S RESURRECTION GUARANTEES OUR RESURRECTION

The wages of sin is death. Christ's resurrection was the confirmation that God had accepted His sacrifice as the satisfaction of our sin debt, thus freeing us from the penalty of death. His resurrection is the confirmation or guarantee of our resurrection. The empty tomb provides the believer with the strong assurance that justice has been satisfied and death has been conquered. This is the great hope of every believer.

1. Several great promises regarding Jesus' resurrection and that of His people are found throughout the Gospels and the New Testament Epistles. Meditate carefully on the following texts, and then write your thoughts.

---

---

---

NOTES: After the resurrection, Christ revealed Himself "not to all the people but to us who had been chosen by God as witnesses" (Acts 10:40-41). For the believers who first saw Him and for those who believe their eyewitness testimony, the resurrection of Christ is the great confirmation of their own future resurrection.

b. 1 Corinthians 6:14

---

---

---

NOTES: To understand the importance of this declaration, we only need to consider how weak the promise of our resurrection would be if God had not raised Christ. The resurrection of Jesus Christ is God's sure pledge to us of the certainty of our own.

c. II Corinthians 4:14

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The believer's confidence in his own resurrection comes from the undeniable fact that God has raised Jesus Christ from the dead.

2. In I Corinthians 15:20-23, we find another important text regarding Christ's resurrection and the promised resurrection of His people. Read the text several times until you are familiar with its contents, and then write your thoughts on each of the following sections. How is it that Christ's resurrection is both the pattern and the pledge of the believer's resurrection?

a. But in fact Christ has been raised from the dead, the firstfruits of those who have fallen asleep (v.20).

---

---

---

---

NOTES: Christ's resurrection is one of the great columns of the Christian faith. Upon this truth rests the believer's hope. In Leviticus 23:10, the Scriptures declare that the Israelites were to bring an offering from the very first part of their harvest. This "first fruits" offering was a recognition that the rest of the harvest that followed also belonged to the Lord. In a similar way, Christ's resurrection is the first fruits of the harvest—it is representative of the entire harvest that will be gathered in after Him. His resurrection is the forerunner and guarantee of the resurrection of His people.

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

- b. For as by a man came death, by a man has come also the resurrection of the dead. For as in Adam all die, so also in Christ shall all be made alive (vv.21-22).

---

---

---

---

NOTES: It was necessary that the sin and death brought to mankind by one man be reversed by another Man. In Adam, all sinned and fell into condemnation and death. In Christ, all who believe are justified and resurrected. Christ's resurrection is the guarantee of both the present justification and the future resurrection of His people.

- c. But each in his own order: Christ the firstfruits, then at his coming those who belong to Christ (v.23).

---

---

---

NOTES: The word "order" comes from the Greek word táγμα, which refers to the military order or arrangement of soldiers or troops. It may be that some in Corinth were rejecting the doctrine of the resurrection by means of the following faulty logic: "If the believer is so united with Christ in His resurrection, why is it that Christ has risen while the bodies of the believers who have died continue to rot in the ground?" Paul's response is that everything has its order: Christ is the first fruits of the resurrection of all believers on the final day. It is necessary that Christ have preeminence in all things. Paul wrote to the church in Colossae, "He is the head of the body, the church. He is the beginning, the firstborn from the dead, that in everything he might be preeminent" (Colossians 1:18).

Chapter 26: The Essentiality of Christ's Resurrection

It is impossible to overemphasize the importance of Christ's resurrection. In light of the Scriptures, this is no exaggeration. The resurrection is the foundational doctrine of Christianity and one truth upon which the entire Christian faith either stands or falls. Thus, it is an absolutely essential doctrine and a non-negotiable truth. To deny Christ's resurrection is to reject the gospel.

1. The resurrection of Jesus Christ is so important to the Christian faith that being a witness of the risen Lord was a requirement of apostleship. What do the following Scriptures teach regarding this truth?

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The word "must" comes from the Greek verb deí, which denotes necessity. In this text, two requirements are given for apostleship. The first was to have witnessed Jesus' earthly ministry. The second was to have been an eyewitness of the resurrected Christ. Even the greatest enemies of Christianity are forced by the facts of history to acknowledge Christ's extraordinary life and death; it is over the resurrection that the great war is waged. Therefore, an apostle needed the authority of one who had actually seen the risen Lord. The apostles were called to propagate Christ's teachings and works, and these could only be validated by His resurrection. For this reason, they were required to bear witness to this great and decisive event.

b. I Corinthians 9:1

---

---

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

---

NOTES: Paul validated his calling and authority as an apostle by reminding the Corinthians that he was an eyewitness to the risen Lord (Acts 9:1-9; 22:6-16; 26:12-18). The resurrection is the one doctrine upon which all the other claims of Christianity either stand or fall. It is for this reason that the resurrection has been so severely attacked by the enemies of Christianity.

2. In II Timothy 2:8, we find an important text that summarizes the gospel and demonstrates the central importance of the resurrection of Jesus Christ in the preaching of the gospel. Write your thoughts on this text and the truth it teaches us.

---

---

---

NOTES: The word "remember" comes from the Greek word mnēmoneúō, which means, "to be mindful of, to hold in memory, to think of." The verb "risen" is translated from the Greek verb egeirō. The verb's perfect tense denotes the ongoing state of the Lord's resurrection. Christ was raised from the dead and lives forevermore. In Revelation 1:18, Jesus refers to Himself as the "living One," who was dead and now lives forevermore. The phrase, "as preached in my gospel," demonstrates that the resurrection of Jesus Christ was foundational to the gospel of the apostles. The only Jesus the apostles knew was the eternal Son of God, who became the incarnate Son of David, died on a cross for the sins of His people, and was raised from the dead.

3. The importance of the resurrection is also seen in the fact that it is regarded as an essential belief for a person's salvation. According to Romans 10:9, is it possible for a man to be saved apart from belief in the resurrection? How does the answer to this question demonstrate the importance of the resurrection?

THE ESSENTIALITY OF CHRIST'S RESURRECTION

NOTES: The word “confess” comes from the Greek word homologéō, which means, “to say or speak the same thing as another.” The phrase “with your mouth” refers to a public profession or identification with Jesus as Lord. Paul does not have in mind a superficial confession or a mere intellectual acceptance of a creed, but an open and public confession coming from a sincere conviction of the heart. To believe “in your heart” is a reference to a profound and genuine faith in the resurrected Christ. It is utter nonsense to claim faith in Christ apart from belief in His resurrection.

4. In seeking to comprehend the great importance of the resurrection, it is necessary to consider the grave implications that are left to us if this event never happened. According to I Corinthians 15:14-19, 32, if Christ has not risen, what truths must logically follow? Write your thoughts on each implication.

a. The preaching of the gospel is in V_____ (v.14).

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The word “vain” comes from the Greek word kenós, which literally means, “empty.” The word is used to describe vessels or places that contain nothing. It is used figuratively to describe that which is unprofitable, useless, delusory, false, or devoid of meaning or importance. This is an amazing statement—the validity of all Christian proclamation depends upon the validity of Christ’s resurrection. If Christ is not raised, then nothing of Christian proclamation has even one shred of worth.

b. The Christian faith is in V_____ (v.14).

---

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

NOTES: The word "vain" comes from the Greek word kenós (see definition above). Christ is the Object, Author, and Finisher of the Christian faith (Hebrews 12:2). If He has not risen, then faith in Him is useless, false, and devoid of purpose.

c. The Christian faith is F_____ (v.17).

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The word "futile" comes from the Greek word mátaios, which refers to that which is useless, worthless, and devoid of force or truth.

d. Those who preach the gospel are F_____ W_____ of God (v.15).

---

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: God's law commands, "You shall not bear false witness against your neighbor" (Exodus 20:16). How much more severe will be the penalty for those who bear false witness against God! In I Samuel 2:25, we read: "If someone sins against a man,

THE ESSENTIALITY OF CHRIST'S RESURRECTION

God will mediate for him; but if a man sins against the LORD, who can intercede for him?"

e. Those who believe in Christ are still in their S_____ (v.17).

---

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The resurrection is the great proof that God has accepted the sacrifice of Christ and that the demands of His justice have been satisfied (Romans 4:25). If Christ is not raised, we have no proof of pardon, imputed righteousness, or eternal life.

f. Those who die believing in Christ have P_____ (v.18).

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The word "perished" comes from the Greek word apóllumi, which means, "to be lost, ruined, or destroyed." If the Captain of our Salvation could not overcome the grave, what hope have we who follow Him?

g. Those who believe in Christ are to be P_____ more than all others (v.19).

---

NOTES: The word comes from the Greek word eleinós, which may also be translated, "miserable." If Christ is not raised, then Christians are pitiful fools who lose the world and waste their brief existence on earth only to gain nothing in return!

h. Let us E_____ and D_____, for tomorrow we D_____ (v.32).

NOTES: These words are taken from Isaiah 22:13. If there is no resurrection, then there is no hope for man. There is nothing left for men but to selfishly gratify the lusts of the flesh until death consumes all.

Chapter 27: The Son Ascended

The Scriptures teach us that Jesus Christ is the eternal Son of God who left the glory of heaven, was born of a virgin, and lived a perfect life in the flesh. He was then nailed to a cross, according to the eternal will of God. He bore the sins of His people, suffered the wrath of God, and died. On the third day, He rose again from the dead, demonstrating that He was the Son of God and that His death obtained salvation for God's people. Forty days after His resurrection, Christ ascended to heaven, where He was seated at the right hand of God the Father and given glory, honor, and dominion over all. There in the presence of God, He represents His people and makes requests and special petitions to God on their behalf. The death and resurrection of Christ are the two great columns of Christ's work. His ascension and exaltation are its glorious culmination.

THE ASCENSION

The Scriptures teach that Christ ascended into heaven forty days after His resurrection in the presence of many eyewitnesses. This ascension is not a myth; it is a historical reality which was recorded by eyewitnesses as a factual event. To treat the ascension as something other than real history is to deny the testimony of Scripture.

1. One fact that gives great credibility to Christ's ascension is that it was a predicted event. What does John 16:28 teach us about this truth?

---

---

NOTES: In this one verse, Jesus speaks of His past eternal glory, His present incarnation, and His future ascension.

2. In Luke 1:1-4 and Acts 1:1-3, we have powerful evidence that the Gospel writers were convinced that they were relating historical fact. How does Acts 1:9-11 demonstrate that they also viewed Christ's ascension as an actual event in history?

NOTES: In verses 9 and 10, Luke writes that the disciples “were looking on” and “were gazing into heaven.” Both phrases refer to the eyewitness accounts that Luke used as sources for his Gospel. The phrase “gazing intently” comes from the Greek word atenízō, which means, “to fix one’s eyes on, look straight at, or stare.” The same word is used in Luke 4:20, when the Scriptures declare that “the eyes of all in the synagogue were fixed [or fastened] on Him [Jesus].” The disciples did not simply catch a momentary glance of something they misinterpreted as Jesus. They had ample time to evaluate the event, even as they were witnessing it. In verse 11, the disciples are mildly rebuked by the angels because they continued looking up to the sky even after Jesus had departed. Again, this demonstrates how thoroughly they witnessed the event. Skeptics have attempted to discredit Luke’s account by pointing out that his use of the phrase “was lifted up” is incompatible with our knowledge of the universe. Such criticism is unnecessary. Luke uses the same terminology that modern-day scientists use to describe the “lifting up” of a rocket.

3. It is clear that the New Testament writers saw the ascension of Jesus as a historical event. Forty days after the resurrection, Jesus ascended from the earth, but to where did He ascend? What do the following Scriptures teach us?
- He was C_____ U_____ into heaven (Luke 24:51). The phrase “carried up” comes from the Greek word anaphérō, which means, “to carry, bear, or bring up.” In this context, the word “heaven” [Greek: ouranós] refers to the very abode of God. Matthew Henry writes, “He was carried up into heaven; not by force, but by his own act and deed... There was no need of a chariot of fire or horses of fire; He knew the way.”<sup>21</sup>
  - He P_____ T_____ the heavens (Hebrews 4:14). The phrase “passed through” comes from the Greek word diérchomai, which means, “to go or pass through, to walk or journey through a place.” Christ passed through all the heavens until He reached the highest place, the very presence of God.
  - He A_____ F_____ A_____ all the heavens (Ephesians 4:10). The word “ascended” comes from the Greek word anabaínō, which means, “to ascend, climb up, or rise.” Christ ascended to the highest place in all the heavens.
  - He was T_____ U_____ in G_____ (1 Timothy 3:16). The phrase “taken up” comes from the Greek word analambánō, which means, “to take or receive up.” Christ ascended to the glorious abode of God. He was taken up to this place and well-received.
  - He was taken up into heaven and sat down at the R_____ hand of God (Mark 16:19). The phrase “taken up” comes from the Greek word analambánō (see definition above). Matthew Henry writes, “He had not only an admission, but an abundant entrance into His kingdom.”<sup>22</sup> Having ascended, Christ “sat down at the right hand of God.” There is no place of greater exaltation than at God’s right hand, the place of His favor and authority.

- f. He went to the F_____ (John 14:28). Christ returned to His greatest love, to the One for whom He did this great work of redemption—the Father. He had pleased the Father in all things, and now He returned home with His Father’s unre-served approval.
- g. He A_____ to where He was B_____ (John 6:62). The word “ascended” comes from the Greek word anabaínō, which means, “to ascend, climb up, or rise.” Two things are taught in this text: (1) the Son’s eternal glory prior to His incar-nation; and (2) the Son’s return to His previous exalted state, this time as the God-Man.

THE EXALTATION

The Scriptures teach that Jesus Christ not only ascended to heaven, but that He also was ex-alted to the position of highest honor and authority at the very right hand of God. It is extremely important to note that this exaltation was not a “new” or “strange” experience for the Son of God. The Scriptures clearly teach that He was glorified together with the Father and shared His Father’s glory before the world was (John 17:5). The uniqueness of the Son’s return to exaltation is found in this: He who is now exalted at the right hand of the Father is both God and Man. In the incarnation, the Son divested Himself of the honors and rights (though not the essence) of His deity, took upon Himself our humanity, and was obedient to the Father’s will even to the point of death on a cross. For this reason, He “won” the right to sit down at the right hand of God. The One who has been crowned with glory and honor on the very throne of God is both God and Man. The exalted Savior and King is one with God and one with His people.

1. In Isaiah 52:13-14 is found a powerful prophecy concerning the Messiah’s exaltation after suf-fering for the sins of His people. Summarize the major truths of the text.

---

---

---

NOTES: The phrase “My servant” is a reference to the Messiah. God has had only one true Servant—His Son Jesus Christ. The word “prosper” comes from the Hebrew word sakal, which indicates prosperity or success. It denotes God’s favor or blessing and is often the reward for obedience (Joshua 1:8). There has never been anyone as obedient or pleasing to God as His Son—He was obedient to the point of death on a cross (v.14; see also Philip-pians 2:8). Therefore, there would be no one more highly exalted or lifted up.

---

NOTES: As a result of His obedience, the Son would be resurrected and live forever ("He will prolong His days"); He would be given a spiritual offspring ("He will see His offspring"); and God's will or "good pleasure" would "prosper" perfectly through Him.

b. Out of the anguish of his soul he shall see and be satisfied (v.11).

---

---

---

NOTES: The word "anguish" comes from the Hebrew word `amal, which denotes toil, trouble, travail, grievous labor, vexation, misery, and pain. The Messiah would suffer these things to the very depth of His being (physically, emotionally, mentally, and spiritually). However, as a result of His anguish, many would be justified; and He would be satisfied with His reward. The word "satisfied" comes from the Hebrew word saba, which means, "to be satisfied, sated, or fulfilled to the point of excess."

c. Therefore I will divide him a portion with the many and he shall divide the spoil with the strong (v.12).

---

---

---

NOTES: God's exaltation and reward would be the fruit of the Messiah's obedience unto death, even death on a cross. The references to the allotting of portions and the dividing of booty portray Calvary as a great conquest or military victory. Christ the Victor is given the spoils of His victory.

3. In Philippians 2:6-11 is found one of the most important passages in all of Scripture regarding the humiliation and exaltation of the Son of God. Read the text several times until you are familiar with its contents, and then write your own commentary on each of the following portions. What was Christ's reward for His voluntary humiliation?
- a. Therefore God has highly exalted him and bestowed on him a name that is above every name (v.9).

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The phrase "Therefore" is important. God exalted Jesus above every name "because of" or "on account of" [Greek: dió] His voluntary submission to God, which He demonstrated in His incarnation, obedience, and atoning death. Upon His ascension into heaven, the Son of God and Son of Man took the place that He had possessed before the foundation of the world. He is exalted not only by divine right, but also as a reward for His perfect obedience as a Man. The phrase "highly exalted" comes from the Greek word huperupsóō, which denotes the act of exalting one to the highest rank and power. The word "bestowed" comes from the Greek word charízomai, which denotes giving something pleasant or agreeable to another and doing so graciously and freely. The phrase "above every name" refers to the Son's exalted state over every created being in heaven and on earth.

- b. So that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, in heaven and on earth and under the earth, and every tongue confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father (vv.10-11).

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: In Isaiah 45:23, God declares the following concerning Himself: "By myself I have sworn; from my mouth has gone out in righteousness a word that shall not return: 'To me every knee shall bow, every tongue shall swear allegiance.'" That this text is applied to Christ is great proof of His deity. The bowing of the knee represents the recognition of worth, the giving of honor, and submission to authority. This text communicates two great truths. First, Christ is worthy of all honor and submission. Secondly, there is coming a day when all creation will recognize and acknowledge Christ as Lord.

4. The following New Testament texts give us some important insight into Christ's exaltation and its purpose. Write your thoughts on each text.

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The word “purification” comes from the Greek word katharismós, which may also be translated, “cleansing.” It is a reference to Christ’s atoning work on Calvary whereby His people have been purified from sin. The phrase “Majesty on high” is a reference to God and His greatness. The fact that Christ has sat down at the right hand of God demonstrates that He has been given the place of highest honor and favor, a place and rank equal with God.

b. Hebrews 2:9

---

---

---

---

NOTES: Again, Christ’s humiliation and atoning death are viewed as a cause or basis for His exaltation. The writer of Hebrews could not have chosen a more majestic phrase than “crowned with glory and honor.” However, even this does not begin to describe the glory that has been bestowed upon Christ.

c. Revelation 3:21

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The word “overcome” comes from the Greek word nikáō, which means, “to conquer” or “to be victorious.” Christ’s submission to the Father’s will and His perfect obedience were necessary precursors to His exaltation. In His obedience and submission, Christ overcame sin, Satan, and death. His exaltation is portrayed as a reward for His obedience.

Chapter 28: Our Exalted Savior

The eternal Son of God divested Himself of the honors of deity and took upon Himself our humanity. He walked upon this earth and lived a perfect life in unwavering submission to the will of God. According to the foreordained plan of God, He was lifted up and nailed to a Roman cross by the hands of wicked men. On that cross, He bore the sins of His people and suffered the wrath of God in their place. By His death, He satisfied God’s justice and made it possible for a just God to forgive the sins of His people and grant them a perfect standing before Him. As a result of His obedience, the incarnate Son was raised from the dead and exalted to the right hand of God as Savior. He alone bears the title of Savior, and in His name alone is salvation found.

The Scriptures declare unapologetically that salvation is found in the name of Jesus Christ alone. There is no other savior, mediator, or means by which a man may obtain forgiveness for his sin and be reconciled to God; this work can only be accomplished through the person of Jesus Christ and His perfect work on Calvary. This is one of the most scandalous truths of Christianity; however, to harbor the slightest compromise of this truth is to deny the Scriptures, diminish the glory of Christ, make void the cross, and drive a dagger into the very heart of the gospel. The only faithful proclamation of the gospel is that which boldly and clearly declares Jesus Christ to be the One and only Savior!

1. In John 14:6, Jesus made a bold declaration about Himself with regard to truth, life, and reconciliation with God. In the mind of Christ, is there any possibility of finding truth, life, or salvation in anyone or anything outside of Himself? Write your thoughts regarding each of the following phrases.

a. I am the way...

---

---

---

---

NOTES: Christ is the “Way of Holiness” prophesied in Isaiah 35:8 and the “new and living way” spoken of in Hebrews 10:20. He is the only Way upon which man and God meet. There may be many roads that lead to Rome, but there is only one that leads to pardon for sin and a right relationship with God—Jesus Christ.

b. And the truth...

---

---

---

NOTES: Christ is more than a teacher of the truth; He is the Truth—the greatest manifestation of truth to men and the standard by which all other thoughts, words, and deeds are judged. His person and teaching represent the greatest embodiment of truth ever given to man. Any teaching that contradicts Christ or exalts itself as superior to Christ is false.

c. And the life...

---

---

NOTES: John begins His Gospel by declaring that, “In Him [i.e. the Son] was life, and the life was the Light of men” (1:4). In John 5:26, Jesus taught not only that life was through Him, but also that He had “life in Himself.” From the beginning, the Son has been the Mediator of all life to men, both physically and spiritually. He is the True Vine, who alone brings spiritual life to those who abide in Him (John 15:1-6). Apart from Him, there is no true spirituality.

d. No one comes to the Father except through Me.

---

---

---

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

NOTES: This is the great scandal of the Christian faith. True Christianity is very exclusive in that it admits no one to heaven except through Christ and His atoning work on Calvary. The Old Testament saints were justified by faith in the revelation of God that they had received and in the promises of a future hope through the Messiah. Now that the Messiah has come and has fulfilled all the Old Testament prophecies and promises, salvation is found only in His name and in His work of redemption.

2. To ensure that our interpretation of the words of Jesus is correct, we only need to look to a few bold declarations made in the preaching and writings of the apostles. According to the following Scriptures, how did they interpret the person and saving work of Jesus Christ? Is He a savior or the Savior?

a. Acts 4:12

---

---

NOTES: It would hardly be possible for Peter to speak more clearly regarding the uniqueness of Christ and His ability to save. His words are reminiscent of God's great declarations spoken through the prophet Isaiah: "I, I am the LORD, and besides me there is no savior" (Isaiah 43:11); and, "there is no other god besides me, a righteous God and a Savior; there is none besides me" (Isaiah 45:21b). This is the great banner of Christianity. Every realm of creation may be searched, but none can be found worthy of the title of Savior except the Lamb of God.

b. I Corinthians 3:11

---

---

---

NOTES: Throughout the Scriptures, Christ is referred to as the foundation and cornerstone upon which salvation and the Church rest (Isaiah 28:16; Matthew 21:42; Acts 4:11; Ephesians 2:20; II Timothy 2:19; I Peter 2:6). God has laid only one foundation stone, and it is Christ. He alone has God's seal.

c. I Timothy 2:5

---

---

NOTES: The doctrine of salvation in Christ alone is as foundational to biblical Christianity as the doctrine of monotheism (i.e. the belief in only one God). The word "mediator" comes from the Greek word mesítēs, which denotes an arbitrator or go-between. In our present context, it refers to an arbitrator between God and man. The reference to Jesus as "the man" is not a denial of His deity, but is designed to emphasize His humanity in order to provide comfort for the believer. Our Mediator is like us, and He is not ashamed to call us brothers (Hebrews 2:11).

d. I John 5:12

---

---

NOTES: Again, the clarity of this text cannot be questioned. All true spiritual life and any hope of eternal life resulting from a reconciled relationship to God are determined by one's relationship with Christ. "In Christ alone" is the consistent maxim and motto of the writers of the New Testament. A person can disagree with their testimony that Christ is the only Way, but one cannot disagree that it was their testimony!

3. In Acts 5:31 and 11:17-18 are found two important declarations regarding the claim that salvation is found in Christ alone. They prove that Christ is neither simply the Savior of the Jews to the exclusion of the Gentiles nor the Savior of only the Gentiles to the exclusion of the Jews, but that He is God's appointed Savior for all peoples.

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

a. In Acts 5:31, what does the Apostle Peter declare regarding Christ's relationship to the Jews?

---

---

---

---

NOTES: God's exaltation of Jesus is proof that He is God's appointed Deliverer to bring salvation to His ancient people, the Jews.

b. According to Acts 11:17-18, what did the Jewish Christians concede after they heard Peter's account of God's saving work among the Gentiles? Is Christ God's appointed Savior to the Jews alone or also to the Gentiles?

---

---

4. In Romans 1:16, the Apostle Paul makes a very important statement regarding the gospel of Jesus Christ as the one and only means of salvation for all people. Consider the text, and write your thoughts.

---

---

---

---

NOTES: It takes great power [Greek: dúnamis] to regenerate the spiritually dead, justify the sinner, and sanctify the unclean. Such power is found in the gospel alone, which points to Christ alone as the only Savior by whom men can be saved.

Chapter 29: Our Exalted Mediator

The saving work of Christ does not end with His death on the cross; it continues in His exaltation. Christ is the Great High Priest who offered the perfect sacrifice of Himself to satisfy the justice of God and save His people from wrath; but He is also the Great High Priest who stands in heaven on their behalf and lives forever to intercede for them before God. In the incarnation, the Son took upon Himself the humanity of His people so that He might die in their place. The Son now stands in heaven robed in the same humanity now glorified, representing His people before God as their Mediator and Advocate. In the next two chapters, we will look closely at these two roles—Mediator (this chapter) and Advocate (next chapter).

The word “mediator” comes from the Latin verb mediare, which means, “to be in the middle.” The Greek word for “mediator” is mesítēs (derived from the verb mesiteúō, meaning, “to bring about agreement”). The following definitions of “mediator” are helpful.

“One who causes or helps parties to come to an agreement, with the implication of guaranteeing the certainty of the arrangement.” (Louw & Nida Greek Lexicon)

“One that acts between two parties; one who interposes to reconcile two adverse parties; an arbitrator; one who is the medium of communication between two parties, a mid-party.” (Mounce Greek Dictionary)

Webster defines a mediator as “one who is qualified and able to interpose between two parties in order to reconcile them to one another.” In order to be a proper Mediator between God and man, it was necessary that Jesus of Nazareth be both God and Man in one person. He must be fully Man so that He might lay His hand upon man, reveal God to him, and bring him comfort. He must be fully God so that He might lay His hand upon God, be the full revelation of divine majesty, and interpose on man’s behalf. It would be the worst sort of blasphemy to ascribe such power to even the most exalted creature. The majestic seraphim that inhabit the very throne room of God would not even venture to claim to be His reflection, much less stretch forth their hands to claim to be His mediator! Splendid as they are, they dare do little more than bow their heads, cover themselves, and cry out that He alone is holy, holy, holy (Isaiah 6:2-3)!

Mediation is a work beyond the ability of any creature. It is an office that belongs only to Christ! He alone qualifies to stand before God on our behalf, because He alone is the fullness of God in bodily form. He is God in the strictest sense, and He also is a Man like us except without sin.

1. Since the fall of Adam, mankind’s greatest need has been someone who could represent them before God and act as a mediator. Such a representative was man’s only hope for reconciliation with God. This ancient dilemma is clearly portrayed in the book of Job. What was Job’s great complaint in Job 9:29-33? Write your thoughts on the following quotes from this passage.

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

- a. I shall be condemned; why then do I labor in vain? If I wash myself with snow and cleanse my hands with lye, yet you will plunge me into a pit, and my own clothes will abhor me (vv.29-31).

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: Job recognized two very important truths. First, like all men, he was a sinner before God. Second, all his toil to justify himself before God was in vain. In Jeremiah 2:22, God declares, "Though you wash yourself with lye and use much soap, the stain of your guilt is before Me." This is the dreadful reality of those who understand something of both the holiness of God and their own extreme moral failure. Apart from Christ, His atoning sacrifice, His imputed righteousness, and His perpetual mediation, man is without hope.

- b. For he is not a man, as I am, that I might answer him, that we should come to trial together (v.32).

---

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: Job recognized that God is holy—separated from sinners and beyond the reach of man. This is one of the great "first truths" or "foundational truths" regarding the true knowledge of God. God told Moses, "You cannot see My face, for no man shall see Me and live!" (Exodus 33:20). Job recognized this truth. How could he even dare to imagine that he could enter into God's presence? The question remains for Job and us: "How can we approach God?" A mediator is required: One who is comfortable in the very presence of God and One with whom we can find comfort.

OUR EXALTED MEDIATOR

- c. There is no arbiter between us, who might lay his hand on us both (v.33).

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The word "arbiter" is translated from the Hebrew word yakach, which refers to an umpire, mediator, or arbitrator. Job recognized his need for a mediator who was qualified to stand between him and God. In I Samuel 2:25, we read, "If someone sins against a man, God will mediate for him, but if someone sins against the LORD, who can intercede for him?" This truth is the basis of Job's complaint. The proper Mediator would have to be a Man in order to lay His hand upon Job, but He would also have to be God that He might lay His hand upon God. Both of these qualifications are met in Jesus. He is a Man who can sympathize with our weaknesses; and He is also the Son of God who has passed through the heavens and is seated at the right hand of God, daily making intercession on behalf of His people.

2. The Scriptures declare that the greatest need of all men is that of a mediator to stand between them and God. Scripture also teaches that God has met this need in the person of Jesus Christ. What does I Timothy 2:5 tell us about this truth?

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

NOTES: The declaration of “one God” is the great confession of Israel and the Church (Deuteronomy 6:4). To deny that Christ is the only mediator is equal to denying that the God of the Scriptures is the only God. As stated above, the word “mediator” comes from the Greek word mesítēs, which refers to a mediator or intermediary. It denotes one who intervenes between two parties in order to make or restore peace, to form a treaty, or to ratify a covenant. By mentioning the two parties (“God and man”) in a conjunctive relationship, Paul demonstrates the unique requirements of the Mediator. He must possess the fullness of deity in order to draw near to God and be our Advocate (I John 2:1). However, He must also be fully human that He might stand in our legally rightful place and make atonement for our sin, that He might not overpower us with His majesty, that He might make God known to us, and that He might sympathize with our weaknesses (Hebrews 4:15). By placing “man” before “Christ Jesus,” the Apostle Paul is not intending to deny or even diminish Christ’s deity; rather, he is simply giving greater emphasis to Christ’s humanity in His role as the Mediator through whom frail men can draw near to God. Without denying Christ’s deity, Paul is intent on demonstrating that Christ is like us.

3. The Scriptures teach that Jesus Christ is uniquely qualified to be the Mediator between God and man. As the God-Man, He is able to represent both parties and bring about reconciliation between them. What does Hebrews 4:15-16 teach us about this truth?
  - a. For we do not have a high priest who cannot sympathize with our weaknesses, but One who has been tempted in all things as we are, yet without sin (v.15).

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: Christ is the Great High Priest, the ultimate and greater fulfillment of the Levitical high priesthood (Hebrews 4:14). The word “sympathize” is translated from the Greek word sumpathéō [sún = with + páschō = suffer], which means, “to be affected with the same feelings or weaknesses of another.” The KJV translates it, “touched with the feeling of our infirmities.” The word “weaknesses” is translated from the Greek word asthénéia [a = no + sthénos = strength], which denotes weakness, infirmity, feebleness, incapacity, or inability. The Scriptures teach that Christ came in the likeness of sinful flesh (Romans 8:3). This does not mean that His body was sinful, but only that it was subject to all the frailties of fallen humanity. Christ’s body was not a glorious, pre-fall, Adamic body as is often and erroneously supposed. The word “tempted” comes from the Greek word peirázō. Positively, the word refers to trying or testing for the purpose of determining the quality of something. Negatively, it refers to the act of enticing so as to cause one to sin. The latter meaning is clearly intended here. Christ was tempted in all things by the devil and every fallen instrument (man and demon) at his disposal. It is important to note that the verb peirázō appears in the perfect tense. Christ has already been fully and completely tempted in all things as we are. This does not mean that we have faced or will face every temptation imaginable, but that He has. Therefore, He is able to help us in all our circumstances. There is no temptation that He has not already faced and overcome. For this reason, He is said to be “without sin.” This is possibly the most astounding characteristic of the Man Jesus of Nazareth—He was entirely without sin! Christ is the sole person among all of humanity about whom this claim can be made.

- b. Therefore let us draw near with confidence to the throne of grace, so that we may receive mercy and find grace to help in time of need (v.16).

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The word “confidence” comes from the Greek word parrhēsías, which denotes openness, freedom, full assurance, and even boldness. Because Christ truly entered into our fallen human reality, because He was tempted in all things, because He has done away with our sin through Calvary, and because He is truly sympathetic to our plight, we may now draw near with confidence! The Throne of Judgment has been transformed into a Throne of Grace. Since Christ came in the likeness of sinful flesh (Romans 8:3) and was tempted in all things, yet without sin, He is uniquely qualified to sympathize with our weakness and to provide us with the exact kind and measure of aid we need to face every test of our faith and every temptation of the devil.

Chapter 30: Our Exalted Advocate

In His role as Mediator, Christ acts as the Advocate for His people. The word “advocate” comes from the Latin word advocatus [ad = to, toward + vocare = to call] and refers to one who is called to another in order to plead their case or cause. In the Greek, the word translated as “advocate” is paráklētos. It refers to someone summoned or called to another’s side to help or to plead another’s cause before a judge or king. The word may also be translated, “pleader,” “defender,” “counsel for defense,” or “lawyer.” Jesus Christ is the Advocate for His people, and He lives forever to make intercession before the throne of God on their behalf. One of the best explanations of Christ’s role as Advocate is found in the Westminster Larger Catechism, Question 55:

Question: How does Christ make intercession?

Answer: Christ makes intercession by His appearing in our nature continually before the Father in heaven in the merit of His obedience and sacrifice on earth; declaring His will to have it applied to all believers; answering all accusations against them; and procuring [i.e. obtaining or acquiring] for them quiet of conscience (notwithstanding daily failings), access with boldness to the throne of grace, and acceptance of their persons and services [to God].

Before we continue with our study of the Scriptures, it is important to point out that the truth of Christ’s continuous intercession for His people does not mean that He is on His knees before the throne of God begging for mercy on our behalf. He intercedes as One seated at the very right hand of God, as One who is omniscient and knows every need of His people, as One who has all authority to speak on their behalf, and as One who annuls every accusation against them. The following quotes from J. I. Packer (1926-), William Ames (1576-1633), and Louis Berkhof (1873-1957) are helpful:

“The essence of Christ’s intercession is intervention in our interest (from His throne) rather than supplication on our behalf (as if His position were one of sympathy without status or authority).”<sup>23</sup>

“His kingly priesthood is the pleading of our cause, not by suffering and humble supplication on bended knee, as it were, but by gloriously bringing to mind the things which He did and suffered.”<sup>24</sup>

“Christ presents Himself before God as our representative. His perfect manhood, His official character, and His finished work plead for us before the throne of God. All that the Son of God as incarnate is, and all that He did on earth, He is and did for us; so that God can regard us with all the favor which is due to Him. His presence, therefore, is a perpetual and prevailing intercession with God in behalf of His people, and secures for them all the benefits of His redemption.”<sup>25</sup>

OUR EXALTED ADVOCATE

1. Hebrews 9:24 communicates the power and efficacy of Christ’s intercessory ministry on behalf of His people. According to this text, how does Christ’s ministry differ from that of the priests of the Old Covenant? How near is Christ to God? How does this prove the power of His advocacy on behalf of His people?

---

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The priests in the Old Testament entered yearly into an earthly temple to offer animal sacrifices and to intercede on behalf of the people. Having offered Himself once and for all as a sacrifice of infinite value, Christ entered permanently into the very throne room of God and now lives to make intercession to God on our behalf.

2. I John 2:1-2 is one of the most important texts in all of Scripture regarding Christ’s work as Advocate. Read the text until you are familiar with its contents, and then write your thoughts on each of the following phrases.

a. My little children, I am writing these things to you so that you may not sin (v.1).

---

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The fact that we have an Advocate before the Father should not make us apathetic about holiness or careless about sin. On the contrary, it should motivate us to obedience because of the great work Christ has done for us.

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

- b. But if anyone does sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous (v.1).

---

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: Even the most mature Christian is still subject to moral weakness and sin. Therefore, it is our great consolation that we have an Advocate with the Father. The word "advocate" comes from the Greek word paráklētos, which denotes a "helper" or one who is called to speak on another's behalf. Jesus is uniquely qualified for this role because He is righteous and worthy to stand before God.

- c. He is the propitiation for our sins, and not for ours only but also for the sins of the whole world (v.2).

---

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The word "propitiation" comes from the Greek word hilasmós, which indicates appeasement or satisfaction; it refers to a sacrifice given to appease an offended party. Christ is our propitiation in that He offered His life in our place as a sacrifice for sin. His sacrifice satisfied the demands of God's justice against us and appeased His wrath. The sacrifice of Christ was not limited to the Jews or any one people group, but encompasses every tribe and tongue and people and nation (Revelation 5:9).

3. In Romans 8:33-34, we find another important Scripture passage regarding Christ’s intercessory ministry. According to this text, what is the result of Christ’s saving work and intercessory ministry?

---

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The questions, “Who will bring a charge against God’s elect?” and “Who is the one who condemns?” are one and the same. It is as though God were issuing a challenge to every being in the universe, including Satan himself. The reason why no charge or condemnation can be brought against God’s people is two-fold. First, God has justified His people or given them a perfect legal standing before Him. This was accomplished through the perfect life that Christ lived and the death that He died on behalf of His people. Secondly, Christ now sits at the right hand of God as His people’s Intercessor and Defender.

4. In Hebrews 7:23-25, the writer describes not only the power and efficacy of Christ’s intercessory ministry but also its permanence. Summarize the text in your own words.

---

---

---

NOTES: This text leaves little to be explained. By the power of Christ’s endless life, He is able to save forever those who draw near to God through Him. The Reformer Francis Turretin wrote that Christ appears in heaven as a Lamb that was “standing as if slain" (Revelation 5:6) because "His blood is ever fresh and living—of eternal virtue and efficacy."<sup>26</sup>

5. Although the Scriptures do not reveal the exact nature of Christ's heavenly intercession before the throne of God, some clues may be found in His "High Priestly Prayer" that He prayed on behalf of His disciples during His earthly ministry (John 17:1-26). Below is a list of the petitions that Christ made for His people in that prayer. Match each petition with its corresponding text.

Chapter 31: Christ the King

The Scriptures teach that the Son of God emptied Himself of His divine glory and privileges, took up our lowly humanity, and was scandalously crucified on a Roman cross as a sacrifice for sin. The Scriptures also teach that this same Jesus was raised from the dead, taken up into heaven, and exalted to the very throne of God as the King of kings and the Lord of lords.

Upon ascending into heaven, Christ was glorified with the glory that He had with the Father before the foundation of the world (John 17:5). However, there are important differences between His exalted state prior to the incarnation and His present exalted state in heaven. First of all, Christ now reigns as the God-Man. The One who sits upon the throne of the universe is flesh of His people’s flesh and bone of their bone. Secondly, Christ now reigns as the Redeemer King. Through His death, He has redeemed a people for Himself from every tribe and tongue and people and nation, and they will reign with Him forever and ever (Revelation 5:9-10).

JESUS CHRIST IS KING

It is important to understand from the beginning that Christ is not merely a king or like a king; He is the King! In fact, He is the only true King that has ever been! All others who have reigned or will reign are merely faint shadows of His person and office.

1. There are many Old Testament prophecies that predicted that the coming Messiah would be a great King who would rule over the nations. Write your thoughts on the following prophecies.

- a. Genesis 49:10

---

---

---

---

NOTES: King David and the kings that succeeded him were descendants of the tribe of Judah. The Messiah was to come from this lineage (II Samuel 7:12-17). Jesus of Nazareth was a descendant of David (Matthew 1:1, 6; Romans 1:3). Most scholars translate the phrase, “until tribute comes to him” as “until he comes to whom it belongs” and interpret it as a reference to the Messiah, the great King of whom David was only a faint shadow or type.

b. Numbers 24:17-18

---

---

---

NOTES: In Balaam's final oracle, God gave him a revelation of the rise of the Messiah in the distant future. He would not only conquer and rule Moab and Edom, but would also possess and rule over all the nations.

c. Micah 5:2

---

---

NOTES: The prophet Micah predicted that a messianic "Ruler" would be born in the same town as King David (I Samuel 16:1-13). However, the Messiah would be greater than David. Although He would be a Man from David's line, He would also be God, whose goings forth are from the days of eternity.

2. In II Samuel 7:16, a very special promise is given to David and his house (i.e. his descendants) regarding the establishment and endurance of his reign. In Luke 1:31-33, it is clear that this promise was fulfilled through Jesus Christ. Read both texts; explain how Jesus Christ is the fulfillment of the promise made to David.

---

---

3. The writers of both the Old and New Testaments made reference to Jesus of Nazareth as King. However, it is important to ask what Jesus Himself taught regarding the matter. What did He declare to Pilate in John 18:37? What is the significance of His words?

---

---

---

---

---

---

4. In the Scriptures, a name or title often communicates important truths about a person. In the following passages, what are the names and titles ascribed to Jesus Christ, and what do they communicate to us about His kingship?

- a. K_____ of the J_____ (Matthew 2:2). Jesus was a descendant of King David of the tribe of Judah. Though He has been rejected by most of the Jewish people, He is still God's appointed King of Israel (Psalm 2:6; John 1:49).
- b. The H_____ of the K_____ of the E_____ (Psalm 89:27). The Messiah's kingly jurisdiction is not limited to the nation of Israel, but encompasses every nation on earth and all powers beyond.
- c. R_____ of the K_____ on E_____ (Revelation 1:5). The greatest of earthly kings are vice-regents at best. They only exercise the authority that has been granted to them by Christ.
- d. K_____ of K_____ (Revelation 17:14; 19:16). There is no greater title given to Christ to illustrate His supremacy over all creation and His authority over all other so-called authorities.

CHRIST'S CORONATION

The word "coronation" comes from the Latin verb coronare, which means, "to crown or adorn with a garland." According to the Scriptures, the Christ who died for the sins of His people has been raised from the dead and exalted to the right hand of God. He has been crowned as the great King of heaven and earth, and His scepter rules over all.

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

1. Having witnessed first-hand the ascension of Jesus, the apostles were bold in proclaiming its truth to all who would listen. In Acts 2:36 is found a very important declaration made by Peter. What does it teach us about the authority of Christ?

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The omnipotent God of the universe has appointed Jesus of Nazareth to be both Lord and Christ. His decision will not be overturned (Psalm 2:1-6). Jesus is the Messiah of Israel, and He is the Lord over all.

2. In Psalm 110:1 is found an important prophecy concerning the exaltation of the Messiah to the right hand of God as Lord and King.<sup>27</sup> Meditate carefully upon the text, and then write your thoughts.

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The Lord (Yahweh) spoke to David's Lord (the Messiah) and granted Him the right to sit at His right hand and share His authority. This not only demonstrates the superiority of the Messiah over King David, but also is proof of His exalted position as Lord of heaven and earth. Additionally, it assures us of the ultimate victory of Christ over all the forces that oppose Him and His people.

3. Daniel 7:13-14 is one of the most glorious accounts of Christ's exaltation as King that can be found in the Scriptures. Read the text several times until you are familiar with its contents, and then write your thoughts on the following sections.

<sup>27</sup> See Jesus' explanation of this text in Matthew 22:41-45.

- a. I saw in the night visions, and behold, with the clouds of heaven there came one like a son of man, and he came to the Ancient of Days and was presented before him (v.13).

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: Jesus is the Son of Man (Matthew 26:64; Mark 14:62). When applied to men, the term "ancient" denotes decrepitude, feebleness, and weakness. However, when the term is applied to God, it notes His eternity, wisdom, and power.

- b. And to Him was given dominion, and glory and a kingdom, that all peoples, nations, and languages should serve Him (v.14).

---

---

---

---

NOTES: Here we see the extension of Christ's sovereignty. One term is heaped upon another to communicate that Christ has been given all power over all peoples.

- c. His dominion is an everlasting dominion which shall not pass away; and His kingdom one that shall not be destroyed (v.14).

NOTES: Here we see the eternity of Christ's sovereignty. The same limitless sovereignty that Nebuchadnezzar, the king of Babylon, ascribed to the Most High God (Daniel 4:34-35) is now ascribed to the Son of Man, Jesus of Nazareth. An interesting parallel is found in Pharaoh's exaltation of Joseph in Genesis 41:44. Joseph was taken from the prison and exalted to the right hand of Pharaoh, so that no one could raise his hand or foot in all the land of Egypt without his permission. In a similar but infinitely greater manner, Jesus was raised from the dead and seated at the right hand of God in heaven, so that no one can raise a hand or foot in the entire universe without His permission!

Chapter 32: Christ the Lord

Directly related to the kingship of Christ is His sovereignty. He is not merely a figurehead; His lordship is absolute in its authority, infinite in its power, and limitless in its extension. There is no place or creature beyond the reach of His scepter. As Peter boldly declared on the Day of Pentecost, "...let all the house of Israel know for certain that God has made Him both Lord and Christ—this Jesus whom you crucified" (Acts 2:36). One day, every knee will bow, and every tongue will confess that Jesus Christ is Lord!

1. In the Scriptures, a name or title often communicates important truths about a person. What are the titles given to Jesus Christ in the following texts, and what do they communicate to us about His sovereignty or lordship?
  - a. L_____ (John 13:13; Acts 2:36; Romans 10:9; II Corinthians 4:5). This comes from the Greek word kúrios, which denotes a person with authority, such as a chief, a master, or an owner. It was often used as a title of respect, equivalent to the title "sir." In the Scriptures, the word is used to translate the Hebrew idea of God as Lord. It was even used to translate the personal name for God: Yahweh (or Jehovah) (Matthew 1:22; 5:33; Mark 5:19; Luke 1:6, 9, 28, 46; Acts 7:33).
  - b. L_____ of A_____ (Acts 10:36; Romans 10:12). This title communicates the inclusive nature of Christ's sovereignty—there is nothing beyond His reign.
  - c. L_____ of L_____ (Revelation 17:14; 19:16). The greatest among men, angels, and demons are subject to Christ. He is seated far above all rule, authority, power, and dominion (Ephesians 1:20-21).
  - d. L_____ of G_____ (I Corinthians 2:8). Elsewhere, God is called the "King of glory" (Psalm 24:7-10) and the "God of glory" (Psalm 29:3; Acts 7:2). This title therefore communicates not only Christ's sovereignty but also His deity.
  - e. L_____ both of the D_____ and of the L_____ (Romans 14:9). The truth communicated here is that there is no state or realm beyond the reach of Christ's authority. Death provides no escape from His rule.
  - f. H_____ of all R_____ and A_____ (Colossians 2:10). The word "head" comes from the Greek word kephalê, which denotes a physical head. Used metaphorically, it refers to one who is superior, a chief, a leader, or one to whom others are subordinate or subject. By using the two words "rule" and "authority," Paul is pointedly stressing that every other type and kind of authority is subject to Christ.
  - g. M_____ and L_____ (Jude 4). The title "master" comes from the Greek word despótēs, from which we derive the word "despot." The term refers to someone who holds complete or absolute power and authority over another. It is used of God in Luke 2:29, Acts 4:24, and Revelation 6:10.

3. In attempting to comprehend the extent of Christ's sovereignty as He declared it in Matthew 28:18, it is helpful to consider a few Scriptures that speak of the absolute sovereignty of God. In light of the following texts, briefly describe what it means that the Father has delegated all authority to His Son. What is the extent of the Son's sovereignty and power?

- a. II Chronicles 20:6

NOTES: The questions are rhetorical. King Jehoshaphat does not doubt God's absolute sovereignty over all; rather, he is declaring it.

- b. Job 23:13

Chapter 33: Christ the Judge

We have learned that the Scriptures boldly declare that Jesus Christ is the King of kings and that His is the only name by which men may be saved. In this chapter, we will see that the Scriptures further teach that Christ has been exalted to the right hand of God as the Judge of all men. Although this office may be considered an extension of His role as King, it is so prominent in Scripture that it truly ought to be considered separately. A day is coming when all of mankind, without exception, will be judged; and their eternal destinies will be determined only by the Man Jesus Christ. The gospel cannot be understood apart from this truth.

CHRIST'S JUDGMENT AND THE GOSPEL

It is extremely important to understand that the doctrine of judgment is an essential part of all true gospel proclamation. To be true to Scripture, we must proclaim that the same Christ who came to die for the sins of His people will come a second time to judge and condemn those who have rejected His work of salvation.

1. The truth of Christ's return and the judgment of all men through Him is by no means secondary; it is an essential part of any true proclamation of the gospel. How do Paul's words in Romans 2:16 confirm this truth?

---

---

---

---

---

---

2. The Scriptures make it clear that the setting forth of Christ as Judge and the affirmation of future judgment are not optional in true gospel preaching—they are utterly crucial. What does Peter's declaration in Acts 10:42 teach us about this truth?

---

---

---

---

THE DIVINELY APPOINTED JUDGE

It is important to understand that Christ assumed the office of judge by divine appointment. It was the Father's good pleasure and sovereign determination that the world should be judged in perfect righteousness through His Son Jesus Christ. This is another example of how God the Father has always related to the universe through the Son's mediation—the Father created the universe through the Son, He governs the universe through the Son, and He will one day judge all of mankind through the Son.

1. How does the Apostle Paul describe the Lord Jesus Christ in II Timothy 4:1? Write your thoughts on the significance of his declaration.

a. The one who is to J_____ the L_____ and the D_____.

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The phrase "living and the dead" encompasses all of humanity. As Christ is the Lord of the dead and the living (Romans 14:9), so He is also their Judge. Not even death provides an escape from His sovereignty or His sentence.

2. As already stated, God the Father has determined that He will judge the world in righteousness through His Son Jesus Christ. What does John 5:22-27 teach us about this truth? Read the text, and write your thoughts.

---

---

---

---

NOTES: Jesus is not denying that the Father judges; He is explaining that He does so through His Son (Romans 2:16). The Father has given the Son power and authority to judge all of mankind. This great honor bestowed upon the Son is a demonstration of His deity and a reason for us to be careful to give the Son the honor that is due Him. According to verse 23, not only does the Father judge through the Son, but also mankind honors the Father through honoring the Son whom He has appointed as Judge. In Daniel 7:13-14, it was prophesied that the Son of Man (a designation for the Messiah) would be given dominion, glory, and a kingdom—all the peoples, nations, and men of every language would serve Him. His dominion would be an everlasting dominion that would never pass away or be destroyed. Jesus is that Son of Man.

3. We find still another powerful passage regarding Christ's divine appointment as Judge of all men in Acts 17:31. Read the text until you are familiar with its contents, and then write your thoughts.

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: God has sovereignly established a day in which all mankind will be judged, and human history is rushing toward it. This judgment will not be arbitrary or unfair, but will be marked by perfect justice. God has not only appointed a Day of Judgment, but He has also appointed the Man through whom He will judge. That Man is His Son (see also Acts 10:42). The resurrection and ascension of Jesus of Nazareth is proof and validation that He is the Christ, the Son of God, the Supreme Lord, and the Judge of all creation.

THE RIGHTEOUS AND OMNISCIENT JUDGE

To be without error in His judgments, God must be perfectly righteous (without the slightest moral flaw) and omniscient (entirely aware of each and every fact).

The word "righteous" is translated from the Hebrew word tsaddiq and the corresponding Greek term dikaïos. Both terms denote the rightness, correctness, or moral excellence of God. According to the Scriptures, God is an absolutely righteous Being and always acts in a way that is perfectly consistent with His nature. He will never be or do anything that would justify any accusation of wrongdoing. On the day when God judges all men through His Son Jesus Christ, even the condemned will bow their heads and declare that His judgment is right!

The word "omniscience" comes from the Latin word omnisciens [omnis = all + sciens, from scire = to know] and refers to the attribute of possessing all knowledge. God possesses a perfect knowledge of all things past, present, and future; and He possesses this knowledge immediately, effortlessly, simultaneously, and exhaustively. There is nothing hidden from Him. There is never the slightest difference between His knowledge and what actually is. He not only knows all the facts, but He also interprets each of them with perfect wisdom. On the Great Day of Judgment, Christ will judge every man according to His perfect knowledge of all the facts—no sin will be hidden or forgotten. Every creature, every deed, and every thought is always before Him like an open book.

1. In the Scriptures, a name has great significance in that it communicates something about the character of the one who bears it. What are the names given to the Lord Jesus Christ in the following Scriptures? What do these names communicate to us about the righteousness of Christ's judgment?

a. The H_____ and R_____ One (Acts 3:14).

3. In order for the judgment of Christ to be perfectly just, He must be both righteous and omniscient. He must possess a perfect knowledge of the facts of every man's life. Does Christ possess sufficient knowledge to judge all men with perfect justice? What do the following Scriptures teach us regarding Christ's omniscience?

Chapter 34: The Certainty of Judgment

We will bring our study of the gospel to a close with a consideration of the certainty of judgment and a brief description of it. In general, mankind seeks to avoid or even reject the biblical truth of a future judgment. Even among Christians, there is a tendency to ignore the subject in fear of being offensive. For this reason, we must constantly and consistently affirm that, according to the Scriptures and the teaching of Jesus Christ, there will be a future judgment that will determine the eternal destiny of every man. As we have already stated, to be true to Scripture, we must proclaim that the same Christ who came to die for the sins of His people will come a second time to judge and condemn those who have rejected His work of salvation.

THE CERTAINTY AND IMMINENCE OF JUDGMENT

The Scriptures declare that the coming judgment of the world through Jesus Christ is both certain and imminent. This judgment is certain because there is not even a shadow of a doubt in the Scriptures as to whether or not it will come to pass. There will be a judgment; and every man, from the first to the last, will be summoned and tried. This judgment is also imminent in that it could break upon the world at any moment. In the twinkling of an eye and when least expected, Christ will appear a second time; this time, however, it will not be to give His life as a sacrifice for sin, but to judge the world in righteousness and separate His people from those who refused to believe. It is for this reason that the Scriptures are filled with warnings concerning this Great Day and the need for all men to be prepared to meet their God!

1. The judgment of the world through the one Man whom God has appointed (Acts 17:31) is a great and unchangeable certainty. What does Romans 14:10-12 teach us about this truth?

---

---

NOTES: In verse 11, God swears by His own person and name not only that everyone will be judged, but also that everyone will bow their knee and acknowledge both His authority to judge and the rightness of His judgment.

2. It is important to understand that the judgment of all men through Jesus Christ is as imminent as it is certain. God's judgment being "imminent" means that it could happen at any moment. This truth is brought forth powerfully in James 5:9. What does this text communicate to us about Christ's imminent return and the judgment that will follow?

---

---

---

NOTES: Christ the Judge is here portrayed as standing right at the door, poised to push it open and pass through without the slightest warning. This truth demonstrates the urgency with which Christians ought to preach the gospel to the lost and the urgency with which men ought to seek reconciliation with God.

BIBLICAL DESCRIPTIONS OF JUDGMENT

Several descriptions of the second coming of Christ and the great judgment that follows are found in the Scriptures. These insights provide us with a glimpse of that Great Day that is coming upon the world. It is important to note that when Scripture speaks of the Day of Judgment, it is not speaking metaphorically; it is speaking of a real event that will bring history to its end and determine the eternal destiny of every man.

1. In Matthew 16:27 is a brief but powerful description of Christ's second coming and His judgment of every man. Read the text, meditate on its contents, and write your thoughts.

---

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The title "Son of Man" is a reference to the Messiah or Christ (Daniel 7:13-14; John 5:26-27). The earth's history will come to an abrupt end with the coming of the Lord Jesus Christ to judge the living and the dead. In Jude 14-15, the Scriptures declare that the Lord will return with many thousands of His holy ones. At that time, Christ will judge every man according to his every thought, word, and deed. Those who have not been justified by faith will be condemned.

2. In Matthew 25:31-33, we find one of the most majestic Scriptural descriptions of the second coming of Christ and the universal judgment that will follow. Read the text until you are familiar with its contents, and then write your thoughts.

---

---

---

---

NOTES: As stated above, the title "Son of Man" is a reference to the Messiah or Christ (Daniel 7:13-14; John 5:26-27). There is no contradiction between the Son coming in the Father's glory (Matthew 16:27) and coming in His own glory (25:31), for the Son is the radiance of His Father's glory (Hebrews 1:3). We see here, as in Matthew 16:27, that Jesus will return with an entourage of angels in a spectacular display of power and glory. At His return, He will establish His absolute authority; and every individual, from Adam to the last person born upon the earth, will be summoned to stand before His tribunal. Not one nation, race, people, or individual will be absent. At that time, the great mass of humanity will be separated into two distinct groups: (1) the people of God, who will inherit the eternal kingdom that was prepared for them "from the foundation of the world" (v.34); and (2) the wicked, who will be sent away into "the eternal fire prepared for the devil and his angels" (v.41).

3. In Revelation 20:11-15 is found the most awesome and complete description in all the Scriptures of the Day of Judgment. Our considerations of Christ as Judge would not be complete without a thorough consideration of this text. Read the text until you are familiar with its contents, and then write your thoughts on each of the following phrases.
  - a. Then I saw a great white throne and Him who was seated upon it (v.11).

---

THE CERTAINTY OF JUDGMENT

NOTES: Who is on the throne? From Scripture, we know that both the Father (Revelation 4:2, 9; 5:1, 7, 13; 6:16; 7:10, 15; 19:4; 21:5) and the Son (Hebrews 1:3; Revelation 3:21) sit upon the throne. We know that the throne is referred to as the judgment seat of Christ (II Corinthians 5:10) and the judgment seat of God (Romans 14:10). We know that God the Father has appointed a day when He will judge the world in righteousness through the Man Christ Jesus (Acts 17:31). This great revelation before us is not concerned with making a distinction between the Father and the Son—the Father has determined to judge all men through His Son. Its purpose is to prove that man’s final confrontation will be with God Himself.

b. From whose presence earth and heaven fled away, and no place was found for them (v.11).

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: The old world order, which has been defiled by sin and corruption, will pass away; and a new heaven and earth will take its place.

c. And I saw the dead, the great and the small, standing before the throne (v.12).

---

---

---

DISCOVERING THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL

---

---

NOTES: No one is so great that he can refuse the summons to appear before the throne of God, and no one is so small or insignificant that he can hide. Everyone—without exception—will be there on that Great Day.

- d. And books were opened; and another book was opened, which is the book of life; and the dead were judged from the things which were written in the books, according to their deeds (v.12).

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: Those who have refused the pardon offered through the gospel of Jesus Christ will be judged according to their deeds. The fact that the phrase “according to their deeds” is repeated again in verse 13 is significant. It is as though the Apostle John were making every effort to awaken men’s consciences to the utter sinfulness of their deeds and the terrifying reality that they will undoubtedly be judged according to them.

- e. And the sea gave up the dead which were in it, and death and Hades gave up the dead which were in them; and they were judged, every one of them according to their deeds (v.13).

---

NOTES: There will be no place to hide on the Great Day of Judgment. The Scriptures declare that men will cry out for the mountains and rocks to fall upon them to hide them from the presence of the One who sits on the throne (Revelation 6:16). However, their pleas will go unanswered. There will be no place to hide.

- f. Then death and Hades were thrown into the lake of fire. This is the second death, the lake of fire. And if anyone's name was not found written in the book of life, he was thrown into the lake of fire (vv.14-15).

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

NOTES: This is the tragic end of all those who refuse the will of God and His offering of salvation through His Son—eternal separation from the favorable presence of God in hell.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY

HeartCry Missionary Society at a Glance:

The HeartCry Missionary Society began in 1988 in the country of Peru with a desire to aid indigenous or native missionaries so that they might reach their own peoples and establish biblical churches among them. Since then, the Lord has expanded our borders to include not only Latin America but also Africa, Asia, Eurasia, Europe, the Middle East, and North America.

The goal of our ministry is to facilitate the advancement of indigenous missionaries throughout the world. Our strategy consists of four primary components: financial support, theological training, Scripture and literature distribution, and the supply of any tool necessary to facilitate the completion of the Great Commission.

We currently support approximately 250 missionary families (along with a number of ongoing projects) in over 40 nations around the globe.

Introduction to HeartCry

HeartCry Missionary Society was founded and still exists for the advancement of four major goals:

- The Glory of God
- The Benefit of Man
- The Establishment of Biblical Churches
- The Demonstration of God's Faithfulness

1: The Glory of God

Our first major goal is the glory of God. Our greatest concern is that His Name be great among the nations from the rising to the setting of the sun (Malachi 1:11) and that the Lamb who was slain might receive the full reward for His sufferings (Revelation 7:9-10). We find our great purpose and motivation not in man or his needs but in God Himself; in His commitment to His own glory; and in our God-given desire to see Him worshiped in every nation, tribe, people, and language. We find our great confidence not in the Church's ability to fulfill the Great Commission, but in God's unlimited and unhindered power to accomplish all He has decreed.

2. The Benefit of Man

Our second major goal is the salvation of a lost and dying humanity. The Christian who is truly passionate about the glory of God and confident in His sovereignty will not be unmoved by the billions of people in the world who have “had no news” of the gospel of Jesus Christ (Romans 15:21). If we are truly Christ-like, the lost multitude of humanity will move us to compassion (Matthew 9:36), even to great sorrow and unceasing grief (Romans 9:2). The sincerity of our Christian confession should be questioned if we are not willing to do all within our means to make Christ known among the nations and to endure all things for the sake of God’s elect (II Timothy 2:10).

3. The Establishment of Local Churches

Our third major goal is the establishment of biblical churches. While we recognize that the needs of mankind are many and his sufferings are diverse, we believe that they all spring from a common origin: the radical depravity of his heart, his enmity toward God, and his rejection of truth. Therefore, we believe that the greatest possible benefit to mankind comes through the preaching of the gospel and the establishment of local churches that proclaim the full counsel of God’s Word and minister according to its commands, precepts, and wisdom. Such a work cannot be accomplished through the arm of the flesh, but only through the supernatural providence of God and the means which He has ordained: biblical preaching, intercessory prayer, sacrificial service, unconditional love, and true Christ-likeness.

4. The Demonstration of God’s Faithfulness

The fourth and final goal at HeartCry is to demonstrate to God’s people that He is truly able and willing to supply all our needs according to His riches in glory. The needs of this ministry will be obtained through prayer. We will not raise support through self-promotion, prodding, or manipulating our brothers and sisters in Christ. If this ministry is of the Lord, then He will be our Patron. If He is with us, He will direct His people to give, and we will prosper. If He is not with us, we will not and should not succeed. Admittedly, our faith has always been meager and frail throughout the years; but God has always been faithful. As one dear brother puts it: our God delights in vindicating even the smallest confidence of His children.

The Challenge

As Christians, we are called, commissioned, and commanded to lay down our lives so that the gospel might be preached to every creature under heaven. Second only to loving God, this is to be our magnificent obsession. There is no nobler task for which we may give our lives than promoting the glory of God in the redemption of men through the preaching of the gospel of Jesus Christ. If the Christian is truly obedient to the Great Commission, he will give his life either to go down into the mine or to hold the rope for those who go down (William Carey). Either way, the same radical commitment is required.
